CAMPBELL CONDEMNS SCHOOL AGITATION

'Unethical' Pollution Teaching Hit

University and school teachers who get their students "uptight" about pollution were criticized in the legislature Monday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

A university teacher made a rather strong criticism of Campbell in return.

Campbell referred to "professors in their ivory towers and teachers in their cubicles" getting students "uptight" about pollution. The charge came during debate on second reading of a bill to amend the Pollution Control Act.

He cited a case where teachers had third-grade pupils sign technical letters protesting pollution and called it an "unethical and completely intolerable performance."

This "complete disregard" for teaching had "done damage" to youngsters and would take a long time to undo, Campbell said.

He also predicted B.C. will be the cleanest place on earth by 1975.

Bell, an assistant professor in the Uvic biology department, said if B.C. becomes the cleanest place on earth it will probably be due to increased concern for the environment by students and teachers.

"If he (Campbell) thinks his knowledge of ecological matters is sufficient for him to make decisions on his own,

CAMPBELL
. . . teachers intolerable

then I'd say it's time for us to kick him out of office," Bell said.

"The evidence in existence now points pretty clearly to the direction the human race is heading.

"We're on a crash course unless we do something to remedy the situation.

"The only place this is going to happen is in the universities where these things are being studied and analysed then the conclusions brought forward and made public."

Bell said he is satisfied with the system under which the provincial government acts as B.C.'s ultimate resource manager.

But he added universities provide a service of inestimable value by studying proposed government action in an ecological context.

BELL
. . . minister irresponsible

Dr. Harold Knight, management consultant and member of the Greater Victoria School Board, said teaching of ecological concepts in schools is imperative.

"If you're not going to get it in the schools where are you going to get it?"

Knight does not want to see "pollution" studies as a subject isolated from other areas of knowledge.

A study of the environment or pollution should include a look at social and natural sciences where they are relevent, he said, to give students a "broad view" of where society is heading.

"What we've been doing in the schools and universities is to have students study these subjects in isolation, then expect them to have an integrated understanding.

"We have a tendency to pour a lot of information into these kids and forget the basics."

Knight said Campbell was educated under what he called "the old isolated system."

Books and periodicals on ecology and generally concerned with environment are now available in libraries of secondary schools in the Greater Victoria school district.

Liberal Leader Pat McGeer ridiculed the government's efforts so far in pollution control, suggesting a provincial holiday be declared when the first prosecution is made

EUROPE TODAY:

A Continent In Transition

By PETER C. NEWMAN

Special to the Times

BERLIN — Even on a short month's journey across the face of Europe this winter's end, in fleeting conversations with politicians, students and academics, one can sense a mood of collapsing alliances, a twilight of ideology which is drawing the continent beyond the postwar period into a perplexing time of transition.

Newman

Nations which remained virtually frozen in their international alignments since the last shot of the Second World War was fired, a quarter of a century ago, suddenly are stirring with new ideas.

The generation of Europeans now reaching for power is rejecting old causes and empty banners, searching for fresh loyalties and definitions that spring from roots firmer than the tattered residues of cold war cliches.

"The world is satiated with dogmas, but people are hungry for life," writes Milovan Djilas, the Yugoslav philosopher, accurately reflecting the change.

Young European politicians are emerging, ready to act more out of instinct and conscience than knowledge and experience — though only one certified member of this new breed, Willy Brandt of West Germany, has so far seized power.

What prompts this transformation is the collapse of confidence in nearly all of the touchstones that set the framework of Europe's postwar politics. A continent that was for 25 years transfixed by its stage-centre prominence in the contest between "the American way of life" and "the Communist conspiracy" has become restless and wants to turn in its cold war costumes.

The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia in the summer of 1968 shocked the sensibilities of cold war warriors in both camps. It revealed the Warsaw Pact to be nothing more than an extension of Russian military colonialism and showed NATO U.S. military-industrial complex.

Both sides have been backing away from these alliances ever since. Russia no longer bothers to pretend that its partners have any meaningful say, and the United States admitted last week (through Secretary of State William Rogers, speaking on an English television program) that it would begin withdrawal of its NATO troops from Europe in 1971.

☐ ☐ ☐

Though they haven't formally said so, the Americans intend to liquidate within the decade their NATO commitment, which now costs them $14 billion a year.

This is in line with President Richard Nixon's policy statement that "the postwar period in international relations has ended."

To many enlightened Europeans, this means a welcome end of the alliance, the decent burial of the indecent Pax Americana which implied an American moral superiority most Europeans have been unable to feel since the Vietnam war.

Sihanouk Declares He'll Fight Way Back

Times News Services

PEKING — Deposed Cambodian leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk said Monday he will try to fight his way back to power, and informed sources in the Cambodian capital, Phnom Penh, say the conservative bloc now in power will declare the nation a republic to forestall any non-violent bid by Sihanouk to regain control.

The Japanese correspondents who reported Sihanouk's pledge to fight for his position quoted him as saying he will form a government of national unity and "national liberation army" that would have the support of "brother nations," presumably meaning North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

A statement issued by the rightist political-military block led by Gen. Lon Nol which ousted Sihanouk in a bloodless coup last week said he and all members of his family have been banned from returning to Cambodia.

Sources indicated he likely would be imprisoned if he set foot again on Cambodian soil.

DRAFT NOT READY

The Cambodian National Assembly in Phnom Penh is reported today to have discussed the possibility of establishing a republic to prevent a political return to power by Sihanouk, but no definite decisions were made.

The sources indicate the final draft of a bill to eliminate the monarchy has not yet been completed.

The stage for such a transition already was set with the dismissal of Sihanouk last Wednesday while he was in Moscow, reportedly seeking Soviet support for a voluntary withdrawal from Cambodia of invading North Vietnamese troops.

Sihanouk's declaration of war against the bloc which overturned his administration coincided with a statement from Hanoi that the Vietnamese communists will back

GERM WARFARE RENOUNCED

GENEVA (AP) — Canada promised today it will never use biological weapons and will use chemical weapons only if they are used against it or its allies.

Canadian delegate George Ignatieff told the 25-nation disarmament conference his government is ready to abandon the latter reservation if an effective worldwide ban on chemical warfare can be concluded.

He submitted a statement which said Canada "never has had and does not now possess any biological weapons and does not intend to develop, produce, acquire, stockpile or use such weapons at any time in the future."

It said Canada also has no chemical weapons.

(The Canadian government has recently admitted testing of germ and chemical weapons is being done at a Suffield, Alberta, military research station, but said the tests are necessary for defensive reasons.)

Soldiers Jeered By Mail Pickets

From AP-Reuters

Jeers from pickets and a few minor scuffles greeted troops as they sorted mail today following a mobilization call by President Nixon of more than 30,000 servicemen, national guardsmen and reservists to break the six-day strike.

However, the back-to-work movement in the strike gained strength as employees in Chicago and Detroit began returning to their jobs.

There were also some hints of a possible break in the key New York strike.

L. C. Burke, a Brooklyn station vice-president of Local 1 of the Mail Handlers Union, said: "We might as well go back, the soldiers are in and we don't have much to gain staying out."

Day of the Big 'Mail Massacre'

Times News Services

NEW YORK — "You've heard of the Boston massacre and the My Lai massacre. Now it's going to be the New York mail massacre."

So predicted Specialist Ronald Gray, 22, of Oxford, Miss., as he rolled out of bed for mail-sorting duty with fellow servicemen at New York postal facilities.

"It's going to be a farce. I'm a medic. I don't know a thing about the post office department. Nobody knows what they're supposed to do," he said.

At least one letter carrier agreed.

"The soldiers will be able to move mail, all right. They'll be able to move it from one side of the building to the other."

"I'm glad they're calling them out," said another striker. "They'll find out how valuable postal workers really are."

Soldiers turned mailmen will walk in on what may be the world's biggest mess: Tons of grime-covered mail, a sea of letter sacks, mountains of packages and rows of unfamiliar equipment left idle by wildcat strikers. Between 40 and 60 million pieces of mail are stacked up in New York area offices.

Priority Letters First

They will be expected to begin moving priority mail, drugs, welfare cheques, tax refunds and first-class letters, under the watchful eye of several thousand postal supervisors who have remained on the job. The soldiers — their number has not been disclosed—are also supposed to clear "illegal picket lines" so that regular employees who want to come back can do so.

New York City has about 34,000 mailmen—most of them out on strike. The president said as many troops as needed would be brought in, and that he would authorize soldiers for other post offices, if needed.

If the soldiers do what mailmen are supposed to do, they will drive trucks, unload mail trucks and airplanes, sort, distribute and prepare mail either for delivery or public pickup.

Face Nightmarish Task

Despite the optimism of some people that zip codes will make the job easier, the soldiers face a nightmarish chore that will make memorizing serial numbers and general orders simple by comparison. Most business mail is number-coded but it still must be broken down, several times, and the soldier-clerks will have to learn just what region, state, city and zone each of the 750-plus zip codes represents.

For a soldier who couldn't master zip codes, which one official said is equivalent to "memorizing the first two pages of the telephone book," letter distribution would be even tougher. He would have to resort to a map, and the directory of zip codes, a 500-plus-page manual in hard-to-read type.

There are several Johnson Citys, one in TX (Post Office talk for Texas), another TN, the abbreviation for Tennessee, and another named Johnston City, in Illinois (IL). If the zip code was 37601, the clerk would know it was Tennessee and route it to that sectional centre. If he didn't know zip, he would have to consult his directory.

Rail, Air Strikes Face U.S.

By The Associated Press

Here is the latest situation in work stoppages in progress or threatened against the United States mail, air traffic and rail systems:

Mail—About 30,000 military men went on mail-sorting duty in New York today after President Nixon declared a national emergency. At Chicago and elsewhere, mailmen began trickling back to work as the strike which has tied up the postal service across the country entered its sixth day.

Air Traffic — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has threatened to "withdraw services" from key terminals and snarl the orderly flow of airplanes Wednesday in a dispute over the transfer of three men from Baton Rouge, La.

Rails — Labor Secretary George P. Shultz has warned Congress that further delays in settling a 15-month-long railroad contract dispute could lead to a wildcat rail shutdown. Congress has ordered a 37-day strike moratorium that expires April 11 and is considering making the industry's last offer a binding settlement.

Mail Drivers Go to Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Twenty-eight truck drivers of G. Lapalme Inc. were sent to trail Monday after preliminary hearing on various charges of delaying the mails.

The men are among some 450 Lapalme employees who began work slowdowns Feb. 3 in protest against a postal department decision that Lapalme's exclusive contract to deliver mail in Montreal will be split among five other companies April 1.

Charges against the 28 include wilfully leaving behind mail bags, slowing down deliveries and abandoning trucks loaded with mail.

KIDNAPPED

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The air attache of the United States embassy in this Dominican Republic city was kidnapped today, the third American diplomat abducted in Latin America since September.

. . . INSIDE EUROPE

The fact is that the new Europeans have swallowed their gratitude to the Americans for helping to vanquish Nazism, sponsoring the Marshall plan, etc.

They are not particularly interested in currying the Americans' favor, and certainly not anxious — except for its strictly material manifestations — to copy "the American way of life."

What thoughtful Europeans have suddenly realized is that both the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. are now operating entirely in their own national interests, rather than as champions of two opposing super-natonal ideologies launched on great crusades for the allegiance of mankind.

The young Europeans are trying to opt out of any future struggle between the brutal machinations of the Kremlin and the strange behavior of American power overseas, a struggle which seems to operate according to an unequal mixture of Old Testament Calvinism and New Jersey corporation law.

For eastern Europe, the Czechoslovak tragedy provided a stark and terrible demonstration that the dark visions of Karl Marx will never come true. Communism has not proved to be a substitute for nationalism; it took tanks to enforce its dictates on the workers of Czechoslovakia.

By reviving the Stalinist doctrine that the only test of a true Communist is his loyalty to the Soviet Union, Brezhnev and Kosygin have set in motion a gradual but certain fragmentaton of their European Empire.

"Communism," according to Milovan Djilas, "has not only failed to become a religion, but it has also disintegrated a world ideology. The communist parties of the future will have no alternative but to be, at the very best, what in fact they already are: socio-political movements that strive in collaboration with others to achieve certain definite patterns of society and government under their own national conditions."

Djilas might have added that communism has also proved itself incapable of adjusting to modern technology.

Soviet achievements in space have obscured the distance by which Russia lags behind in other areas of economic achievement. Cyril Black, a British political scientist, has established that in terms of per capita economic achievement the U.S.S.R. has not overtaken any country since the revolution of 1917, with the possible exception of Italy.

Russian agriculture remains dangerously under-productive, employing 45 per cent of the country's labor force, compared with an average of 14 per cent for eastern Europe.

And so, as the countries of both eastern and western Europe begin a gradual withdrawal from Russian and American influence, their leaders will have to shape their own national destinies — a process that began last week at the brief, dramatic encounter between the two premiers of a divided Germany, when they met at Erfurt to begin redrawing the map of a new Europe.

. . . CAMBODIA MOVE

The North Vietnamese statement, broadcast by Radio Hanoi and monitored in Hong Kong Monday night, said that "we are determined to support the just struggle that the chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk and the Cambodian people are waging" against the new regime in Phnom Penh.

Meanwhile today in the Cambodian capital United Press International correspondent Max Vanzi reported official sources as saying the administration in Peking, where Sihanouk is in exile at present, has indicated support for the new regime.

According to that report fourteen Cambodian foreign missions have pledged support for the conservative new regime. Moscow is the only one remaining faithful to Sihanouk, the sources say.

An estimated 60,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops are deployed in areas of eastern Cambodia adjacent to South Vietnam. The Cambodian army totals about 35,000 men, most of them ill-equipped and poorly trained.

The timing of Sihanouk's declaration and the Hanoi statement appeared to indicate that the prince has been assured by North Vietnam that its armed force would move in his behalf against his successors. The consequences of such a move, observers submit, would be to ignite a wholesale war in Cambodia, perhaps prompting its new leaders to seek U.S. support.

Though China has so far refrained from comment, the fact that Sihanouk's statement was issued from Peking immediately makes suspect the Phenom Penh report that Chinese support has been thrown over to the new Cambodian regime.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

Doctors know that changes from hot to cold, from wind to calm, from rain to dryness and back again work as a stimulant to our bodies. And that's why people who live on the North American continent have more get-up-and-go than people almost anywhere else in the world.

When people from Canada and the United States visit their cousins overseas the inhabitants there are very much impressed by the great energy and enthusiasm displayed by the North Americans. They have more bounce.

The characteristic may be due in part to good health, but mostly it is a result of the weather we have here. The inhabitants of this continent are the result of the greatest selective migration of people in recorded history. They found a very stimulating climate. A new kind of culture developed that was based to a very great extent on that climate.

As a result, we became a people who just couldn't be anything else but active and enthusiastic.

Fist Fight Averted As PM, CNTU Clash

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's patience was tested, perhaps to the limit, Monday as labor leader Michel Chartrand directed a spray of unprintable insults at Mr. Trudeau and the cabinet.

The fusilade came before, during and after a meeting at which the Confederation of National Trade Unions, a Quebec-based labor federation, presented its annual brief to the federal government.

The prime minister wheeled around, took a step towards Mr. Chartrand, and said: "I don't need anyone to protect myself from you."

Mr. Chartrand, president of the 67,000-member Montreal council of the CNTU, describes himself as a socialist and has supported Quebec separatist movements. Last December he was acquitted on a charge of sedition arising from a speech he made about the Quebec government's controversial language bill.

TO LOSE CONTRACT

The CNTU represents 450 mail truck drivers in Montreal who will lose their jobs next week when the postal contract of G. Lapalme Inc., their employer, expires.

About 100 drivers paraded before Parliament Monday, accusing Postmaster-General Eric Kierans of trying to break the union and put them out of work.

As the union leaders filed into the committee room, most put aside their placards but Mr. Chartrand unfurled his. It bore a symbol of the separatist Parti-Quebecois.

Mr. Kierans just grinned as Mr. Chartrand suggested that he should be jailed for delaying the mails.

Mr. Chartrand called Mr. Trudeau and Labor Leader Bryce Mackasey "glorified slaves of the United States."

He addressed Mr. Trudeau in English, a separatist insult to French-speaking Canadians who are federally-inclined. Mr. Trudeau told him to "speak proper French."

CNTU President Marcel Pepin began reading the brief but was constantly interrupted by his voluble subordinate. When Mr. Mackasey asked Mr. Chartrand not to interrupt, Mr. Chartrand shouted "go to hell" repeatedly at the federal labor minister.

OFFERS TO TOSS HIM OUT

"If you want him thrown out, we'll do it," Mr. Trudeau said to Mr. Pepin, who replied that Mr. Chartrand was his right-hand man. He succeeded in quieting him and read the brief.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson then made some remarks. Mr. Chartrand told him to speak in French and Mr. Pepin again stepped in to quiet him.

As the meeting ended, Mr. Chartrand accused Mr. Trudeau of having a British Columbia youth thrown in jail for insulting him. Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Chartrand was inventing things.

"You are raping the population," Mr. Chartrand replied. "I don't lie. You, you are a Christ of a liar.

"You are a slave of the United States . . . too slack to discuss true problems."

At a preliminary hearing in Vancouver Aug. 22, Justice of the Peace Don Stewart, rejected the complaint, saying evidence was "inconclusive."

Jesmer testified that the prime minister had hit him after Jesmer called him a creep.

Mr. Chartrand referred to the mail truck drivers and last months' Canadian unemployment figures.

"You are a gang of prostitutes," he said of the cabinet. "The prostitutes are more respectable because they are useful."

"You are a genuine fanatic," Mr. Trudeau said.

"I'm not a fanatic," Mr. Chartrand yelled. "You, you're out of your mind, my friend."

Mr. Trudeau was walking out the door, where two uniformed Commons guards had been standing throughout the meeting, when Mr. Chartrand made the reference to goons.

"Go away with your goons. You put guys in jail, you threaten to beat them up when you are up on stage. . . ."

That was when Mr. Trudeau spun around.

Traffic Death Finding Thursday

An inquest into the traffic death last Thursday of 42-year-old Bela Dallosk 1317 Gladstone, is expected to end Thursday.

Dallos, who was under care for mental illness, died under the wheels of a truck driven by William Hodgson, 3781 Saanich Road, on Bay Street near Government.

Hodgson told the inquest Monday night he didn't notice Dallos on the sidewalk.

"It seemed all at once I had a man more or less dive under the front of my truck," he said.

"I had a look at him diving. I immediately hit my brakes and came to a stop."

Dallos was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

His brother, Sandor, of 1317 Gladstone, said Dallos had tried many times to kill himself. He had appeared quite normal on the day of his death but disappeared for a time when the two were out together.

Psychiatrist Dr. Pierre d'Estrube said Dallos was suffering from schizophrenia of a paranoid type. Dallos' physician, Dr. Andrew Ross, said Dallos had been admitted to Riverview hospital in New Westminster twice and discharged on both occasions. During the first time, in 1968, he had tried to take his own life.

ATTEMPT FAILS

d'Estrube said an unsuccessful attempt was made to get Dallos admitted to the Eric Martin Institute five days before he died.

He had been called to Royal Jubilee Hospital to see Dallos who had been taken to the emergency ward.

"I gather he had made an attempt to leap from the window in the cafeteria where he was having coffee before I got there," he said.

"I felt he was ill enough to be admitted. I phoned the Eric Martin Institute and found it was over-filled and over-brimming.

"To compound matters and troubles a window had been broken and it diminished the bed capacity by yet another bed."

He decided the best way to cope with the situation was to put Dallos, already responding to an intramuscular tranquilizer shot, on to a drug program and commit him to the care of his family.

He said psychiatrists "fly by the seat of our pants" because there are many people who are disturbed and who are not admitted and "we have to do the best we can to make arrangements such as I have described in committing a patient to the care of his family.

"It is possible to keep these people operating outside of a mental hospital but this is always a gamble."

The inquest is expected to conclude Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Victoria Law Courts when coroner Edmond St. Jorre delivers his charge and the jury gives its finding.

. . . MAIL MEN

It takes about a year or two for a distribution clerk to become fully qualified at his job. In a big city like New York, he is responsible for learning between 5,000 and 10,000 "schemes," which can be local addresses, areas, or parts of states.

If the soldier-mailmen work at it long enough, they may match the post office standard of 40 letters sorted per minute. A machine can do it slightly faster, and it doesn't get tired. It takes several months to learn to operate a letter-sorting machine.

Officials hope that the army can do a passable job of moving priority mail, but they admit it won't be done as fast or as accurately as by a trained postal clerk.

Soldiers assigned to window duty will have to learn about the different classes of mail, postage rates and regulations as to size, contents and wrapping. A lot of mail will probably be held at the post office. There is a plan to package mail for large apartment buildings, deliver it, and leave the distribution to the management.

Nixon Sets $1.5 Billion To Aid Desegregation

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon earmarked today $1,500,000,000 during the next two years to help U.S. public schools cope with court-ordered desegregation and improve education in areas hurt by racial imbalance.

In a major policy statement on the school desegregation problem, Nixon announced that his proposal meant a re-ordering of priorities on the domestic scene.

He said he would ask Congress to divert $500,000,000 from previous budget requests for domestic programs in the 1971 financial year beginning July 1. He also said he had ordered $1,000,000,000 to be budgeted for the same purposes in the following fiscal year.

Nixon said his aim is to make school desegregation easier and more effective, to raise the standard of predominantly black schools and to promote inter-racial contact for pupils in predominantly white schools.

Nixon said the federal government's policies would not require support for transporting pupils by bus beyond normal geographic school zones for the purpose of achieving racial balance.

The president drew a distinction between de jure segregation-racial separation condoned by public officials in the South as a matter of policy—and de facto—segregation caused by housing and economic patterns.

Opposing demands by civil rights groups that a strict racial balance that the neighborhood school would be deemed by the federal government to be the most appropriate base for compliance.

"Few public issues are so emotionally charged as that of school desegregation. . . . None is more important to our national unity and progress."

Reaffirming support for the 1954 United States Supreme Court decision that deliberate segregation of students by race in the public schools is unconstitutional, Nixon said his purpose is to help clarify questions on which the court has not yet spoken definitively.

He said, for instance, that the Supreme Court recently ruled that every school district is obliged to terminate dual systems at once and operate only unitary schools. But it dealt only in general terms with what constituted a unitary system, he said.

Nixon said he summarized the weight of court opinions as follows:

"There is a constitutional mandate that dual school systems and other forms of de jure segregation be eliminated totally.

MENTIONS FLEXIBILITY

"But within the framework of that requirement an area of flexibility—a rule of reason—exists, in which school boards, acting in good faith, can formulate plans of desegregation which best suit needs of their own localities.

"De facto segregation, which exists in many areas both North and South, is undesirable but is not generally held to violate the constitution.

"Thus, residential housing patterns may result in the continued existence of some all-Negro schools even in a system which fully meets constitutional standards.

"But in any event, local school officials may, if they so choose, take steps beyond the constitutional minimums to diminish racial separation."

Nixon cited statistics showing that in the last year alone the number of black children attending southern schools held to be in compliance with the law has doubled—from less than 600,000 to nearly 1,200,000.

PROBLEMS ARISE

But there were often serious problems. Sometimes racially-mixed schools brought a community greater inter-racial harmony, but sometimes racial tensions were heightened and racial frictions exacerbated.

Nixon said progress toward school desegregation is part of two larger processes—the improvement of educational opportunities for all American children and the lowering of artificial racial barriers in all aspects of U.S. life.

One of the mistakes of the past, he said, had been to expect the schools not only to educate but to accomplish a social transformation.

"If we are to be realists, we must recognize that in a free society there are limits to the amount of government coercion that can reasonably be used . . ."

Nixon said that in light of housing patterns in many places in the nation full and prompt school integration in every such community was impractical.

Seal Pup Clubbing 'Cruel as in Past'

GENEVA (Reuters) — A Swiss action committee for the protection of seals has accused the Canadian government of failing to enforce regulations forbidding the killing of seal pups and the use of clubs in hunting.

The Geneva-based committee said one of their observers in the Gulf of St. Lawrence cabled that 25,000 seal pups had died in the hunt there between Friday and Sunday.

The observer, Brian Davies, said the seal pups were clubbed to death and the hunt was as bloody and cruel as in the past. "It would seem, therefore, that the new regulations are not being observed at all on the spot," the committee said.

Canada Protests Russian's Actions

OTTAWA (CP) — Actions of a Soviet second secretary among Canadians of Estonian descent are considered "prejudicial to the improvement of Canada-Soviet relations," the external affairs department said today.

It said A. E. Ritchie, undersecretary of state, has summoned Soviet Ambassador Boris P. Miroschnichenko to complain about actions attributed to Mikhail A. Murnikov.

The action was being taken after complaints from a number of Canadians of Estonian descent and after a formal complaint received earlier today from the Estonian Central Council in Canada.

A departmental spokesman said Mr. Murnikov is a second secretary in the consular—or business—portion of the Soviet embassy and has been in Canada since November, 1965.

He said the department had been pondering what action to take as a result of earlier complaints about the actions of Mr. Murnikov in circulating among Estonian-ancestry citizens.

Receipt of the letter dated March 20 prompted Mr. Ritchie to summon the Soviet ambassador to say Mr. Murnikov's actions are "keenly resented" among such Canadians and they are to cease.

He did not elaborate on what actions were involved.

The spokesman was asked about a published report that complaints had also been received about Vladimir R. Kaluzhney, a Soviet first secretary. But he said he is "not aware of any complaint received about Mr. Kaluzhney."

He said the department is aware that the first secretary has made a number of acquaintances among members of Parliament, government officials, parliamentary reporters and others.

A National Effort Needed

THE OBJECTIONS OF ORGANized labor to the federal government's policies on control of inflation have the defect that labor spokesmen continue to reject one of the key parts of the program, namely voluntary restraint in wage increase demands. By refusing cooperation in keeping wage increases in line with productivity, labor denies the government the use of a powerful anti-inflationary factor. It is unfair under such circumstances to charge that the government's policy will not work.

Labor's objection to voluntary restraint is in contrast to the recent declaration of many management interests, meeting with the federal government, that price increases would be on a restricted basis in conformity with Ottawa's request. The alternative could well be price and wage controls enforced under legislation—a costly and onerous procedure heretofore imposed only in the emergency of war. In addition to the difficulties of enforcement and the armies of inspectors required, such controls invite black markets and other attempts to avoid restrictions.

The labor stand is complicated, of course, by the fact that the arguments are not based only on the usual economic criteria but in part on a new social approach to workers' income. The case involves a dilution of the traditional concept of a worker's skills as subject only to the law of supply and demand, and introduction of an element of right to share in produced wealth regardless of the degree of participation of the worker. This may well be the philosophy of the future, when the guaranteed annual income embraces even those who take no part in the productive process at all. But it adds a difficult factor in the midst of a national effort to control an economy which has speeded up too much in certain respects and has resulted in a rapid and continued decrease in the value of the currency.

That rate of decrease has now reached a point at which it calls for drastic measures. The penalty of further inflation will be seen in still greater hardships on pensioners and all who have savings or fixed incomes. In the long run, productivity per man per dollar can be the only real solution. But such devices as expanded credit facilities encouraging purchases on income which has not yet been earned or paid, and wage increase demands which seek to beat the inflationary spiral for this group and that at the expense of the bulk of the public and the stability of the economic system, can only add to the pressure.

Inflation will do nothing to better the overall situation of any wage earner. It is good sense to support a serious national effort to find a solution.

Quality and Quantity in Foreign Aid

RECENT ESTIMATES TABLED in the House of Commons state that Canada's official foreign aid will climb $25 millions in the coming fiscal year to a $363-millions total but the boost is really little more than a nudge. The increase represents a slowdown in the aid growth and falls short of the 19 per cent annual increase recommended by the Pearson Commission on International Development. And our total aid figure of $363 millions casts an even paler glow, considering that $150 millions of that sum is composed of loans, not grants.

Another disturbing facet of Canada's foreign aid is that out of a total external aid budget of $289.4 millions for the fiscal year 1968-69 only $186.3 millions was expended. This gap between allocations and disbursements is the highest in three years. No one would deny the world's crying need for all the aid it can get, yet Canada continues to sit on a portion of its foreign aid eggs like a brooding hen.

President Maurice Strong of the Canadian International Development Agency counters this argument by saying the government has deliberately slowed the process of expenditures to permit re-organization for much larger aid programs in future years. This is putting the chicken before the egg, especially when the painfully slow climb of past aid is examined. Mr. Strong is only stating the obvious when he says that any aid program should be carefully planned and efficiently carried out. But Canada has been in the aid business long enough to have a good grasp on the logistics involved.

This is evident in the glossy 55-page booklet with full-page illustrations describing CIDA's activities in 1969. Canada's aid deeds are well chronicled on textured paper stock. But a country that ranked last in percentage of gross national product devoted to foreign aid among the 16 nations members of the Development Assistance Committee in 1968 should not splurge on public relations booklets of self-aggrandizment.

Canadian aid in the past has been effective. As a British Honduran official put it: You come, you build and then you go away. This type of praise is often denied other industrialized countries who find that the hand that gives is often bitten. While Canadian aid is usually free of ideology and, by definition, more acceptable, there is not enough of it. In 1968 (the most recent figures available) small countries such as Belgium, Denmark and Portugal surpassed Canada in aid as a percentage of their GNP. Noting our vast resources, the nations of the third world, along with many Canadians, may wonder why we cannot match our present quality with a larger quantity of aid.

A Sensible Idea for Celebrations

TO CRITICIZE THE WORLD Fair concept is tantamount to heresy in a technocratic age when people cannot wait for the newest jumbo jets to wing them to the latest collection of surrealistic plastic sculptures and scale model nuclear energy plants. Of course a world's fair is much more than this and Canadians can point to Expo 67 as the pace-setter for all world exhibitions.

But a group of Cambridge, Massachusetts, planners intent on designing a suitable celebration for the United States bicentennial in 1976 have an idea that should make mankind pause for thought in the wake of Osaka, Montreal, New York, Brussels and Chicago—exhibitions which the New York Times' Tom Wicker calls ". . . gaudy monuments to extravagance and vainglory." With the cities of Washington, Boston, Philadelphia and Miami competing for the site of a U.S. world exhibition, the planners suggest a high-speed rail transportation link between the competing cities coupled with environmental projects in each place.

Under the suggested theme, "Bringing Our People Together," United States citizens and foreign visitors would not see one city choked with tourists and a compendium of modern technology but a large slice of American life and achievement. This approach would leave behind a functional piece of technology rather than a muddy field of dismantled dreams. Eschewing the Expo tag, the planners suggest Polis 76, with "Polis" defined as the city in its ideal form—a community devoted to man's effort to live comfortably with himself. It is a noble theme and an ingenious scheme that mankind and the United States should take to heart in this decade in which man is threatened mainly by his own creations.

NIXON'S OBLIGATION

By C. L. SULZBERGER

Diking the U.S. Isolationist Tide

IT is fortunate that President Nixon is a shrewd politician and therefore unlikely ever to face such a showdown with the Senate as that unsuccessfully confronted by Woodrow Wilson just half a century ago. On March 19, 1920, a band of angry legislators revolted against Wilson's visionary plans; rejected the Versailles Treaty and association with the League of Nations, and pointed the United States once more along an isolationist road.

Sulzberger

Isolationism from an outside world fled by their forefathers had been a basic tenet of Americans. However, with unconscious imperialism, this was unilaterally extended to the entire Western Hemisphere, bringing near-war with France over Mexico and actual war with Spain over Cuba.

Diplomatic excursions abroad were rare and temporary — like Theodore Roosevelt's peacemaking efforts between Russia and Japan, after the United States itself had acquired Asian interests by seizing the Philippines.

The big initial dent into the isolationist legacy of George Washinton was made when America joined the allies fighting Germany in World War I and for the first time sacrificed much blood and energy on another continent. Wilson, who had led the country into conflict somewhat inadvertently, hoped to encourage from that conflict's ashes the phoenix of collective security represented by the League.

His dream however, was tarnished by European jealousies, undermined by secret treaties, weakened by the President's own failing health and judgment, and finally scotched by a determined band of Senators.

Despite Japan's savaging of China, Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia and the Spanish Civil War, Franklin Roosevelt held America to its chosen course of hear, see and speak no evil.

Only after Hitler's defeat of France and the sudden awareness that, if Britain followed, a massively armed Europe with vast fleets could assail North America, did Washington really abandon vestigial isolationism and put its back to a juggernaut which finally crumbled Germany and Japan.

Postwar Participation

World War II was followed by no rejection syndrome. On the contrary, the United States took the lead in trying to forge a new ring of collective security, sponsored the Bretton Woods monetary agreement and the United Nations and even made the mistake of lobbying intensively and successfully to put the U.N. in New York.

Both Democratic and Republican administrations deliberately involved the nation in a vast set of international commitments pledging assistance beyond over-all U.N. obligations to almost 50 nations of five continents.

It was inevitable that the pactomania which featured the 1950's should have produced a sour reaction when tested and priced in the 1960's. Today Nixon's principal foreign policy task is to insure that his reaction is controlled.

For still within the nation there exists what anthropologists call a petrified instinct, a useless relic from bygone ages, which would seek retreat to a neo-isolationist haven that cannot exist in this tightly squeezed, turbulent world.

An earth shrunk to nothing by modern communications won't allow its wealthiest and strongest component to escape; it requires intervention in virtually all its problems. This need not necessarily imply military intervention — nor, for that matter, non-intervention. As far as that goes, Talleyrand wrote: "Non-intervention is a political and metaphysical term and means about the same as intervention."

Whether the United States intervenes with active armies (as in Vietnam), inactive armies (as in Europe), aircraft and spooks (as in Laos), dollars and grain (as in India), or trade pacts (as in Japan), its multi-faceted overseas commitments cannot be wholly severed.

John Paton Davies, an unusually wise American ex-diplomat, has written: "The new intervention attempts also to be opinion-forming abroad. Reacting to the world-wide ideological offensive of the Communists, we have joined battle for men's minds in alien lands."

Nor, depite the present angry mood of many senators, is there anything ignoble about that. Nixon's problem is to prevent Congress from seizing the helm he is constitutionally charged with guiding, just as Senators seized it 50 years ago.

The philosopher Vico wrote: "Governments must be conformable to the nature of the governed." In this sense the President must conform by trimming and tacking at times; but he must never knuckle under to currents of temporary frustration that would make the United States a lonely never-never land.

FROM TORONTO

By HAROLD GREER

Hobbling Ontario's Press Gallery

RELATIONS between the press and the Hon. Frederick McIntosh Cass, the Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, have never been what one could call smooth and easy. Mr. Cass is a soldier, barrister and magistrate by way of background and a bit of a martinet by way of personality, while reporters, as everyone knows, are rather loutish fellows with scant respect for tradition and little sense for the dignity of occasion. Suffice it to say Mr. Cass and the Legislative Press Gallery have been at daggers drawn since Mr. Cass became Speaker in 1968.

Greer

This would concern the public not a whit but for Mr. Cass' latest gambit in the game of thrust and parry. He has proclaimed the legislative lobbies out of bounds to the press. Reporters will not be allowed into the lobbies to talk to ministers and members, nor may they be invited in.

The Press Gallery is up in arms, particularly since Mr. Cass, in announcing his edict to the Legislature, appeared to suggest that the Gallery agreed with it. "I have discussed it with the Press Gallery," Mr. Cass said. "They are quite satisfied that there should be some sacrosanct place for members and I would ask the co-operation of the members in having their interviews in other than in the east or west lobbies."

Newsmen Aroused

If anyone in the Press Gallery has expressed such satisfaction to Mr. Cass, he hasn't confessed to it. The membership was unanimous, at an emergency Gallery meeting, in its opposition; the only argument has been over what tactics to pursue to get the Speaker to change his mind. There may be some political gathering places, such as the cabinet and caucus rooms, which the press recognizes as "sacrosanct" (although one can even get a debate over that) but certainly the legislative lobbies are not amongst them — and to them journalists have traditionally had more or less unhindered access.

At Westminister, such access is limited to the Lobby Correspondents on condition that anything they hear in the lobbies is not attributable. At Ottawa, lobby privileges are specifically granted to members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery. Tacitly, this has been the case here until Mr. Cass' pronouncement, although the privilege has never, apparently, been spelled out.

Congestion

Mr. Cass, of course, has his reasons and some of them are not without validity. In the last several years, the number of radio and television reporters with attendant tape recorders and portable lights and cameras has increased considerably with the result that meetings with ministers in the lobbies can turn into rather massive affairs which impede passage and generally inconvenience other members.

But that aspect was settled last year when the Press Gallery agreed the lobbies should not be used for press conferences or "en masse" interviews.

There are probably quite a few members, perhaps a majority, who feel that parliament needs the press as much as the press needs parliament and that Mr. Cass' edict violated their privileges as members. "I feel as a member it is an infringement on my rights when I cannot talk to an individual member of the press in the lobby," he was told subsequently by James Trotter (L., Parkdale). "It is a nuisance to have to go and stand outside when I could sit quietly and talk to some one . . . I suggest you count on us to use common sense."

But with Mr. Cass, unfortunately, common sense has to be spelt out in rules and regulations and it is a difficult question to codify, much less get agreement on. There is no problem with press conferences, interviews en masse and large assemblages: the press gallery has already agreed they should be held elsewhere. But when does an interview become too large?

This issue is not so frivolous as it may seem: it goes to the core of the question — the public's right to know. The easiest way for a politician to avoid that question is to avoid the press, and some of them become very adroit at it. But sooner or later they must come into the lobbies and that is where the press catches them. Beyond the lobbies there are too many escape routes. Take the lobbies away and the press's ability, such as it is, to inform the public will greatly suffer.

View Royal Problem

It is my opinion that the main reason there is a problem in View Royal due to faulty waste water disposal systems is that, for the past 12 years (to my knowledge) the Health Department has taken virtually no action to trace and request connection of faulty systems even in the most blatant cases.

For the past few years I have been urging the Metropolitan Board of Health to assist in this direction. I realize it is not a simple problem, but doing nothing is not likely to improve the situation.

About a month ago there were some promising activities, the health department carried out a number of dye tests. We wondered if the offenders would be informed that they should take corrective measures within a reasonable time.

However, better things were in store, and it appears I have been chosen for the grand opening. In the Times of March 19 on Page 27, my home, 309 View Royal Ave., is the only one mentioned as an offending establishment.

I was surprised to be informed in this manner and find it regrettable that the information was not more accurate. I quote from the item, "The owner had stated before last December's unsuccessful referendum that inexpensive adjustments had remedied the situation." This is just poppycock. They must have the wrong house.

The "effluent seeping into a ditch" I believe is also a misleading statement which I intend to investigate further. I think it is associated with a surface drainage problem at the large, recently-installed disposal system nearby. This problem has now been largely corrected.

I have no way of knowing for sure why I was "chosen" but I will outline a few opinions I have expressed on the subject which may give a clue.

I am not necessarily opposed to sewers provided there is adequate treatment but I am opposed to deciding a project which will have such a drastic effect on our local development without proper assessment of the situation and full consideration given to all relevant factors and alternative courses of action. If we need sewers we must have proper planning and zoning first and it must progress so that a fair share of the costs will be borne by the developers, etc., who profit by it.

I understand some speculators are getting a bit nervous. I bear them no ill will, but I don't think the people of View Royal should be railroaded into signing a blank check for their benefit. — J. White, 309 View Royal.

Confidence in Librarians

I do not profess to be an authority on library matters but I feel that I am at least as qualified as the gentlemen who have been criticizing the librarians.

In the first place, they do not seem to understand that a library is part of our educational system and not a business.

In their wisdom, or lack of it, they called in efficiency experts.

I suggest that by far the best plan would have been to discuss the matter with the librarians, who from personal experience I know to be conscientious, hardworking people, whose main objective is service to the public.

The charge that the librarian played politics is ridiculous. The shoe is on the other foot.—A. P. Rayment, 4936 Old West Road.

Anti White Paper

How alarming it is that Members of Parliament David Anderson and David Groos say in your paper of March 7, 1970 regarding the full page "White Paper" advertisement, "The average Canadian would benefit from it. Unless they also speak out they will lose these benefits by default to higher income pressure groups."

May I point out that single taxpayers making more than $4,000 a year will have their taxes increased with the proposed White Paper. Apparently the so-called "higher income pressure groups" start there.

All political parties and all good Canadians believe that the less fortunate should have more assistance. This is not the real issue. We should not be deceived by the attractive cover on the package. Behind this popular recommendation are frightening economic tax experiments that could change Canada into a radical socialistic state.

I recommend that Groos, Anderson and others who wish to be enlightened, read "The Benson Iceberg" by I. H. Asper (Clarke, Irwin). — Colin M. Brown, 250 Queens, London, Ont.

Looking Back

From the Times of March 24, 1910:

The Canadian government has decided to approve the Waterways Treaty with the United States as drafted in 1908. The original treaty was approved by Canada, but in the course of its passage through the American Senate a rider was added providing that existing riparian owners on the St. Mary's River would not be affected. Canada declined to accept this rider.

France Awakening to the Shame Of African Outcasts on Doorstep

By BORIS KIDEL

The French government's conscience has at last been stirred by the plight of 50,000 workers from Black Africa who live on the outskirts of Paris in sordid shanty towns.

Jacques Chaban-Delmas, the prime minister, was profoundly shocked when he visited the African ghettos mushrooming on the city's outskirts. After seeing whimpering children in unheated shacks and dozens of Africans huddling in cellars, he promised that his government would act at once to cure this social disease which has become a growing discredit to France.

Within three years, he promised, all of the 55,000 estimated to be living in these intolerable conditions would be resettled in new houses built with government funds.

The tragedy of five Africans who died asphyxiated by fumes in their miserable little dormitory on a freezing winter night has forced the government to focus its attention on the African workers. These Africans, who mainly come from Mali, Mauritania and Senegal, constitute the most under-privileged section of France's huge foreign labor force.

Today, about three million foreigners, mostly North Africans, Italians and Spaniards, are working in France. And each year their number increases with 250,000 new arrivals. Because two-thirds of them come here clandestinely or posing as "tourists", successive French governments have ignored them.

Their illegal status has served as an alibi to neglect the social problems created by the presence of an underpaid caste of foreign workers. While Europeans and the majority of North Africans eventually manage to integrate themselves in reasonable jobs, the Africans remain outcasts.

Arriving here with great expectations straight from the bush in the holds of banana freighters, they are completely unprepared for life in an industrialized country. Only the most menial jobs in the building trades or as roadsweepers are open to them.

Since they land in France without labor permits they become the victims of unscrupulous employers who pay them wages well below the official minimum. Seldom do they earn more than $135 a month.

Ordinary rents or even the small payments demanded for bed in the few scattered homes for immigrant workers sponsored by the authorities are beyond their means. To have a roof over their heads they are either driven to search for a place in the shanty towns or they must seek the help of a new type of profiteer, the "sleep merchants", as they are being called here.

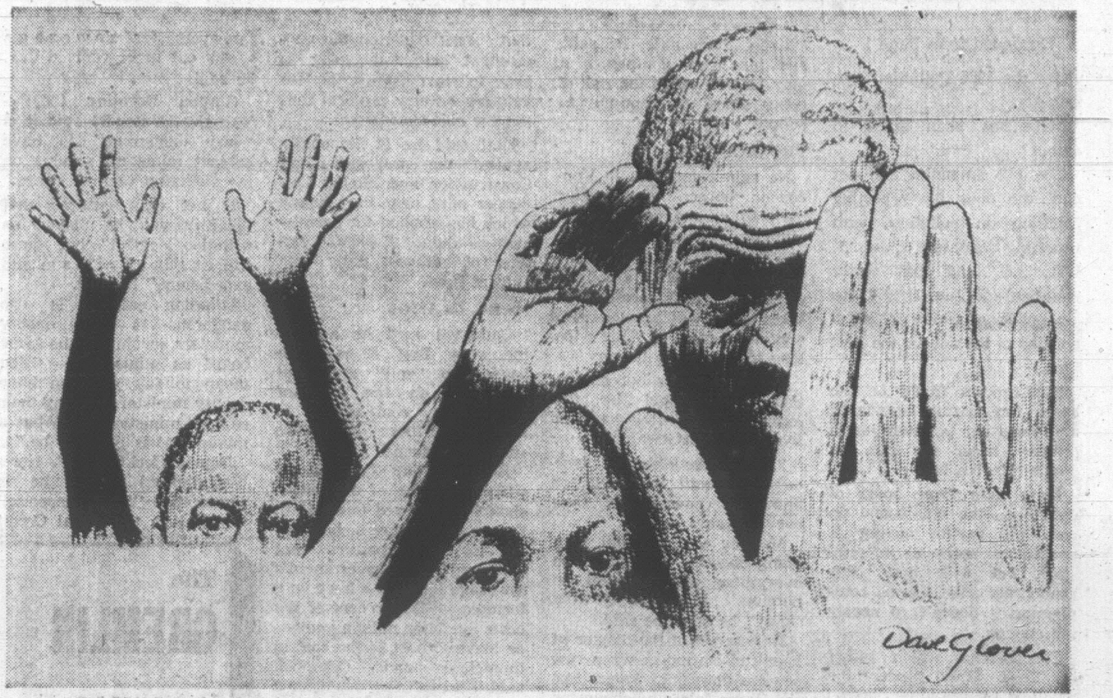
They are landlords who make fortunes out of providing beds for African workers. Frequently Africans themselves may buy up abandoned factories and shops or decrepit houses to turn them into dormitories. To make a maximum profit they pack their clients like sardines on triple-decker cots into the available space.

Usually even windows are blocked to provide additional bed space. Police have found 70 men living in a room where 10 would have experienced discomfort. To obtain admission an African worker must first pay his landlord an entrance fee of about $35. Monthly rents vary between $15 and $25. one thriving "sleep merchant" who runs a whole chain of dormitories earns an annual $90,000 from his unfortunate fellow Africans.

In many cases they are without light or heating because landlords fail to pay their electricity bill. At a former chocolate factory in Ivry, 500 Africans have been living by candlelight for five months, constantly exposed to the risk of fire. At another factory police found 700 Africans who had only five lavatories and two taps of drinking water at their disposal.



It is, above all, general indifference rather than racial antagonism that has doomed the Africans to this existence. Even the danger of epidemics has apparently caused no special concern to the authorities. Officials claim that Africans are a particularly difficult case among immigrant workers.

Even more than others, they are set on saving their earnings to send home to ther families. When decent and reasonably priced rooms are offered to them they frequently turn them down because they are unwilling to spend the few extra francs.

What also hampers resettlement, according to these officials, is their determination to stick together. Men from the same village or region refuse to be separated. They prefer to stay in their unheated factory rather than be rehoused individually.

Whether Premier Chaban-Delmas's drive to eliminate shanty towns and dosshouses will be successful is highly uncertain. The French government has been fighting a continuing battle to free Paris from this plague. No less than 210 shanty towns have been destroyed since 1964 and their occupants, some 97,000 people, settled in new homes.

But the unabating influx of foreign labor causes them to spring up again on the city's periphery. Increasingly, officials are pressing for stricter application of immigration laws. Nobody disputes that France's economy needs the assistance of foreign labour. However, the inflow, it is said, must become more controlled and only those in possession of work contracts should be admitted.

In any event, it is pointed out, the population explosion in North Africa during the coming decade will force the French government to impose new barriers to immigration.

Misuse of Environment: It's Happened Before

By WALTER SULLIVAN

Some 1,300 years ago one of the great civilizations of pre-Columbian America, atop Monte Alban in southern Mexico, went into a catastrophic decline.

The reason, some suspect, is that it had inadvertently destroyed its own environment.

Now an archeological project nearby is uncovering the aftermath of that downfall. The excavations have given rise to hopes that the true cause may be established.

Not 'Contaminated'

The site is the first to be found that represents exclusively — that is without contamination by artifacts from other periods — the cultural period known as Monte Alban IV.

That period followed the decline of the civilization whose flat-topped pyramids and giant plaza rest on the summit of Monte Alban overlooking the modern city of Oaxaca. The excavations are taking place at Lambityeco on the highway from Oaxaca to Mitla.

The new excavations have shown that the seeds of a new flowering had already been planted there in the seventh and eighth centuries A.D., even though it did not reach its climax, in the massive structures of Mitla, until 600 years later.

The excavations are being carried out under John Paddock, director of the Institute of Oaxacan Studies of the University of the Americas in Mexico City. The Institute is based at Mitla.

The excavation site is of special importance, in Paddock's view, not only because it fills a gap in history but also because it represents a period of cultural decadence and revival. He hopes the finds at Lambityeco will help explain "the phenomenom of decadence, which surely is a matter of the most urgent interest to us today."

The meagre evidence in hand, Paddock said in a recent interview, suggests that a combination of factors best summarized as "misuse of the environment" caused the fall of the earlier Monte Alban civilization.

Through deforestation and single-crop agriculture, he believes the inhabitants inadvertently degraded the land until it could no longer support the great metropolis on and around Monte Alban.

'Much to Tell Us'

Paddock has written:

"We are interested (for the sake of our own tradition's future) not only in decadence, but also in recovery from it; and Lambityeco has much to tell us about both."

There are dozens — perhaps scores — of large mounds within a radius of a mile or so. A practice excavation with students from the university was carried out in 1961, but full-scale excavation did not begin until 1968. So far, what appear to be the adjoining many-chambered homes of two ruling families have been uncovered.

Several remarkable features have been brought to light. Tombs within the platform that supported one of these homes are decorated with sculptures apparently carved in burnt limestone plaster when the latter was still soft. This technique was used by the Maya, but not by the Zapotecs of the Monte Alban culture.

Pottery Shows Link

Furthermore, pottery of the so-called fine orange type, made by the Maya in Yucatan, has been found at the site, indicating previously unsuspected cultural and trade links.

Another discovery has been the ingenious manner in which the ancient residents of this community solved a waste disposal problem. Broken bits of pottery, or shards, littered most early sites, but the residents of Lambityeco used them as reinforcing material, setting them edgewise into the abode beneath the lime-cement plaster of their floors.

Laborers and student archeologists are using the same technique in their restoration work. The shards are all about the same size, and one wonders if the women of the household, when a pot became chipped or cracked, exuberantly smashed it to provide the men with building material.

Mayan Fortress

The uppermost rampart at Lambityeco is decorated with a repetitive geometric design that clearly anticipates the far more elaborate designs that adorn the great structures at Milta. A surprising development, however, has been the timetable that has emerged from dating by carbon analysis.

This, Paddock said, has shown that the great hilltop fort overlooking Milta was built about 1385. The other structures there also appear to date from the 14th century. Yet a half-dozen carbon dates obtained from corncobs, wood and charcoal excavated at Lambityeco all lie with the seventh or eighth centures.

This implies that Monte Alban fell several centuries earlier than had been believed. It leaves a gap of six centuries before the construction at Mitla — "a gap," said Paddock, "that we find rather embarrassing to fill."

STIRRINGS IN THE PRESS

By DOUGLAS FISHER

Critical comment about the Davey inquiry into the mass media says that it's been too general, that without a sharp focus toward reform and change the hearings are putting a lot of blah on the record, much of it showing publishers and proprietors to be in favor of motherhood, democracy and their own wisdom.

Well, there's one piece of evidence available that the hearings may trigger change within the media. It comes from activities within the Toronto Daily Star.

A number of the paper's reporters were shocked that the publisher, Beland Honderich, would say to the Davey committee that the Star was a reporter's paper. They responded by taking him at his word. Some three dozen reporters signed a manifesto setting out some problems of the paper from the viewpoint of reporters. The recommendations include means of consultation with reporters which would do something about the Star penchant for editing and rewriting reporters' stories out of their original nature.

This manifesto was not organized by the Guild. It was not signed by all reporters. In fact, some were not given an opportunity to sign it. My information is that most of those who signed it, including members of the Star bureaus outside Toronto such as Ottawa, would be ranked as top-notch reporters.

How has management reacted? My informants tell me that the managing editor, Martin Goodman, is enthusiastic, so much so that he began to name delegates to consultation meetings. What will probably emerge is a form of participation in decisions regarding news policy and treatment, somewhat like the practice in French dailies. If it does, and it works effectively, it will certainly open up similar approaches by reporters on other major papers.

Our Song, the Anniversary Dirge

By RUSSELL BAKER

Mother and dad sat in the porch swing, glasses of ginger ale in hand, while the children serenaded them on their 20th anniversary with "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

"Tell us, mother and dad," piped little Ivan between choruses, "what is marriage?"

"You are 19 now, little Ivan," said dad, "and that's old enough to know what marriage is, so I shall tell you. Marriage begins with $600 worth of furniture you can't afford, a used car, the hope of a promotion and the understanding, never expressed, that even the best people get divorced nowadays.

"Marriage" said mother, "is 10,000 washdays, 10 dozen worn-out can openers, 23,000 fried eggs and a phone call at sundown notifying you that you will have to eat alone that night."

"And that's not all, kids," said dad. "Marriage is wedding anniversaries, year in and year out."

●

"Marriage," said mother, "is a birthday with no flowers and a subscription to 'Popular Mechanics' for Christmas."

"Gosh," said sweet Dora, "I don't known whether I'd like that or not. How long does marriage last?"

"Well," said dad, "one way of measuring it is that it's six stays in the hospital long. In some cases it has lasted as long as 9,000 martinis and 725 hangovers."

"Marriage," said mother, "often seems, however, to drag on forever, particularly during those vacations in Spain that never work out."

"I should say," dad suggested, "that the best way to understand how long marriage is would be to try imagining that you've seen all the television you ever hoped to see, and then have to see it all again on reruns while sitting at home during summers you had originally meant to spend cruising the Aegean Sea."

●

"Wow!" Ivan said. "If it's like that, what do people get out of marriage?"

"That's a silly insensitive question, isn't it, mother?" dad said. "Why, you get blurred vision, sagging abdomen, failed liver, fixed bridges and frozen vegetables prepared seven nights a week by the woman you love in a house you can call your own after 25 years of labor, provided it isn't condemned by the highway engineers to build an ever more efficient transportation system for dispersing the population in the event of nuclear attack."

"And what's more," said mother, "you get lovely little babies who grow up and take care of our nation's wonderful colleges with all the money that mother and dad would otherwise just throw away on vacations in Spain and summers in Italy."

"I read somewhere that after people get married they live happily ever after," said Dora. "What is living happily ever after?"

"Well," said mother, "living happily ever after is discovering a new washday miracle, finding a plumber who will come when the pipes burst and hearing dad say there's no football game on television this weekend."

"Living happily ever after," said dad, "is taking the car to the garage and being told it only needs $69 worth of work."

"And," said mother, "it's going to the doctor for your annual checkup and being told that you are good for at least one more year."

"And it's getting a letter from the school saying that tuition is only being increased by $300 this year," said dad.

"There's plenty of fun," said dad. "Saturday nights there's sitting home playing solitaire while wondering if the police will call to say one of your children has wrecked the car."

●

"And," said mother, "there's going out New Year's Eve and being asked by handsome widowers to dance and wondering whether you dare say yes because your legs are killing you."

"And there's sitting in the old porch swing sipping ginger ale and listening to your hair turn gray on your anniversary," said dad.

"Gosh!" said Ivan and Dora, and went out to celebrate still being alive.

When they were gone dad threw away the ginger ale and made two double martinis and mother said, "If we can just keep the kids from getting married for two more years we ought to be able to afford a summer in Italy by 1972."

what have income tax returns got to do with the Canada Pension Plan?

Well, both your payments to CPP and the benefits you may receive are based on your income. No record of income, no basis for benefits. Disability pensions became payable for the first time in 1970. Make sure you are covered by making the proper contributions and helping us record them.

Other CPP points to watch at income tax time:

1. Self-employed people earning over $800 a year must contribute to CPP. Benefits are calculated on earnings reported on income tax returns. So to be eligible for CPP benefits, be sure to file an income tax return.
2. Employees have CPP contributions deducted by employers. Be sure your earnings and CPP contributions are correctly reported on the T4 slip you get from the employer. Match your Social Insurance Number with your wallet card. Advise your employer at once if there are any errors.
3. Make sure your return is properly completed and contains all the necessary information. If you didn't earn enough to pay into CPP ($600) but deductions were made, file an income tax return and get your money back.

Campbell Attacks Teachers for Pollution Approach

under the 1967 Pollution Control Act.

None has been made to date.

The bill amending the act puts the onus for reporting pollution on polluters, with reporting deadlines of Jan. 1, 1971, for land and water pollution and Jan. 1, 1972, for air pollution, which is incorporated in the act for the first time.

The reports would be the basis for setting standards and licensing polluters on a priority basis as soon as possible in the future.

More than three hours of debate on the bill wound up with all parties giving it unanimous approval in principle, but with both New Democrats and Liberals complaining it doesn't go nearly far enough.

Corporations which might be fined $1,000 under the pollution act would be "lashed with a shoelace" McGeer told the House. The fines were entirely inadequate, he said, and for large companies it may be well worth the risk of being fined to continue to pollute.

PROSECUTION

He said companies in Vancouver burned waste after dark to escape detection by officials enforcing the anti-pollution laws.

His suggestion for a holiday when the first prosecution takes place was greeted with opposition cries of "that's too long to wait for a holiday."

On Campbell's prediction that B.C. would be the cleanest place in the world in five years, McGeer said:

"It was the cleanest place on earth until that minister and this government took over 18 years ago."

McGeer said the bill is a blank cheque — "It could be everything and it could be nothing." It says only what "may" be done, he said.

He warned of the danger of hepatitis outbreaks when raw sewage flows into waters like the Gorge Inlet and suggested B.C. study the solid waste treatment plants operated in 101 cities around the world.

Ernie Hall (NDP—Surrey) took issue with Mines Minister Frank Richter who said last week there appears to be little interest in exploration and drilling for oil in the Strait of Georoia.

"When you've plastered the map with (exploration) permits you don't need any more applications," Hall said, noting that Canadian Pacific Oil and Gas has placed orders for six underwater boats.

APPLICATIONS

"If that doesn't indicate that industry is interested, nothing does," he said, adding that "thousands of acres" of offshore exploration permits have been granted by both provincial and federal governments.

Hall called for use of "cost-benefit analysis" to decide whether permits should be granted for industrial pollution. This would ensure that all the future permits should be granted for industrial pollution. This would ensure that all the future costs to society and the environment are weighed against the gains of new industrial expansion.

"I don't think you can do justice to the unborn generations until you use social cost accounting," he said, adding that "somebody" on the government side was going to have to start saying "no" to industry on new projects that fail the cost-benefit test.

Hall said he is personally against the proposed Utah Construction and Mining Ltd. copper mine near Port Hardy which has applied for permission to dump 93,000,000 gallons of effluent daily into Rupert Inlet.

MORE GLAMOR

Campbell said he accepts the view that it is often harder to "sell" municipal taxpayers on the idea of sewers in comparison to something more glamorous such as an arena.

But the day has passed when that sort of distinction should be allowed to stand in the way of progress, he said. As for municipalities that criticized the government's sewerage cost-sharing formula — 75 per cent of the costs over two mills a year — as leaving most of the cost in municipal hands, Campbell said it doesn't say much for a municipality's commitment to pollution control when two mills is too high a price.

Even a $150 annual levy on taxpayers for sewerage works out to 41 cents a day, he said.

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby Edmonds) said it is "very dangerous" to have cabinet ministers serving on the Pollution Control Board.

It not only ensures that "politics will be played on pollution control" but there will be "favoritism and expediency," he said.

Dowding said it is also dangerous to have deputy ministers serving on the same board as ministers — "You mean to say you can have deputy ministers defying their cabinet ministers? — What a mixup that is going to be."

Dennis Cocke (NDP—News Westminster) said he is afraid that "free enterprise" won't allow the Social Credit government to tackle pollution . . . When the chips are down, you retreat."

The government has been "dodging" the decision to pay up for anti-pollution measures, Robert Strachan said, adding that "no cost is too high" to prevent pollution.

He said he would vote for the bill, but expressed doubt whether the government would enforce the regulations. Anti-pollution legislation, Strachan added, must be "firm, effective and equitable," yet the government had not met any of these conditions by any standard.

The former NDP leader said taht the E. B. Eddy match company, situated in Ottawa, was thinking of moving to B.C. because of less stringent anti-pollution laws here. "That is the kind of reputation we have in industry."

If the Eddy company was considering a move to B.C. to escape strict pollution laws, Campbell roared, "I say stay home." If anything Campbell said, the requirements in B.C. would be tougher, not easier.

"A matchless performance," cracked Dowding.

Car Pollution To Be Curbed By Jan. 1

Target date for provincial controls on automobile emissions is Jan. 1, 1971, for new vehicles, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said Monday.

But there is no certainty at this time that the target will be reached, he said in remarks during debate on a bill amending the Motor Vehicle Act to place vehicle pollution control in provincial hands.

Both crank-case exhaust and evaporation emission would be subject to control, he said, noting that new American-model cars have had the crank-case devices in the past few years.

The debate on the bill was adjourned by the New Democrats for further study of the bill.

The New Democrats voted against second reading of a bill amending the Elderly Citizens' Housing Aid Act. It raises the initial local share of the cost of boarding home projects to a 15 per cent down payment from 10 per cent and increases the provincial share from one-third of the cost to 35 per cent.

Opposition Leader Dave Barrett said the bill is an example of the "tight money policy" on which Premier Bennett attacks Ottawa and the 15 per cent down payment would be "prohibitive."

LIBERAL SUPPORT

Bob Williams (NDP—Vancouver East) said the provincial government should take the initiative in elderly citizens' housing instead of leaving it to "service clubs and a few dogooder organizations." The Liberals supported the government on the vote.

SAILING JIMMY JUNK TO VICTORIA

'Nice Way to Go 'round the Bend'

QUINN
. . . awed by storm

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

MANILA (AP) — Jimmy Quinn, a burly and boisterous Canadian from Victoria, took a long pull at the first of his morning beers and scratched absently at his hairy chest.

"Why did I become a wanderer? Well, I got a divorce and sold my motel on the same day and I decided it was time to get the hell outta there." His laughter reverberated in the small pilot's cabin on his pleasure junk.

Quinn popped another beer and foam spilled in an informal rechristening of the 53-foot craft. "I've been a commercial fisherman most of my life. When everything seemed to come unglued I went back to the sea."

Aboard his "Jimmy Junk," which squatted incongruously among the sleek yachts at the Manila Yacht Club, the 45-year-old Quinn talked of his recent near-disaster at sea.

Quinn and a companion, Hong Kong lawyer Ian Bond of Durham, England, drifted helplessly for a month in the South China Sea before finally reaching Palawan Island in the Philippines. Had they missed that long, thin island they might have drifted for weeks more in the wild Sulu Archipelago.

ENGINE GAVE OUT

The two had set out from Hong Kong for what was supposed to be a leisurely five-day cruise to Manila. Quinn had had the junk built in Hong Kong and he wanted to adapt it and himself again to the sea. "What a laugh that was," he grimaced. Less than 12 hours out, the 135-horsepower Rolls Royce engine in the $20,000 junk gave out.

"We rigged sails but they weren't really much good," Quinn said. After four days of wallowing in the ice-green swells, a storm blew up and quickly shredded the red sails. "We jury-rigged them but we weren't doing anything more than drifting."

Quinn, who once lost a fishing boat during a storm off Alaska, was no stranger to the violence of storms, but still seemed awed as he recalled that one.

"The waves came over the stern. I never saw anything like it. The wind must have been over 50 miles an hour. The worst part was the waves never seemed the same. We had waves coming crossways and over our stern at the same time. It was a confused sea."

Quinn and Bond waved to passing freighters, but none approached them. "I didn't want a tow—I just wanted to know where I was," he said, and added somewhat sheepishly: "I bought a sextant but never learned how to use it."

COULDN'T USE RADIO

Quinn couldn't use the junk's radio because the aerial, rigged on the stern, had snapped in the heavy seas.

The misery of the two men, however, was nothing to that of the stray cat Quinn had picked up in Hong Kong shortly before leaving. "Lop Sop (Cantonese for rubbish) was so seasick that I thought she was going off her rocker." Quinn laughed, and Lop Sop gazed quizzically at him from her regular perch near the compass.

When the junk was still unreported after two weeks, an alert was sounded by Quinn's friend Lena Chen, a Hong Kong secretary. U.S. Air Force rescue units in the Philippines put ships and planes on the alert, but the area was considered too large for an actual search.

The Jimmy Junk finally drifted into Palawan Island, some 145 miles southwest of Manila. From there a tug towed it to Manila. That cost Quinn $120. Then he had to order new sails from Hong Kong and fight them through Manila's customs, not to mention getting the engine fixed.

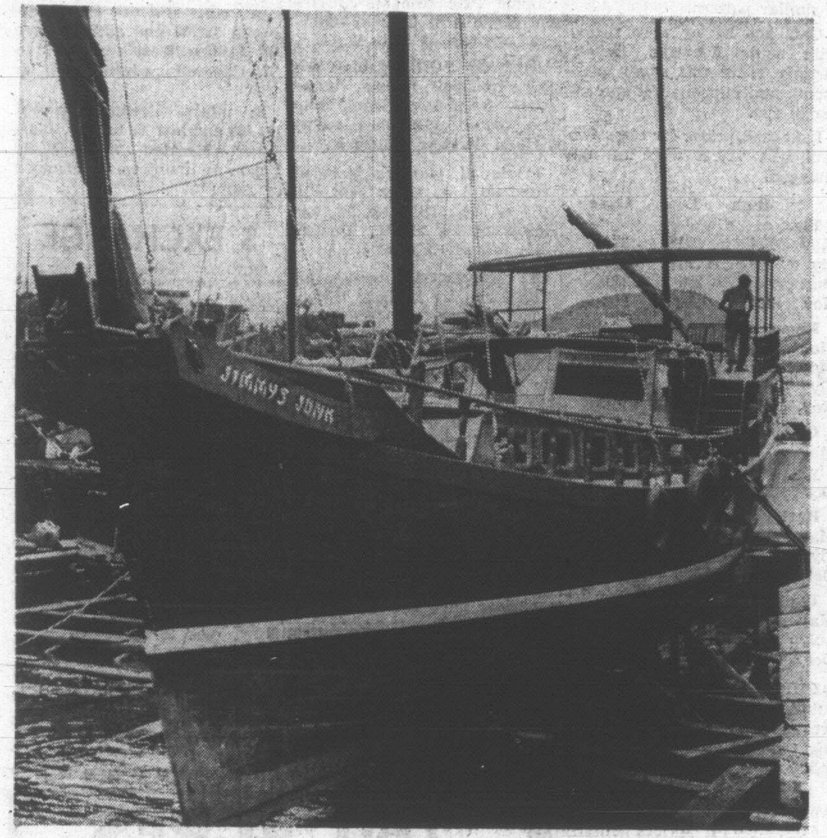
"I gotta get out of here before I go broke," Quinn wailed, and opened another beer to ease the pain.

From Manila, Quinn plans to cruise down through part of the 7,000 islands that make up the Philippines, then on to Fiji. "From there I guess I'll go on to Australia. I don't know what to expect there since I've never been. But I guess I should have a look, right?"

Quinn is still living on the profits he made in selling the motel and appears in no hurry to return to the daily drudgeries of a job. His only real expenses are fuel for the junk, and beer. Quinn grinned: "I can catch plenty of fish and food is cheap in the small ports. I'm in no hurry. I might go back to Victoria some day—after four, five years."

Did everyone envy him, just sailing away into the sunset, a free man? Quinn laughed and cracked another beer. "No, they thought I was a nut. And Lena's family thought I had really gone 'round the bend when I told them I was going to sail off in a junk."

Quinn took a deep pull on the icy beer and stretched out on the teak decks. "It's a nice way to go 'round the bend, though, ain't it?"



Quinn's Junk As It Appeared During Construction

POT PUFFERS BOUNCED

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — The U.S. Coast Guard announced today that nine cadets have been dismissed from the Coast Guard Academy here for the possession and use of marijuana.

A spokesman at the academy said the dismissals were ordered last Friday as a result of charges in an executive board action.

The spokesman said the action followed an investigation that began "three weeks ago."

Chicago Seven Trial Petition Hearing Set

CHICAGO (UPI) — The "Chicago Seven" case will return to the courtroom of U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman late next month.

The April 24 date was set Monday by Chief District Court Judge Edwin A. Robson for a hearing on a defence petition to overturn the conviction of five defendants.

Five of the seven were found guilty of crossing state lines to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention. Two others were found innocent of the same charge and all seven were acquitted on a conspiracy charge.

The defence petition listed five grounds for a court-directed acquittal:

- That the five defendants were convicted as a result of an "illegal and unconstitutional compromise" among the jurors.
- That all or some of the jurors based their verdict on obscenities used by the defendants, their behavior in court, their "life style" and other extraneous factors.
- And that U.S. Attorney Thomas A. Foran "deliberately and wilfully" withheld information which would have helped the defence case.

POST-TRIAL SPEECH

The charge against Foran was based on a newspaper account of a post-trial speech before a high school parents' meeting.

Foran reportedly said police, during one of the most bloody encounters of the convention week, "moved in and got even for what they had been taking from the demonstrators for three days."

The petition said, "as the court will recall, it was the government's position that the demonstrators were responsible for the police action at that intersection. . .

"The deliberate suppression of this information by the prosecutor while, at the same time, presenting (and vouching for) witnesses who told a completely different version of the incident is as reprehensible as it is unconstitutional."

The petition concluded, "Defendants feel that they are entitled to an order setting aside the verdicts. . . ."

N.Y. Times

The New York Times Co. has reported record net revenues and earnings for 1969, although gains were less than the company anticipated earlier in the year.

Total revenues were $238 million, an increase of $20.6 million over 1968, while net earnings were up $648,709 to $14.85 million.

CZ Issue

Crown Zellerbach Corp. of San Francisco is offering $125 million in 30 year, 8⅞ per cent debentures through an investment banking group headed by Lehman Bros.

The debentures, due March 15, 2000, are priced at 100.25 per cent, plus accrued interest, to yield approximately 8.85 per cent at maturity.

Crown said $85 million would be used to pay long-term bank debt and the balance for working capital and to retire short-term debt.

Reid

Consolidated net income of Reid Lithographing Co. of $316,142, equal to $1.81 per common share, for 1969 compares with $206,315 or $1.07 in 1968.

Sales in 1969 rose 8 per cent to a record $7 million. Profit per dollar of sales was 4.5 per cent against 3.1 per cent.

Working capital of $1.31 million at Dec. 31 was up $281,085 from last year, with the ratio of current assets to current liabilities little changed at two to one.

Gortdrum

Sales were valued at $8.37 million, up from $3 million; expenses were $1.9 million against $253,000, and net income was $1.98 million or 52 cents a share, compared with $391,000 (10 cents) in 1968.

Intermetco

Earnings reported by Intermetco Ltd. for the three-month period ended Jan. 31 totalled $180,663 on sales valued at $6.6 million, or 13 cents per common share.

Marvin Goldblatt, managing director of the Hamilton firm, said he expected brisk business during the first half but softening in the latter part of the current year due to government-imposed restraints on business.

Intermetco is a diversified firm, engaged in metal processing, real estate, industrial machinery and distribution of supplies, and the manufacture of trailers and fixtures.

American Cynamid

American Cynamid Co. has acquired the Woodbury, Long Island, firm of Glendale Optical Co. Inc., in an expansion of its safety products line for the mining, metalwork, welding, construction, lumbering, chemical processing and manufacturing industries.

In Canada the goods will be handled by Cynamid of Canada Ltd., Montreal.

Harding Carpets

Harding Carpets Ltd. reports a 12 per cent increase in consolidated sales for the first quarter ended Ján. 31, equal to a 1.7 per cent decline from the final quarter of last year.

Net income was down 49 per cent to $222,707, or 14 cents a share against 27 cents in the first quarter of 1969. A seven-week strike fell in the quarterly period.

Shareholders Want More Information

First annual meeting of DataTech Systems Ltd. was postponed to April 21 after shareholders met this morning for 10 minutes at the Red Lion Inn.

A spokesman for a major out-of-town shareholder proposed the delay because shareholders lack important information needed before voting. Trading in the stock has been suspended.

The meeting had been expected to deal with a resolution approving the acquisition of Can Americo Financial Corp. Ltd. and related companies. DataTech loaned Canamerico Mortgage Corp. Ltd. $1 million a year ago, the proceeds from a public share issue, and after repaying $382,445 it became apparent that Canamerico could not discharge the note in cash, according to a report of DataTech president Earl W. Large.

Canamerico subsequently changed its name to Can Americo Financial Corp., and its registered shareholders are Walter F. Large and W. L. Wansbrough. It lists among its assets 45,000 share of Imperial Building Materials Ltd., which it is proposed that DataTech buy at $3.30 each from Can Americo, plus a convertible debenture of $137,554, bearing interest at 6 per cent.

It also was proposed that shareholders approve formation of a new company to manage DataTech's investments including Can Americo.

Robert E. Ferguson, of Vancouver, moved the postponement to April 21 at 10:30 a.m., at the same location, because the information circular distributed by Large does not give information considered vital. He said later there should be more information about Imperial Building Materials.

Large reported 27 shareholders, representing 365,025 of the 600,000 shares of DataTech outstanding, were present at the meeting, and about 12,000 proxies were listed.

PACIFIC RIM AFFAIRS CHIEF TOPIC

Special attention to Pacific rim affairs will be given at the 19th annual meeting of B.C. Chamber of Commerce in North Vancouver May 24-26.

President E. G. Stroyan said the meeting would be for three days for the first time, due to "accelerated business affairs of the chamber." Theme will be Sale the Pacific, on which a lineup of speakers will address delegates.

Ford Sets Overseas Sales Mark

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. reported Monday its car and truck sales outside the United States and Canada set a record in 1969 and were greater than those of any other U.S. manufacturer.

Robert Stevenson, Ford president for international automotive operations, said preliminary data shows Ford overseas dealers sold about 1,400,000 cars and trucks in 1969, compared with the previous record of 1,200,000 set in 1965.

"Car sales outside North America in 1969 were above those in North America by 1,000,000 units—11,700,000 versus 10,300,000," he said in a statement.

Alcan Joins Home Project In Hawaii

MONTREAL (CP) — Alcan Design Homes Ltd., and Lear Siegler, Inc. of Santa Monica, Calif., will establish a joint company in Hawaii to produce factory-manufactured modular homes, it was announced Monday.

The proposed 150,000-square-foot plant, expected to be in operation by the end of this year, will produce about 1,000 moderately-priced homes each year.

It will employ 250 persons and is to be constructed on a 20-acre site near Honolulu.

Alcan Design Homes, a subsidiary of Alcan Aluminium Co., has built and sold about $125,000,000 worth of housing, including apartments and single family units, since its formation in 1963.

Latin Nations Told to Spur Economic Growth

WASHINGTON (WP) — Latin America's foremost economist, in a major report, warns that Latin countries must depend upon their own industry—rather than help from abroad—to prevent disastrous unemployment among their swelling populations.

Argentine Raul Prebisch, 69, will present the study to the Inter-American Development Bank meeting next month. He will call for an 8 per cent annual economic growth rate spurred by the jobs created at home.

This represents a major shift in the views of Prebisch, now director of a UN Development Institute in Chile. He came to prominence 20 years ago with his thesis that rich countries keep developing nations poor by selling them manufactured goods at high prices and buying their raw materials at low prices.

Now he will say that internal policies have created unemployment so sweeping that only the 8 per cent growth rate can reverse the trend.

UNPRECEDENTED

Such a rate would be unprecedented. Few countries have ever achieved the growth goal set by the Alliance for Progress—roughly 6 per cent annually. Indeed, the economies often have failed to keep pace with the 3.5 per cent increase of population typical in most of the area.

U.S. economic growth during the '60s has averaged 5.2 per cent annually, compared to the Latin average of 4.7, while U.S. population growth is about 1.4 per cent each year.

To achieve the new Latin expansion, Prebisch revives concepts he pioneered in the '50s and '60s—low-interest foreign assistance and concessions by industrial nations allowing more exports at better prices for poor countries.

But the book-length report's emphasis will be on the tasks facing the Latins at home: action, after a decade of talk, on economic integration; orderly but rapid change of institutions that impede growth, and creation of productive jobs at the expense of the top-heavy service sector—which includes endless ice cream vendors, shoeshine boys and professional stand-in-line at the mercy of the bureaucracy.

Underlying the urgency is the flow of peasants to the cities. Prebisch's figures project three-fourths of the area's population will be urban in 1990, compared to one-half in 1950. The present 280 million total population may well double by 1990.

But whereas 35 per cent of the work force was in industry 20 years ago, the figures will show only 30 per cent is so employed today. Most countries have no accurate unemployment figures. But many Latin nations have less than half their work force in effective jobs.

"Latin America is developing today as if no population pressure existed," Prebisch said in an interview here. He was here with a team of experts completing the report for presentation at the April 20-24 meeting of the Inter-American Bank in Uruguay.

The study began two years ago. It is the last of recent reports known as the three Ps—Pearson, Peterson and Prebisch.

Former prime minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada led an eight-man commission that counselled the World Bank on all aspects of the flow of money, goods and technology between rich nations and poor. The wide income gap dividing those two sets of nations has created tense differences between them on policy.

Two weeks ago, a White House task force headed by banker Rudolph A. Peterson recommended changes in U.S. aid programs to align them with the approach that the Pearson report advocated.

Legislature Asked To Oppose Drilling

The legislature has been asked to go on record in opposition to offshore exploration or drilling for oil or gas.

In a resolution on the order paper, Earnest Hall (NDP—Surrey) moves that the legislature "is of the opinion that no offshore oil exploration and drilling in our coastal waters, and in particular the Strait of Georgia and adjacent channels, be permitted."

The resolution might be debated and passed if the government chooses to accept it, but otherwise stands little chance of more than perfunctory debate. Resolutions also may die on the order paper without debate.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

The motion follows statements from Mines Minister Frank Richter last week to the effect that oil companies don't appear interested in drilling in Georgia Strait.

Opposition critics say they can't understand why exploration is being allowed if there is no thought of also allowing drilling.

Premier Bennett has said that no drilling would be allowed if there is any danger of pollution and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell has said that drilling from land only would be alllowed to tap undersea resources.

Feasibility of such drilling has not been established.

The resolution, Number 18 on the order paper, follows a resolution from Mrs. Eileen Dailly (NDP—Burnaby North) that the legislature urge the federal government to seek removal of all foreign troops from Southeast Asia.

Opposition leader Dave Barrett has resolutions asking the House to oppose shipping of toxic gases through Canadian waters and also to oppose nuclear testing on Amchitka Island.

The resolution with highest priority is believed to be that from Provincial Secretary Wesley Black to approve taping of legislative debates and publication of a typewritten record of the debates after the session.

The taping has been carried on through the session under authority from Speaker William Murray. He has announced that breakdowns have occurred from time to time and he favors the establishment of duplicate taping facilities to guard against breaks in the record.

Montreal System Of Youth Detention Criticized as Antique

MONTREAL (CP) — The city's juvenile detention system has been condemned as "a part of the 19th century" by social workers who deal with its three centres.

In a confidential report to the Montreal Council of Social Agencies, the social workers said children who enter the system face primitive forms of punishment, arbitrary rules and a grim environment.

A news story on the report was published in The Gazette today.

The three centres are the Centre St. Vallier for boys, the Centre d'Accueil for girls and the Centre Berthelet for boys and girls.

The report said children ranging in age from 10 to 18 years are crowded together in open dormitories in the three centres.

Some were psychiatric cases and some hardened delinquents. Others were protection cases, epileptics or mentally-retarded children who have committed no crime but have nowhere else to go.

The report said children are supposed to be placed in the centres on a temporary basis only until Social Welfare Court can dispose of their cases.

DELAYS MAY BE LONG

However, the time taken up by the trials, decisions and preparation of pre-sentence reports can extend the stays for days, weeks and sometimes months.

Protection cases were placed in the centres and often almost forgotten.

Sometimes, as punishment, children were locked in poorly-lit cells with indirect lighting and left there alone for days, permitted to leave only to go to the bathroom.

The report said young girls are transferred to the city's Tanguay Prison for Women when the Centre d'Accueil is overcrowded and commute daily to the Social Welfare Court, where they spend the day in a common cell next to other cells occupied by adult men and women.

The report said some boys have been placed in solitary confinement for refusing to have their hair cut or for showing disrespect to guards.

One child ended up in solitary confinement for threatening to leave the centre and another for refusing to shower in the common shower room in front of three adults.

SAYS IMPROVING

Gabriel Blanchard, a Quebec social welfare department official, admitted conditions are bad in the centres but added that "they're getting better."

He said plans are being drawn up to ease the overcrowding by construction of new detention centres. "But this all takes time."

Jean-Paul Cloutier, Quebec minister of health and welfare, said in an interview he has "no knowledge" of any irregularities.

"I'm surprised," he said. "I visited the Berthelet and St. Vallier centres a couple of years ago and everything was allright then."

Mr. Cloutier said he will look into the matter.

AT CUNNINGHAMS WE CARE

Bill WALKER

The comic opera comprising of the past is over. The farce is no longer continuous. Canada is out of world hockey. The Nationals are dead.

They are dead on their own terms. And so, perhaps are world hockey tournaments.

There were three symbolic happenings last week.

First, general manager Buck Houle of the Nationals said he was disbanding the team. There was little use keeping the players hanging around. There was nothing to do. There was nobody to play.

Secondly, the International Ice Hockey Federation once again rejected Canada's bid for permission to use professionals in world hockey championships. That was the final straw.

Thirdly, the world championships in Sweden weren't exactly a clinker. But nobody was beating down the doors to get in, either.

The messages are plain. Canada will no longer compete except on its terms. World hockey must suffer because, without Canada, there can be no glory.

"We are not competing internationally until our demand is met." Those are the words of Earl Dawson, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. They seem firm enough.

Now Canada has spoken out, which it was afraid to do in years past. And why should a Canadian team be hobbled by the rules? We know we have the best players in the National Hockey League. And if we didn't have the best, anyone could play. The nine-pro deal was a move calculated to upgrade the team to the standards of the Europeans, who have no pro scruples to contend with. They name their best. So we will play on a more-or-less equal basis, or not at all. That is the gist of Dawson's statement.

So what is left for the Nationals ?

Nothing. Again. For this was a last-ditch try to salvage something out of a controversy that to some has become a national nausea.

And it was a particularly distressing sight at the Winnipeg Arena earlier this month. The Nationals' dressing room had been taken over by the Brier press corps. The partly-filled weight chart of the team was in the washroom . . . there were a few name stickers like "Hindle" and "Huck" above the clothes hooks . . . and the only two unoccupied parking stalls on the outside were marked "Hockey Canada."

Because this was Winnipeg, where this year's world hockey tourney originally was scheduled to take place. That would have been two weeks ago.

Of course, that was before the IIHF rescinded its previous approval allowing Canada to use nine pros; and Canada, by refusing to accept the decision at that time, promptly opted out of the world event, leaving Winnipeg with an ampty arena, and an abandoned dressing room.

And so it fell to Sweden's lot to put on the show.

When Houle was here with the Nationals last year, he indicated there was only one answer to the question: Does Canada need world hockey, or does world hockey need Canada?

●

"They need us," he said. "They like our money."

Last week (and this) in Sweden they have been playing this year's championships. The average attendance was reported to be below 4,000.

Winnipeg seats in excess of 9,000 and the tournament had been virtually sold out for weeks.

In Victoria, the average attendance at the final three Cougar junior hockey games was above 4,000.

These then were the world championships without Canada, or the United States. A hollow event. There can be little pride in victory. Because the message there is clear, too.

World hockey needs Canada. It is not world hockey without Canadians.

Meanwhile, Bunny Ahearne has been left to endure in his own mess. He had promised Canada some support in the nine-pro arrangement, earlier, but he backed off because of the threats of that antiquated Olympic demigod Avery Brundage.

For the reading public, it's old hat, but for the record the story is that Brundage warned that teams playing against pros in world championships would lose their Olympic status.

Dawson still holds that the Brundage warning was a threat, nothing more, and if the IOC had made a definite ruling Canada would have accepted it. Ahearne says otherwise.

That's why Canada has chucked the whole thing.

For even with nine professionals, it is not that certain that Canada would have won. But at least the Canadians would have been playing on their terms.

And, win or lose, world hockey never would have had it so good.

BILLY REAY . . . enjoying the good times

Reay's Ears Cool Off As Hawks Turn on Heat

The resurgence of the National Hockey League team is now the talk of the circuit.

The Hawks have lost only four of their last 26 games and are one point short of first-place Boston Bruins in the East Division, which is in the midst of the tightest race in NHL history.

A mere five points separate fifth-place New York Rangers from Boston in the scramble for Stanley Cup playoff spots.

"It's getting so that it isn't so much who wins, but who loses," says Reay. "If we make the playoffs, it will be the greatest thrill I've had in hockey. But even if we don't, I'll be just as proud of these boys as I am now with the way they've played.

REAY SURPRISED

"Take Tony Esposito's 13th shutout to tie a league record against St. Louis Sunday—it is unbelievable. I never thought in these days of faster hockey and harder shooting it could happen."

Reay knows the Hawks have a chance to take it all. If they do, they would become the first team to vault from sixth to first in one year. Their 41 victories already equals the club's record set by the 1966-67 championship team.

The Hawks know they are in for a rugged final six games which are home-and-home sets with Detroit Red Wings, revitalized Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens. Their next match is with the Red Wings in Detroit Thursday.

The Hawks started the season like it was "Goodby Billy" time again. Bobby Hull missed the first 14 games in a salary dispute while the team dropped six of its first eight starts. It spent the first 10 games in sixth place and most of the next 46 in fifth.

TEAM JELLED

Under Reay's clever guidance, the team's mixture of veterans and youngsters solidified near mid-season. Reay stressed defence instead of offence, and, undoubtedly, boosted morale by removing any hint of favoritism.

He made superstars Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita operate under the same set of rules as the rest. There's harmony after the housecleaning.

The main factor in the revival has to be the unorthodox, flop-around net tending of Esposito.

RED WINGS HAVE EYES ON EUROPEAN PLAYERS

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Three of the Scandinavian players in the world hockey championships will be offered professional contracts by Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League after the tournament.

Mike Daski, representing the Red Wings, is in Sweden to watch prospects during the tournament. He said Swedish defencemen Lennart Svedberg and Arne Carlsson and Finnish forward Veli-Pekka Ketola will be offered professional contracts.

Daski said, however, that none of the players at present are good enough to play with the NHL club.

"They will have to start with one of our farm teams, but after a few games I think they will have learned enough to play in the NHL," Daski said.

Pilots' Transfer May Bring Profit

SEATTLE (AP)—Double-barrelled court action was in store today on the question of whether a switch of the franchise of Seattle Pilots to Milwaukee should be allowed.

A hearing on whether to grant a temporary injunction to prevent the sale and transfer of the American League baseball club continued before Superior Court Judge James Mifflin this morning.

Later, Washington State and Seattle were to present their reasons in U.S. District Court why they should not be prevented from interfering with sale of the club to Milwaukee interests.

Last Thursday, Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., which owns the Pilots, petitioned the federal court to order the sale under the Bankruptcy Act.

William Walsh, representing Pacific Northwest Sports, said the Pilots owner would be destroyed if the team cannot be sold, and therefore, he said, Seattle still would have no major league baseball. He said the league club owners are trying to recover their original investment by trying to sell the Pilots for $10,800,000.

WOULD MAKE PROFIT

During Monday's session in Superior Court, testimony showed the current owners of the Pilots would profit by $1,000,000 by sale of the team to Milwaukee, and that a contract for such a sale was signed one day before a league meeting was scheduled in Tampa, Fla., during which the transfer was to have been voted upon.

Mifflin said that as far as he could see Seattle residents don't want the club, and if it remained in the city, ticket sale and attendance wouldn't measure up to the hopes of those interested.

William Dwyer, special state assistant attorney general, speaking for the state in its request for a temporary injunction, said fans want the Pilots to stay in Seattle.

Alfred Schweppe, a Seattle lawyer who warded off the league's vote in Tampa by obtaining legal restraints there, and who filed the first request for a restraining order in Seattle, testified the Pilot owners reached an agreement on the sale to Milwaukee interests March 9, the day before the Tampa meeting.

Top Players Warn Of 'Repercussion'

Individual Ban An After-Effect?

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Fear that the expulsion of South Africa from the 1970 Davis Cup competition could lead to a ban on individual players were expressed Monday night by two South African tennis stars.

A seven-man special committee set up by the 34 Davis Cup nations voted in London to expel South Africa from the 1970 tennis classic because other tennis players protesting South Africa's policy of racial segregation would refuse to play in the competition.

Rhodesia, however, was allowed to remain in the tournament in 1970 because it allows black players on its teams.

Top South African Tennis stars Bob Hewitt and Cliff Drysdale predicted possible repercussions against individual South African players in other tournaments because of the expulsion.

TERMED ILLEGAL

Hewitt, a key member of the Davis Cup squad, said: "Now we've been kicked out of the Davis Cup I see no reason why our players won't be kicked out of individual tournaments overseas."

He added: "I have no idea how this will be done but I believe they've acted illegally in expelling us from the Cup so they might just as easily do something illegal to get us out of all international tennis.

"I don't see our getting back into the Davis Cup until our government changes its policy or the international tennis world has a change of heart. And if we don't get back into competition, South African tennis will deteriorate."

Despite the shadow hanging over South African tennis, the world's leading players, headed by Australians Red Laver and Margaret Court, have converged on Johannesburg for the South African open championships beginning today.

ISSUED WARNING

Drysdale said he had asked the South African Tennis Union not to enter a Davis Cup team this year because he foresaw the outcome.

Drysdale said he felt that by staying out of the Davis Cup this year and avoiding controversy, South Africa might have been able to return to the competition in 1971.

He feared a precedent had been set that made such a return more difficult and would affect individual participation in overseas tournaments.

FEARS FOR PLAYER

Meanwhile, American Negro Arthur Ashe said South Africa's policies might result in harm to individual players. He especially feared for the safety of golfer Gary Player, now visiting the United States.

"I just hope nothing happens to the guy, but I fear for his life," Ashe told reporters.

Ashe said Player would be involved in demonstrations by Black militants and "left-wing agitators" when he plays the American circuit, because of South Africa's apartheid policy.

"All Player has to do to avoid trouble is to say he is against apartheid," Ashe told reporters.

"If Player does not come out against apartheid I think something is going to happen to him," Ashe said.

REFUSED ENTRY

Ashe, 26, the first Negro to play in the U.S. Davis Cup team, was refused permission to play tennis in South Africa by the white-minority South African government last month.

"This is the beginning of the disintegration of the Davis Cup," said Alf Chambers, a member of the South African tennis committee after receiving word that the ban had been voted by a seven-man committee of the Davis Cup countries.

Play Formula Works for Don

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Don January, his 1970 bankroll quadrupled by more than $25,000 won in Monday's playoff for the Greater Jacksonville Open golf title, heads for Miami and the next tournament today in one of his typical streaks.

"I can't play more than four or five weeks in a row," said the 40-year-old veteran who registered his 11th victory of all time and first since 1968. "I'll play straight through the Masters and then go back to Dallas."

He has been doing it this way several years and finishing high up among the year's money winners while playing only half as much as most other tour golfers.

"I can't play more than 20 tournaments a year," January said.

January beat Dale Douglass in the playoff with three straight birdie putts on the last three holes. January shot three-under-par 69 on the 6,943-yard Hidden Hills course while Douglass matched par 72.

SURVEYED POSITION

As he stood on the 16th tee, with the match tied on Douglass' 15-foot birdie putt on the previous hole, January had two distinct thoughts.

"First, I thought: "I've got to get a birdie or two," January said. "But when he hit his tee shot in trouble, I had to make sure the wind didn't get my ball like it did his."

January played it safe, made the green of the 202-yard par 3 hole but left himself a long putt.

"I'd say it was 40 feet," January told reporters later.

"I'd say it was 40 feet, too," chimed in Douglass, his sense of humor intact and his pockets lined with $11,400 second prize plus $5,000 television playoff money and a share of the gate receipts.

January birdied the 17th with a six-foot putt and clinched victory with a 15-footer for a birdie on the final hole.

Finns Blank Poland

The Finns, winning their fourth game against three losses, were in command all the way. The referees handed out 18 minutes in penalties to the Poles, who have only one tie in seven games, and 16 minutes to the Finns.

Matti Murto scored two Finland goals.

Painters Capture Opener

Empress Paint counted first in the best-of-five Stuffy McGinnis Hockey League playoff series, posting a 5-2 victory over Victoria Automatic Transmission in the opening game Monday night at Memorial Arena.

Bob Holness, Fred Moulson, Vern Gibson, Glen Vickers and Doug Couch each notched a goal as Painters led by period scores of 2-0 and 3-2.

Dick Gibbons and Ric Hamilton replied for VATs.

Drag Racers Steering For a Busy Campaign

Track personnel at Van Isle Dragways are applying the final touches to schedules and facilities for a fourth season of racing.

The National Hot Rod Association-sanctioned drag strip at Mill Bay will commence operations with a meet on April 26.

Also scheduled this season are the "Grand Opener" on May 10' first Vancouver Island appearance of "funny cars" on June 21; summer championship on July 5, and the Island points championship on Sept. 13.

Regular competitions will be held almost every second Sunday.

TUNEUP TIMES

Van Isle will open its gates on the Saturday before each meet for time trials, tuning and preparation of cars from noon until 5 p.m.

On competition dates, gates will open at 9 a.m. Time trials will be held from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and eliminations will be set to start at 1:30.

Due to NHRA sanction limitations, Van Isle Dragways can approve only cars whose National class record is slower than 8.50 seconds elapsed time at under 170 miles per hour.

Anyone planning to compete in the supercharged and fuel classes must give two weeks' notice before attending so sanction can be arranged.

Island Girls Post Shutout

Vancouver Island's distaff representative field hockey team downed Vancouver reps for the second successive weekend by blanking the visitors 1-0 on Sunday.

Janet Holmes scored the lone goal of the game while young Nesta Horne recorded the shutout.

In the Vancouver Island semifinals, league-champion Oak Bay dropped University of Victoria Valkyrettes 3-1 and second-place Mariners ousted Cowichan 2-1.

Marguerite Bradford's two goals paced Bays, who needed two periods of overtime to claim the victory. Anne Standbridge added the other goal for Bays while Janet Williams scored for Uvic.

Jill Hawkins scored both goals for Mariners, who will meet Bays in the final in two weeks. Julia Bradford averted a shutout for Cowichan.

First-Round Draft Choice Snubs Dallas Bid

(Times News Services)

Bobby Croft, six-foot-10 Canadian captain of the University of Tennessee Volunteers, says he already has told Dallas Chapparals he does not want to play basketball for them.

Croft, a 210-pounder from Hamilton, Ont., was the first-round pick of Dallas in the American Basketball Association draft Monday. He was drafted by Dallas in the ABA's secret draft last January and said he told the club of his wishes at that time.

"I would prefer to play at Lousiville," he said, referring to the home of the Kentucky Colonels of the ABA. He said he hopes Kentucky and Dallas can work out a trade.

Croft led the Volunteers in rebounding the last two seasons and was second in scoring both years. He had a 17.2-point average this season and pulled down 241 rebounds.

The starting date of the Times-sponsored Vancouver Island Open golf tournament has been set back to appease some amateurs, and it means at least four professionals—including a pair of former champions—will pass up the match-play test.

The Island Open's qualifying round is scheduled for April 19—the latest starting date in history. As a result, the semi-finals will conflict with a $20,000 tournament in Eugene, Ore.

The conflict has prompted pros Bill Wakeham, Vaughan Trapp, Dick Silverberg and John Morgan to pass up the Island's major match-play event. All four have filed their entries for the Eugene Classic.

Previously, the Island meet invariably got under way the last Sunday in March, and wound up the first weekend in May. It always has been the "get-away" tournament for Island golfers.

The qualifying round scores have been taken into consideration by the province's Willingdon Cup team selectors and, as such, the district committee decided on a later starting date this season. The reason, quite simply, was to provide leading amateurs with more favorable weather conditions.

Unfortunately, the conflict with the Eugene tournament wasn't noticed until it was too late.

Although the Island Open prize money for pros has been boosted, you can't blame the four who have to scramble for the big purse at Eugene. The Oregon event is restricted to Pacific Northwest players.

And, as Trapp noted: "I won $300 last year although I played very badly."

Entry forms for the Island Open, incidentally, will be published in the Times later this week.

Trapp, Art Carey and Al Brown were the big winners Sunday at Gorge Vale when district golfers completed the third and final round of the Spring Medal series.

Trapp won the day's low gross honors with a par-matching 73, and also claimed the over-all medal with a 54-hole total of 217. Brown, the youthful Uplands member, won the amateur medal with a 224 total, five strokes ahead of Ken Nott, a clubmate who previously had won the fall series.

Runnerup to Trapp in the aggregate was Morgan, who had a 224 total.

Carey was the day's low net winner, scoring 76-3—73, while Brown followed with 78-4—74.

When the B.C. Open tournament committee went recruiting willing workers for last summer's show at Uplands, Bernie Ball stepped forward as a ticket seller. He purchased the first ticket for himself.

Then, when it was suggested the leading ticket-seller would be rewarded with an "expense-paid trip to Las Vegas," Ball went into high gear and sold another 199 tickets. He finished a mile and a half ahead of his nearest rival.

Ball received his award last week, a few months late. It entitles Bernie to accommodation in a Las Vegas hotel, "if available," for four days, but excluding weekends.

To take advantage of the offer, Bernie must get to Nevada on his own. Presumably, it is up to him to flag down the next passing seagull.

Somehow, that doesn't sound like the "expense-paid trip" that was promised.

SHORT CHIPS: Hole-in-one shooters standing up in recent days were Bill Denson, on Colwood's seventh; Dave Thera, on the 18th at Cedar Hill, and Vic Young, on Gregarah's second . . . Veteran Fred Groome, scoring 89-21—68, and Skip Bryan, 80-12—68, wound up sharing the Carmichael Trophy after Sunday's competition at Gorge Vale . . . Denny Miles, reeling off 10 straight 4s, scored a two-over 75 to claim low gross honors . . . At Uplands, a Robin chirped loudest in the spring opening . . . Robin Burrell, 70-4—66, led both net and gross marksmen . . . He took the net award while Mike Gray and Ken Nott, each scoring 72s, shared low gross honors . . . Hal Woolison was runnerup with 84-17—67, one stroke ahead of Bert Thirlwell, 76-8—68.

Former Gorge Vale junior Earl Francis has taken over as head professional at the Henderson Lake club in Lethbridge . . . It's one of the best golf jobs south of Calgary . . . Francis promptly recruited Brian Gandy out of Bill Goldsworthy's Cedar Hill shop . . . Jim Girard will replace Gandy as Goldie's aide . . . Bill Penny, who played three games with Victoria Cougars last fall, is Silverberg's new assistant at Glen Meadows . . . Dick Munn of Point Grey has lost assistant Gordie Ferguson to Richmond.

The great come-down of the Empress Hotel tournament is a source of concern to officials . . . Only 53 entries were received this year . . . Happier were Mrs. Herb Fritz and Mrs. A. Harris of Vancouver, who won the major women's trophies . . . Colwood's Blair Wilson and Gordie Millan topped the men's field . . . Uplands has again attracted a limit entry of 150 golfers for its Easter best-ball tournament . . . The field includes defending champions Frank Pizza and Lou Toft of Seattle.

Uniteds Locked In Epic Series

LONDON (Reuters) — Leeds United and Manchester United played to a 0-0 draw Monday night in another epic but undecisive semi-final game. They have to meet again Thursday and the winner plays Chelsea in the English Football Association Cup final on Saturday, April 11.

The replay was originally scheduled Wednesday but an FA spokesman said the match, to be played in Bolton, was postponed to allow sufficient time for tickets to be printed.

Leeds, seeking a European Cup, English Cup and English League treble, and Manchester United, chasing their sixth Football Association Cup final appearance, now have played 3½ hours of scoreless soccer following a fruitless 30 minutes of overtime in their replay Monday night.

Manchester United's England stars Bobby Charlton and Nobby Stiles maintained a strict control of the midfield as tireless Billy Bremner—named Monday as 1970 British footballer of the year—worked unsuccessfully to give Leeds a major portion of the attack.

Nova Scotia, Manitoba Lowering Legal Age

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two bills extending citizen's rights to teen-agers were given first reading in provincial legislatures Monday, while other houses dealt with pollution, education and economics.

At Halifax, a bill to lower the voting age to 19 from 21 was introduced, as forecast in the throne speech. The opposition welcomed the announcement, but said the age should be lowered to 18.

At Winnipeg, an amendment to the Marriage Act, given first reading Monday, will allow persons between 16 and 18 years of age, who do not have parental consent to marry and to appeal to the courts. The bill also will give magistrates the power to perform civil marriages, now performed only by judges.

In other legislatures:

Regina—Saskatchewan's new industrial incentives plan will be available to most manufacturing and processing operations, Premier Ross Thatcher said during second reading of the bill to set up the plan. It provides loans in areas not covered by a federal government scheme.

Edmonton—Alberta is five years behind in providing minimum pollution standards, a Progressive Conservative member of the Alberta house said. The PC opposition failed in an attempt to prevent second reading of a government bill to set up an environmental control authority, which the opposition said would have only advisory powers.

A new act which will distinguish between the "truly unemployable" who need adequate income and those out of work who simply require jobs was introduced in the Alberta legislature, to replace the Public Welfare Act. An employment opportunities program will make a determined effort to locate jobs, prepare persons for employment and help retain employment, said Ray Speaker, social development minister.

NUCLEAR TEST BLAST SET OFF IN NEVADA

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—The United States exploded a nuclear device in the low-intermediate yield range at its test site in Nevada Monday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

It is said the blast, equivalent to between 20,000 and 200,000 tons of TNT, was the 11th weapons-related test announced this year.

NATO Joint Defence Plan Overhaul Launched

By CARL HARTMAN

BRUSSELS (AP) — The 15 countries of NATO are about to start a top-to-bottom revision of their joint defence plans for the 1970s. Results are expected to be ready for the December meeting of ministers of defence, finance and foreign affairs.

The idea of such a revision has gone the rounds informally for some time at NATO headquarters here. It has been made more urgent by pressure in the United States for withdrawing some of the 310,800 U.S. soldiers, sailors and airmen in Western Europe.

President Nixon has promised to maintain U.S. strength in Europe until mid-1971. In a message to Congress last month, he said the intervening time should be used for "thorough study of our strategy for the defence of Western Europe, including a full and candid exchange of views with our allies."

Since then, NATO sources say, the project has been getting a good deal of official attention both at the Brussels headquarters and in the national capitals. It will soon be the subject of a decision by the North Atlantic Council, where each member country is represented by an ambassador.

The council will lay down the way the job is to be done. It may ask for a general report by political advisers of the 15 ambassadors or appoint committees of experts to deal with special subjects.

Some NATO officials fear the result will be a justification of reduced military efforts by virtually all members. Others think that an effort could be made to hold the line with a joint pledge against future cuts.

The Nixon administration takes the stand that Europeans are a lot richer than they were 20 years ago and should carry a greater share of European defence.

Europeans see the situation differently. They consider the United States to be defending its own security by keeping forces in Europe. If the United States, acknowledged leader of the alliance, is going to reduce its forces, the Europeans feel they can do the same.

Canada has already decided to reduce its European strength.

Some European members of NATO are making small increases in their military budgets this year, partly as a result of commitments made after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, but the increases are to be a considerable extent cancelled out by rising prices.

Other members are reducing their military spending.

The prospect of allied force reductions, NATO officials think, will make it harder to negotiate balance reductions with the Soviet Union — an official aim of NATO for nearly two years.

They say the Soviets will have no reason to pay a price for allied reductions, if these are going to be made anyhow.

56 Die in Crash

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — An overloaded bus with peasants riding on top and hanging out the doors, plunged into the Ambato River, killing 56 persons, police said Saturday.

GAMBINO NABBED

NEW YORK (AP) — Carlo Gambino, reputed to be the Cosa Nostra's "boss of all bosses," has been arrested by the FBI and charged with conspiracy to hijack an armored truck with $6,000,000 in bank funds.

After the arrest Monday, the FBI described Gambino's role in the alleged plot as providing "automobiles for the robbery and a means to dispose of the money."

Commons Approves Pension Hike for Civil Servants, MPs

The pension increases, which apply to former MPs among others, had met with staunch opposition from the New Democratic Party.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) condemned the government for "going too far" on MPs' pensions in the bill, which now needs Senate approval and royal assent to become law.

Under the bill, MPs with two or more terms would be eligible for pensions from $6,300 to $13,500 depending on length of office, compared with the present range of $3,000 to $9,000.

To receive benefits, MPs will contribute 7½ per cent of their annual $18,000 income.

The Commons also approved a government motion to refer to a committee the question of radio and television broadcasting of proceedings in the House, Senate and committees.

The motion passed without debate although it has sparked stiff opposition criticism in the past.

A government motion also was approved empowering the Commons transport committee to travel to western Canada to hold hearings in its study of ground transport at airports.

Warren Allmand (L—Notre-Dame-de-Grace) said too many Commons committes have been leaving Ottawa when they could bring witnesses to the capital for less money and at the same time MPs could carry on their work here.

A routine review of the Representation Commissioner Act by a Commons committee was also approved by the House.

During degate on the pension increases, Mr. Knowles said that since Parliament had opened up its own pension act, the same treatment should be accorded to all other public servants.

The time had also come to review the old age pension, the War Veterans' Allowance Act and the Pension Benefits Standards Act.

The latter, which lays down standards for many pensioners outside direct government service, needs a cost-of-living escalation clause, Mr. Knowles said.

He said "it's a disgrace" that widowns of public servants who also draw war veterans' allowance will not enjoy the benefit of the increased pensions. Under the legislation, the allowances would be reduced by the amount the public service pensions are increased.

PASS TEXTILE BILL

The Commons later gave third and final reading to a government bill that would compel manufacturers to list the fibre content of their textile products.

Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) said the bill should go farther to give manufacturers instructions on the washing and care of their products.

She said the government's aim to have the manufacturers do this voluntarily is not good enough.

Earlier Monday, Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson introduced a dairy policy penalizing surplus production and holding the line on existing returns for farmers who stay within their quotas.

In the 1970-71 dairy year beginning April 1, Mr. Olson said, producers of industrial milk will get a subsidy of $1.25 a hundredweight on milk with a 3.5 per cent butterfat content, or 35.71 cents a pounds of butterfat for cream.

Mr. Olson said the government's major concern in the new policy is the continued dairy production in excess of the quantity that can be sold at Canadian price support levles.

Freighter Sinks

PATRAS, Greece (Reuters) — The Lebanese-registered Greek vessel San Gerassimo sank Sunday in heavy seas while under tow off the Ionian island of Zante, harbor authorities said here. The 20 crew members of the 2,700-ton vessel abandoned ship Saturday after fire broke out in the engine room. They were picked up safely by the Italian liner Esperia.

Eskimo Version

WHALE COVE, N.W.T. (CP) — O Canada will get a new verse—in Eskimo—if the committee planning events to mark the Northwest Territories centennial has its way. It is one of the projects being planned in this settlement of about 200 on the west coast of Hudson Bay, about 1,100 miles north of Winnipeg.

No-Strings Welfare Urged by Social Workers

OTTAWA (CP) — Welfare aid should be given without strings attached, says the Canadian Association of Social Workers.

The association in a brief to the Senate poverty committee today said income maintenance should be made available to those in need.

"Acceptance of such assistance should not be made conditional upon accepting counselling, day care for children, job training or other social services."

The association said it favored a guaranteed annual income but expected it would be a long time before Canada would make a decision on the question.

Requiring welfare applicants to seek counselling or job training implied they weren't interested in sorting out their own affairs, the brief said.

"Furthermore, the expectation that all citizens can find work at adequate salary levels at a time when a high level of unemployment is apparently beyond federal control or a policy choice, is ludicrous."

The association also said investigation of eligibility of welfare recipients should be kept to a minimum.

"The popular image of the welfare chiseler . . . is, in fact, just a myth."

Current methods of investigating welfare applicants were costly.

Welfare recipients could mail in reports which could be checked at random along the lines the income tax system.

The association said it favored provinces giving organizations of welfare recipients funds to operate.

Scandal Breaks in Moscow Over Incorrect Credit

By
HARRISON E. SALISBURY

NEW YORK (NYT) — An ideological scandal has emerged in Moscow over the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Lenin's birth next month.

The original version of the 6,000-word theses by the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party last December attributes to Lenin a statement made by Otto Bauer, the Austrian Socialist leader and long-time antagonist of Lenin.

The quotation was published by Pravda and other leading Soviet newspapers last Dec. 23, a few days after the theses including the quotation, had been read, discussed and approved by the Central Committee.

According to reports reaching the United States the error was not discovered in Moscow. It went undetected until Walter Ulbricht, the East German leader, read the thesis in his party newspaper, Neues Deutschland. He is said to have telephoned Moscow immediately in a state of outrage.

There has been no public mention of the scandal in Moscow although it was said to be the talk of the town. When the theses were published in pamphlet form by the state political publishing house a few days after their appearance in Pravda the mistaken quotation was simply dropped from the document.

The occasion at which Lenin attacked Bauer was the Second Congress of the Comintern, the Soviet-led Communist international organization, in July, 1920.

Quoting a passage from a book by Bauer, Lenin said sarcastically that the "book will be a useful, if peculiar, supplement to the textbooks on Communism" and suggested that the party use as a test of Communist knowledge "any paragraph, any argument" in Bauer's book.

"If you cannot answer the question," he said, "you are not yet a Communist and should not join the Communist Party."

He then went on to quote Bauer's view that the "social factors of force," which determine the relative strength of various elements in society, were: "number; the degree of organization; the place held in the process of production and distribution; activity, and education."

He told his audience: "You may think that this sounds queer and unintelligible. It is an example of what Marxism has been reduced to, of the kind banality and defence of the exploiters to which the most revolutionary theory can be reduced."

DIED IN 1938

Bauer emigrated from Austria in 1934 after a Socialist revolt was suppressed by the army. He died in France in 1938 at the age of 55.

The wrong attribution represented a scandal because of the authority of Lenin's words and the seriousness with which the 100th anniversary of his birth is being celebrated April 22, 1970.

For months Soviet publishing houses have been pouring forth a stream of hundreds of books and studies, illuminating every phase and facet of Lenin's life.

Scholars of the institute of Marxism-Leninism, which presumably did the research for the theses, probably came under sharp criticism as a result of the error since the Party considers itself the repository of Lenin's wisdom.

Municipal Children 'Abandoned to Wolves'

A bill setting up a B.C. Municipal Financing Authority passed second reading in the legislature Monday amid opposition charges the provincial government is abandoning its municipal "children" to the financial wolves.

The bill will pool $6 billion in province-wide property assessment to back the borrowing power of municipalities across the province. Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said it is a "first" in North America.

Opposition critics said the reason it is a first is that no other provincial or state government would treat its municipalities as badly as B.C. treats its own.

SHOULD CARRY ON

They challenged the government to continue guaranteeing municipal borrowings as in the past.

The bill specifies that the new authority will deal in borrowing for pollution abatement, sewerage and water projects.

It passed 35-17, government against New Democrats and Liberals.

NDP Leader Dave Barrett asked why the government did not centralize credit and borrowing power of the province and the municipalities and borrow "one lump sum covering all provincial and municipal needs, backed by the good credit of all the people of B.C." He suggested the pooled borrowings could be made on a five-year basis.

The provincial government was trying to absolve itself of the responsibility to borrow for pollution control, he said.

REAL ARCHITECT

Liberal Leader Pat McGeer said Campbell should be ashamed of bringing in such a bill and termed Campbell a "whipping boy" for the finance minister (Premier Bennett) who was obviously the architect of the scheme.

The bill would cut municipalities off from lower-interest Canada Pension Plan funds, which are available only to provincially guaranteed bonds, he said. This would allow Bennett to favor even more his B.C. Hydro and Pacific Great Eastern Railway borrowings, he said.

"The policy of the provincial government is to play favorites with priorities, to favor their own monuments. ... Why should municipalities be forced into the high-interest international money market? Water and sewers and roads rate in importance with electricity and railways," he said.

McGeer criticized the provision whereby the credit of municipalities opting out of the authority would still "be dragged down because this bill will force them to back the bonds of participating municipalities."

Alex Fraser (SC—Cariboo) said he was "amazed" at the attitude of the opposition. Urban people don't realize the problems of small municipalities, he said, adding the Union of B.C. Municipalities was "completely in favor" of the scheme.

Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) said that if the UBCM was in favor, "They've been sold a bill of goods."

EXTRA EXPENSE

Jim Lorimer (NDP—Burnaby-Willingdon) said the bill not only hands a clear provincial responsibility—guaranteeing municipal loans — over to local governments, but there would also be extra expenses of administration born by municipalities through the authority, he said.

It might be an improvement if Greater Vancouver Regional District were left to guarantee its own borrowing while the provincial government guaranteed those of all other municipalities, he said.

Allan Williams (Lib.—West Vancouver-Howe Sound) charged that the government had consistently placed burden upon burden on the necks of the municipalities. The Socreds had neglected the municipalities in favor of Crown corporations, he added.

GOVERNMENT OPTS OUT

The people who would be opting out under the legislation would be the provincial government, Williams suggested, and after municipalities had been made to put sewers in, they would not get a nickle of help.

Herb Bruch (SC — Esquimalt) and Dr. Howard McDiarmid called for federal aid to municipalities.

Bruch charged that Ottawa had reneged on a promise to provide aid to municipalities through a municipal development bank.

A vote against the bill, Campbell said, would be a "straight vote against equalization." He said the opposition would "totally manacle municipalities" by giving the provincial government the right to make decisions without any local say.

He predicted that other jurisdictions would follow the lead of B.C. and the opposition "signers would be called to repentance."

PILL WARNING TONED DOWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Food and Drug Administration is toning down its announced package warning for 8,500,000 users of oral contraceptives after pressure from physicians, drug manufacturers and high government officials.

★ ★ ★

An FDA spokesman and sources in the health, education and welfare department confirmed Monday the 600-word leaflet announced earlier this month is being extensively reworded.

The revised draft leaflet has only this to say about the pill's dangers:

"As with all effective drugs, they may cause side effects in some cases and should not be taken at all by some. Rare instances of blood clotting are the most important known complications of the oral contraceptives."

★ ★ ★

The original wording was much sharper. It said:

"There is a definite association between blood-clotting disorders and the use of contraceptives. The risk of this complication is six times higher for users than for non-users."

Fort Grab Still Plan

SEATTLE (AP) — An Indian group pressing claims to Ft. Lawton here met with Mayor Wes Uhlman Monday and agreed to form a liaison committee between the city and the Indians.

The representatives of United Indians of All Tribes turned down a request by the mayor to take part in a broadly-based advisory group to recommend a comprehensive plan for use of the land if it is acquired by the city. The Indians contended taking part in the group would compromise their claim to Ft. Lawton.

The agreed to a liaison group of three members of the mayor's staff and three United Indians representatives.

The army fort is soon to be declared surplus and the city hopes to acquire it for a park.

Sunrise Service Planned

For the 27th consecutive year, the annual Sunrise Service sponsored by the Victoria Camp, Gideons International in Canada, will be held Easter Sunday at 7:45 a.m. in Centennial Square.

For 25 years the service was held in Beacon Hill Park.

But, in 1967, in recognition of Canada's 100th birthday, the service was switched to Centennial Square, and it has been held there ever since.

The Easter message will be given by Rev. Paul Hawkes, pastor of Glad Tidings Tabernacle.

He will be supported by a male chorus, conducted by Helmut Janzen, and the band of Victoria's Citadel Corps of the Salvation Army.

The entire program will be broadcast over a public address system.

Sunday school classes from most Victoria churches will participate.

"We invite everyone to join with us in this glorious Easter morning service of worship," says Ed Friesen, president of the Victoria Camp, Gideon's International.

JURY RULES ROAD DEATH ACCIDENTAL

DUNCAN — A coroner's jury ruled Monday night that no blame be attached to the driver of a car which struck and killed Angus Robert MacDonald, 24, of 938 West 14th Ave., Vancouver on March 3.

The jury returned the verdict of accidental death after listening to testimony in which a witness in a following car said Thomas Mattin, 18, of Mill Bay was driving within the speed limit and was unable to stop when Macdonald stepped on to the highway.

Mothers to Plead For Pupil Safety

NORTH COWICHAN—Two mothers whose children attend Somenos Elementary School will meet deputy minister of highways H. T. Miard in Victoria Wednesday to discuss a hazardous crossing at Sprott Road and Trans-Canada Highway.

The meeting was arranged for Mrs. Patrick Mullins and Mrs. Arthur Roberts by Robert Strachan, Cowichan-Malahat MLA.

The women discussed the proposed meeting and their hopes of getting a commitment from the highways department to build an overpass or underpass at a meeting of South End ratepayers.

'TOO DANGEROUS'

Local authorities, including RCMP and school officials, agree the present crossing with crosswalk warning signs and restriction of 30 miles per hour when children are on the highway are inadequate and too dangerous even for institution of school patrols.

Mrs. Mullins said a serious accident at the crossing is inevitable and with the heavy traffic and regular 60-miles-per-hour rate of speed, the only solution is an underpass or overpass.

She said the Junior Chamber of Commerce has been told by the highways department the signs posted at the crosswalk are all the crossing merited at present. No replies had been received to parents' letters, she said.

North Cowichan council has been asked to send a representative and South End Ratepayers' Association will ask provincial and federal governments for action.

Inquiry Today In Death Of Sisters

Sidney Coroner D. G. Ashby began an inquiry today into the death of two sisters who died of carbon monoxide poisoning in a truck parked on the East Saanich Indian reserve Sunday morning.

Mrs. Alex Johnny, 28, of Duncan and Mrs. Joseph Wise, 24, of Nanaimo had been performing ceremonial dances in the Big House, the reserve's community centre.

They were found at 3:30 a.m by Lena Pelkey, daughter of tribal leader Harold Pelkey.

It's estimated that the sisters had been in the truck 45 minutes. The engine was still running when they were found.

Mrs. Johnny leaves seven children and her sister, three.

Man Jailed

DUNCAN — Ronald Murray Mason, 34, of Honeymoon Bay was sentenced to 18 months in Oakalla Prison for possession of stolen property when he appeared in provincial court.

Mason was arrested Jan. 20 for having tools and a radio in his possession which were stolen from a truck.

Mainguy Hall Fire 'Heartbreaking'

MAPLE BAY — Douglas Barker, former commanding officer of Cowichan branch of the Navy League, is in hospital today after salvaging equipment from the Admiral Mainguy Hall, damaged by fire Monday.

Mrs. Barker said her husband had been ill but went to the fire anyway.

His illness has been diagnosed as pneumonia but his condition is satisfactory.

"It was heartbreaking to see it go up in flames," Mrs. Barker said.

Her husband was president of the Cowichan branch up until a week ago. He managed to save, among other equipment, a set of drums which had been donated to the club a few years ago.

Most of the cadets' equipment in the building was saved but some sustained smoke and water damage. Damage to the building was estimated to be [illegible] cause for the fire has been determined.

Plans are under way for reconstruction and Mrs. Barker said a number of sea cadets had indicated they would like to help.

Father's Day Outing For Bay Outhouses

COWICHAN BAY — The outhouses will race again this year but at a new date, a member of the Cowichan Bay outhouse race privy council said today.

Gordon Price of Pier 66 Marina said the outhouse race date is being changed from May 24 to a weekend in June, probably Father's Day. He said there were too many other events on the May 24 weekend to compete against.

A highlight of this year's outhouse derby will be the race for the Hiccup Trophy between members of the mutual aid fire departments at Crofton, Maple Bay, Cowichan Bay, Ladysmith, Chemainus, Duncan and North Cowichan.

200 VOLUNTEERS

About 200 volunteers are involved and many are expected to enter craft in the event, Price said.

The Hiccup Trophy is exchanged among the firemen for sundry competitions and is currently held by North Cowichan who won it for bowling supremacy.

Price said a meeting of the privy council will be hdld Wednesday night to formulate plans for the event.

MILL BAY ROUTE 'TOO SLOW, TOO COSTLY'

Hatch Point—Deep Cove Ferry Urged

DUNCAN — The Mill Bay-Brentwood ferry should run from Hatch Point to Deep Cove, Dr. Charles Ennals said Monday night.

Ennals, who ran a close second to Cowichan-Malahat MLA Robert Strachan in the last provincial election as a Social Credit candidate said he would make this and other proposals to the provincial cabinet.

NOT GETTING BUSINESS

He said the ferry is losing money at its present location because it is not getting the business it should.

The B.C. Ferry Service purchased the Mill Bay-Brentwood ferry service from a private Vancouver operator less than one year ago and continues to operate it with one ferry.

Ennals told a news conference the ferry would serve a manifold purpose if it were relocated at Hatch Point — midway between Mill Bay and Cowichan Bay — and Deep Cove, at the tip of the Saanich Peninsula.

15-MINUTE RUN

The distance could be covered in less than half the present 30 minutes, attract more users and thereby ease pressure on the Malahat.

Access roads to Hatch Point are already improved and the location would be ideal for a ferry landing. Ennals was certain there were no government plans afoot to locate a pulp mill at that location although there were rumors to that effect among the residents of Cobble Hill and Cowichan Bay areas.

Ennals said he considers the three-lane highway proposal for the Trans-Canada from Victoria to Nanaimo to be inadequate nd unsafe.

"It requires rerouting to avoid the present multi-access and should be divided to handle traffic volume safely."

He suggested the present Trans-Canada Highway, which slices through Duncan, Ladysmith and Nanaimo, as an arterial road and relocate the new Trans-Canada farther west.

He said the present highway was located and built before the ferry fleet came into operation "which brings not only very heavy truck traffic to the Island but hundreds of thousands of visitors.

"The accident death rate is alarming and the attendent costs in litigation, property and personal damage runs into millions."

Until new divided route can be located, several safety measures should be considered: Overhead or underground crossings at Mill Bay, Koksilah, Somenos and Ladysmith. Overhead lighting at blind spots such as the Trans-Canada intersection with Bench Road.

Ennals also asked for action for completion of the new Cowichan Lake road which will still be five miles short of its destination when the current contracts are finished.

Big Tax-Shift Indicated

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Ed Schreyer indicated in the legislature Monday that his New Democratic Party government may introduce a second major shift in taxation, probably within the next 18 months.

Schreyer pointed to the first major tax shift initiated by his government last summer, and said "a second shift may be made within 18 months."

In the first major tax change after the NDP government took power last July, the government reduced medical care premiums by 90 per cent, and shifted the burden to the provincial share of corporate and personal income tax, which were increased 18 per cent.

"We cannot make two shifts of such magnitude in one year," Schreyer said.

Although he did not specify what type of tax reform is being contemplated, he has spoken in the past of increasing the provincal sales tax—now five per cent—to decrease the tax burden on property owners.

AMENDMENT DRAWS OPPOSITION IRE

Regional College Financing Hit

Taxpayers are being unnecessarily "saddled" with the expense of paying for regional colleges, opposition spokesmen charged in the legislature Monday.

Eileen Dailly (NDP—Burnaby North) said the principle of local taxation was inherent in a bill that amends the provisions of the Public Schools Act applying to regional colleges.

The bill was approved at second reading by 35 to 16 with the NDP and Liberals united in opposition.

Mrs. Dailly, the NDP deputy house leader, said she believed that the colleges should be treated the same as other institutions of higher education and not have the local taxpayers pay part of the cost.

SHADOW BOARDS

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby-Edmonds) said the bill would destroy the autonomy of the colleges with "a shadow board in Victoria (the government) determining what their budgets will be."

He added that this was surprising from a government that had gone on record that universities would not have to disclose their budgets.

The colleges would not only have to disclose their budget, but the government would have final approval, he said.

Burt Campbell (SC—Revelstoke-Slocan) said the provincial government paid 60 per cent of the costs of the colleges, and that the 22 per cent paid by local taxpayers was a "small price" to pay for the schools.

MISLEADING

It is a pity there was not a separate act for the regional college system Dave Brousson (Lib.—North Vancouver-Capilano) said. Brousson felt that the colleges had just been lumped together with the elementary and high schools for the sake of administrative convenience.

Internal governments of colleges was left very much in doubt, Brousson added, and the students and faculty were hardly mentioned in the bill.

Liberal leader Dr. Pat McGeer said the act created "super-high schools" and the government was misleading the people into believing the schools were really colleges when they were just extensions into grades 13 and 14.

Education Minister Donald Brothers said some MLAs seem to misunderstand the purpose of regional colleges. "They are not necessarily a stepping stone to university," he said, adding that about half the courses are academic and the other half technical.

SCHOOL ADDITIONS APPROVED

Treasury Board approval has been granted to the education department to call tenders for $80,000 in additions and alterations at Reynolds Secondary-Vocational school.

The tenders called will be for the completion of unfinished rooms in the school.

Approval to award contracts was also given for work at Whaletown Elementary ($2,000) in the Campbell River school district, and for portable classroom relocation from Courtenay Jr. Secondary to Cumberland Elementary ($1,390).

Drug Use Creates Dropouts, Law Officer Tells Forum

The biggest threat to young people using illicit drugs is the loss of ambition, Sgt. Bill Chisholm of the Saanich police department told a drug forum Monday night at the Newcombe Auditorium.

He said he had seen youngsters who had been good students and athletes deteriorate through drug use to the level of "dropouts or social bums."

DRUG USE UP

Chisholm is with the traffic and education branch of the Saanich force. The forum was sponsored by the department and the B.C. Government Employees' Union, Victoria branch.

He traced the rise of drug use in the area pointing that in 1961 there were no drug cases before the court and this increased to more than 600 prosecutions in 1968.

The biggest jump was between the years 1966 with 57 cases and 1967 with 396 cases.

MENTAL BREAKDOWN

"I wore myself into a mental breakdown," he said, before seeking medical help.

He added that in three years he went into debt about $1,300, losing his car, stereo and clothes.

Dr. Walter R. Lysak, a local neurologist and the third member of the panel, said currently the question of drug use could be argued either way.

He pointed out that journal studies are full of contradictions and that the whole area was "too fuzzy."

ASSEMBLY LINE handling at Goodwill speeds another batch of Meals on Wheels to waiting diners. There's a Lot of Goodwill in Every Dish

By PAT DUFOUR

Local groups and a host of individual volunteers are proving that amalgamation can work, at least with the Meals on Wheels program, which celebrates its fourth birthday this month.

•

Strong man in the organization is Saanich Alderman William Noel, who has been with the project since 1967 when the municipality appointed him chairman of health and social services.

"The program grew like Topsy and in September 1968 we re-organized in order to meet the growing need. The Douglas Rotary Club paid for a special oven which kept the meals warm in the commercial delivery van commissioned to cover the Saanich area — and still does. The ladies of the Christian Reform Church took on the chores of selling tickets and visiting those who wanted the meals."

There was no way to contain the need for the Meals on Wheels service, and soon people in Oak Bay, Victoria and Esquimalt were added to the rolls.

•

The Community Council of Greater Victoria took the project under its wing, still with Noel as its main pivot.

For a while, the meals were prepared at St. Joseph's Hospital until the case-load grew to about 160 a day, five times a week.

Then the meal preparation itself became another service to the community.

"As you know, they're now cooked and packaged for delivery at Goodwill Enterprises by trainees, who, once they graduate, are found similar self-supporting work in the community."

To help man the delivery service, more than 200 volunteer drivers use their cars to augment the delivery van, carrying hot meals all over town five days a week.

Mrs. Bob Peterson oversees delivery operations, working out of the Silver Threads' Centennial Square building. Many of the volunteers are Silver Thread members, others belong to church groups and other organizations.

Noel reports that it will take about $5,000 this year to keep the 60-cent meals wheeling to those who need them.

•

He's one third the way to making his budget.

"The Douglas Rotary have given us $1,000; the Saanich Lions have come through with $500, the Lake Hill Women's Institute sent us a cheque for $100 and we received another $100 from the Victoria Elks."

Burn-In Won't Get Fire Permit

The people who plan to burn their Hydro bills on the lawns of the Legislative Buildings Wednesday night might get burned themselves.

Victoria Fire Chief Eric Simmons said today he won't give anybody a permit to burn anything on the legislature lawns, or any other public place.

SIMMONS

And, a far as he knows, the organizers of the protest against increased electricity rates have not yet applied to light their fire.

Old age pensioners, members of the Victoria Low Income Group and others announced earlier they wanted to burn electricity bills as a last-ditch stand against a 15-per-cent increase in rates effective April 1.

One of the organizers said the protest would be "perfectly legal" and they planned to get a permit. Today, one official said the protest will go ahead anyway but possibly without a fire.

NOT IN PUBLIC

"We don't authorize such fires at any time. We don't allow fires in public places, only on a person's private property," he said.

One of the protest organizers said earlier that attention would also be directed at increases in water rates and bus fares and provincial welfare policies.

TOUGH TIME

Public Works Minister Chant, who has said the protesters have every right to use the lawns as long as no damage is done, conceded people on fixed incomes have "a devil of a time" coping with rising costs.

But he defended the electricity rate increase saying it means that costs will be back to where they were in 1961 and he asked what can be bought today at the price it was nine or 10 years ago.

A Low Income Group spokesman said this is scant comfort to those with budgets stretched beyond limits. The planned burn-in was the only means left to show how desperate things have become.

'I Was There' Meeting Opens Friday

The five-day Salvation Army Easter Holiness Convention starts Friday at the Empress Hotel with delegates expected from all over B.C. and parts of the United States.

The convention is the first of its kind held here and Salvation Army officials are hoping that success will make it an annual affair.

The theme of the convention is "I was there," the personal involvement of the Christian with the cross and resurrection.

Discussions will feature a team of six cadets from the Salvation Army's Toronto Training College and three speakers: Lt.-Col. Thomas Ellwood, Maj. Margaret Green and Capt. Bramwell Tillsley, all from Toronto.

'Beds Are More Urgent Than Future Road Needs'

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said today it "should be recognized that the provision of hospital beds is a pressing and immediate problem" and far more urgent than a solution to future traffic problems.

Loffmark said he plans to use all the resources at his disposal to acquire land and make it available for hospital use. He rejected any suggestion by critics of the government that a decision relating to the acquisition of land for St. Joseph's Hospital can or should be deferred.

The city of Victoria has proposed extending Belleville Street through lands held by St. Joseph's to help solve predicted traffic problems in the area.

Loffmark disagrees.

"The fact is that traffic in the area is not a present problem," the health minister said in an interview. He said the extension plan is "unacceptable."

Loffmark said there were three alternatives open to the city.

- Defer traffic planning until such time as the need was a "present" one, and consider the Belleville extension as not necessary now;
- Establish plans to carry the extension of the road north of the hospital property as proposed by the hospital board;
- Re-examine the need to route traffic along Belleville. "It seems that bringing together the traffic from three or four streets could stand some further examination."

"In most cases municipal governments are more than anxious to have hospital expansion within their municipal boundaries and it is usual to find them willing to donate land for this purpose or make it available at very unusual prices," Loffmark said.

He added that he found the position of the city "most unusual" in this respect and said the city seemed to be taking this opportunity to make fiscal demands relating to traffic problems on the occasion of hospital expansion.

"I doubt that any hospital ever planned or constructed was ever planned or constructed without causing the municipality some inconvenience from the point of view of traffic patterns, but most would think of this as a minor consideration when compared to the very great advantages to its citizens which come from the added hospital facilities."

Ask The Times

Q. We have been watching the crane on the new apartment house on Michigan go up floor by floor. Can you tell us how they get it up each floor and how they get it off the top of the building when it has finished the job?—A.P.

A. The crane is raised, usually floor by floor, by means of a hydraulic jacking unit combined with a four-foot mast and two sets of jaws. As the crane is raised bars are inserted in special holes in the mast and so support the crane. The firm which is handling this 20-storey project estimates that it will be completed and the crane removed within the next few days. This will be done by disassembling the crane into small pieces and lowering them by derrick. A spokesman reports that the crane isn't as heavy as it appears. The whole front end weighs about 3,500 pounds, equal to the weight of a small car.

Police Recover 300 'Cartridges'

Saanich police have recovered about 300 of an estimated 400 explosive-type construction cartridges stolen at the weekend from the partly-built Arbutus Secondary.

Investigating officers discovered youngsters in the area had taken the cartridges used by builders to "fire" nails into concrete. Police are continuing the search for the remaining cartridges.

The school is located in the area bounded by Finnerty, Arbutus, Edgelow and Gordon Head and the general contractor is W. Campbell Ltd.

The cartridges disappeared, in an unknown number of boxes, from a storage centre in the building along with 200 packages of Jet Line, used in construction as a projectile but not considered dangerous by police because the detonation devices were not taken.

The cartridges look like .22 calibre short blanks with an exterior shell, the ends of which are colored yellow and red or brown and blue. The color indicates the explosive charge.

The cartidge packages are cardboard about two and one-quarter inches square and one and one-half inches deep and are colored blue and red.

Some smaller boxes, marked Star, are two inches square and one and one-quarter inches deep.

173 PINTS COLLECTED

The clinic was to remain at the Student Union Building today and Wednesday. Hours are 9:30 to 4 p.m.

The clinic is not limited to students.

Arts, Food Importer, Lee Kim, 75, Dies

Born in 1895 in Sunwai, China, he came to Victoria in 1908, and first worked with his uncle in the grocery business. Later he established his own firm, now known as Morley Ltd.—importers of Chinese arts, crafts and food.

He took an active part in community affairs and was extremely interested in education and Chinese culture. He was a past president of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association.

Since the establishment of the Chinese Public School in the early 1920s, he took an active interest in the institution and served on its board.

He is survived by his widow, Ida, at home; sons, Wing in Vancouver, Jack and Henry in Victoria; daughters, Mrs. Henry Ho (Sybil) Vancouver, and Mrs. Y. C. Lee (Fay), New Jersey; and 15 grandchildren.

Arthur Mayse . . .

WHEN THE BOOM IN holiday homes on wheels got under way, I wondered whether the tent would be banished from the campsites. But this hasn't happened, and spring's first long weekend should bring plenty of tent campers to our Vancouver Island provincial parks.

A Victoria supplier of outdoors gear has been getting rental orders for camp outfits well in advance of the holiday. As you've probably noticed, the department stores have also unfurled their canvas.

And even though we give driveway space to a trailer, the sight and the smell of those fabric abodes evokes a homesickness for holiday jaunts in which tents played a part.

Some of those trips were nothing less than idyllic. We would wake to sunshine, and the sun would stay with us until the moon took over. The breezes blew soft. If rain did fall, it was no more than a gentle shower.

Other trips were so grim that only muleheadedness kept us from breaking camp and clearing out. Instead of sunshine, a hopeless downpour that continued day and night. Also, wind — booming gusts that tested our tent seams and did their best to yank up deep-driven pegs.

So much for extremes. The average tent-camping junket — especially the early or late-season one — is much more likely to follow a middle course. Perhaps some rain, but with luck, enough sunshine to put a burnish on the world around you.

I'm telling you nothing here that seasoned campers haven't learned for themselves many times over. But this coming weekend, and on through the year, many a family will be trying what for its members will be a new venture.

For some, a tent trip will prove to be an enjoyable experience that deserves to be repeated. Others, like one family that set up camp in a drainage basin, won't be able to get home fast enough.

Had those unfortunates chosen a provincial park with its well-planned sites, they might have made out all right. But they decided to pitch their tent, a flimsy two-room affair, in a sandy hollow close up against a streamside cutbank.

The rain that began at dusk was nothing that a proper camp couldn't have weathered. But their tent roof, stretched tight, began to spray, and water seeped under the floor.

That family finished the night in a resort cottage, and headed for home next morning.

Enjoyable camping is in part a matter of attitudes. Those who set out determined that they're going to enjoy themselves usually do so. They're willing to accept conditions as they find them.

Also, they add to their pleasure and increase their comfort by going adequately equipped.

A large sheet of plastic guyed overhead will give your camp an outdoor kitchen-living room. Another sheet, or the same one if large enough, will waterproof even an indifferent tent roof.

Take along enough light rope or heavy cord to string it, and to provide a line for an absolute minimum of camp laundry.

Avoid gimmicks, which rearely earn their freight, but do see that everyone in the family has short rubber boots for beach-prowling or poking around in damp woods.

By the same token, a sweat-suit beats pajamas, and you'll be glad of such garb if required to escort leaky little vessels to a parks branch biffy in the small hours.

If you're new to camping, you'll learn from other campers.

Any number of times, we've had cause to bless the woman who fetched out her "survival kit" for inspection. A candy box held all the trivia that nobody thinks of until it's needed . . . candle stub, pencil, safety pins, bandaids, buttons, needles, thread, clothes pegs, and other such. We fixed up a similar kit, and it goes along on all holiday journeys.

If you do decide to start the camping season early by heading out this Easter weekend, you stand to make a discovery that will add to your pleasure.

In this time of young leaves and quickening growth, the parks are purely lovely!

A 5,000-NAME petition was presented to the government this morning by the Silver Threads through Oak Bay MLA Dr. Scott Wallace. The petition calls for $10 per year bus passes, without means tests, for all persons over 65, revision of transit routes and extension of the hours passes can be used. The petition was presented by Victoria Silver Threads executive director Mrs. Catherine Horne, left, and Saanich centre director Frances Mahon.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Grave Problem

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have two sisters and one brother and we have always been a very close family. We're all married and have families of our own. Mother died nine years ago and Dad died one year later. We all contribute equally to the upkeep of their graves, but Abby, I have not been back to visit their graves since Dad died. I have started out many times, but it just tears me apart, and I turn back.

My sisters and brother go often. They say it makes them feel "good." Maybe I'm an odd ball, but I get so depressed when I head out to the cemetery it takes me days to get over it. Is something wrong with me? I was a good son to them, so it's not that I feel guilty. Should I force myself to visit the folks so my sisters and brother won't think I'm disrespectful to their memory? — Odd Ball.

DEAR ODD: The time to go "visit the folks" is when they're living. If it "tears you apart" to go to the cemetery, stay away, and don't feel guilty.

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why so many people can be so ignorant about obesity. People get fat from eating out of frustration and boredom. It's a difficult habit to break — like smoking or excessive drinking.

Just as all men are not happy pursuing the same career, all women are not happy being housewives.

I happen to believe that my small children need me at home, so if I get fat from eating, isn't that better than living on tranquilizers, becoming an alcoholic, or screaming at everyone just because I feel bored and frustrated? Sign me . . . Fat (But it's nobody's business but my own)

DEAR FAT: Don't rationalize. Your health is your family's business! Fat reduces one's energy, vitality, and efficiency. You're right, getting fat is preferable to living on tranquilizers, or becoming an alcoholic. But must you make a choice? You will like yourself more, enjoy better health, and live longer if you deal with your boredom and frustrations in still a more sensible way. See your doctor. He has good news for you. And good luck.

DEAR ABBY: For years I've been reading letters in your column about women who get their hair fixed to look good for other women and who could care less how their husbands see them. Also about women who go around with rollers, and let the grocer and their neighbors see them, and even go to school that way. And they don't care as long as they look pretty when their husbands come home.

Today I had a permanent and I paid a lot of money for it. I asked myself, "Did I do it for my husband?" Not really. He loves me no matter how I look. "Did I do it for other women?" No. I know why I did it. Because I want to look nice at all times, for marketing, errands, and whenever I step outside the house and meet my neighbors.

I figure that my husband gave me his name, and wherever I go, I represent him. I always try to act like a lady. When I'm shopping I am patient and courteous and I am never rude to anyone.

I wish more wives realized that in a way they are a one-woman public relations firm for their husbands. — Palm Springs Wife.

DEAR WIFE: So do I.

DEAR ABBY: Tell LIKES PETS to go ahead and get a green carpet if she wants one. Dogs and cats would never mistake a carpet for grass regardless of the color because animals go by smell and feel. Besides, animals (with the exception of monkeys, apes, and baboons) are color-blind. They see only in shades of grey. — Likes Pets Too.

Jayne in a Hat Feels Insecure

By PENNY SAVER

"My head feels funny," said Jayne as she glared ominously into the mirror. "I'm scared to move it and my neck is getting sore from the strain. I don't think I'll ever get used to it."

She had just put on a hat for the first time since she was a little girl being dressed by her mother:

"I just know the darned thing is going to fall off any second," she continued. "Why did you talk me into it, Penny?"

The hat that had overcome Jayne's millinery prejudice is made of a printed material, has a trim little brim at the front and a matching scarf. It looks very sweet on her.

She sighted it from across the room, laughingly swung the scarf around her throat, perched the hat on her hair and asked how she looked. I said "Wonderful," because it was true and she bought the set on the spot for $6 .

The problem came when she put them on with the idea of wearing them for a whole afternoon. That is when the true hattiness of the situation struck her.

These little sets come in a variety of colors and prints. The hat is a cross between a tam and a baseball player's hat and very nice — if you are used to wearing hats, that is.

The fashion experts I've read say that the Isadora Duncan scarves that came in late last year are already passe, but scarves are still important as accents and there is jewelry to go with them .

A simple knot, or even a pin will do for a scarf at the throat, but what about a scarf as a belt?

To add interest to this kind of scarf accent I found enormous pins for $2. Made of gold-colored metal these pins come in a variety of themes.

Many follow the serpent theme with serpents holding their own tails to form circles, clusters of snakes intertwined and so forth.

Other resembles overlapping coins; others the head of an animal, for example a goat or a cat-like animal that wasn't quite cat-like.

Some of these pins were decorated with pearls or rhinestones.

A short way down the jewelry counter I found monster bracelets for $2 and $4, some of which matched the belt pins.

Women who can carry off big jewelry accents with aplomb might also like to use these belt pins as regular brooches to accept plain dresses.

For $2 I found necklaces called "love necklaces" in silver and gold.

These necklaces have the thin wire circle around the throat with a pendant — sometimes a heart, sometimes a plain disc that seems to be begging for an engraved initial, sometimes a jewel.

I noticed while passing through a "hip" men's wear department that this kind of jewelry is recommended for both sexes.

If you would like to know where to find these items, please call 382-3131 between 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

The Girl in the Hat Is Back According to Paris Designers

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

Hair styles soft and easy, clothes soft and easy—what else can it all mean but the return of hats? The word was out from the moment Valentino opened his midi-length spring collection in Rome, with hats inseparable from every costume. The Paris confirmed the trend, as one collection after another used hats to accent the thirties' influence in clothes.

Many of the hats showed the same influence. There were lots of soft fedoras, some with the long feather which was a fad back in the thirties. Berets were equally widespread, from giant mushroom styles to an unusual convertible one seen at Jean Patou. In white organza set all over with double-layered flowers, it has a removable visor, so it can be worn as a cap as well as in beret form.

Valentino was entranced with the wavy-brimmed straw hats from the thirties, using them with many of his costumes. They were light in effect, despite their size, being made of a featherweight, crisp straw, and left almost untrimmed except for an occasional narrow ribbon band with trailing ends.

One hat form was held over from previous seasons, the scarf hat. With scarves still very much in the fashion picture, they still look right on the head, whether folded and wrapped, with long ends, or worked into soft, almost casual turban effects. Paris designers used a lot of scarf hats, sometimes reducing them to headbands with bows, an idea also seen in Italy.

Hair styles, of course, have to be accommodating when hats are in the trend, and the coiffures this spring are the right kind. Hair is soft and natural, often waved close to the head, or nearly smooth with flipped at the ends, so a hat goes on easily.

Couple Married In Expo Pavilion

OSAKA (CP) — One of the first weddings at Asia's world fair took place Sunday when a young British Columbia couple was married in the heavily-promotional atmosphere of a sewing-machine pavilion at Expo '70.

While television lights and photographers' flash bulbs illuminated the white interior of the Wacoal-Riccar Pavilion, Gerald J. Foster, 22-year-old Vancouver art student, and Nicola Jane Gould, 21, an office worker, were married in a 20-minute Christian ceremony.

Licence for the marriage, one of 52 to be held on weekends at the disc-topped pavilion during the six months of the fair, was arranged by Canadian consular authorities.

A former Philadelphian, Rev. Richard B. Ribble of Kobe Union Church, a Protestant interdenominational church for English-speaking people in the nearby port city, performed the ceremony.

After the Christian ceremony, which was attended by about 30, including newspapermen, nine silver-garbed hostesses from the Wacoal-Riccar Pavilion, two red-coated Mounties and hostesses from the nearby B.C. pavilion, an ornate Japanese ceremony followed.

500 ADMITTED

About 500 fair-goers, who had waited hours outside in the rain, were admitted for this part of the ceremony.

Then the couple mounted the stage to have their hands bound together by the dancers with silver and gold cloth.

Mrs. Foster told television interviewers they met when Foster's car was stuck in Vancouver one snowy night in January a year ago. She gave him a push and two weeks later they became engaged.

B.C. Pavilion authorities, learning of the Wacoal-Riccar plans to stage Expo weddings, tipped Vancouver newspapers.

PAYS HONEYMOON

Foster and Miss Gould read about it, applied and were selected by the sewing-machine company. They had to pay their way to Japan but after that Wacoal-Riccar picks up the cheque for their honeymoon here.

B.C. Commissioner-General John J. Southworth presented the bride at the ceremony and Mrs. Southworth was her attendant. After the ceremonies, the Mounties and a Canadian girl piper escorted the couple to a reception at the B.C. Pavilion.

The bride wore an ankle-length red woollen gown with monk-like cowl. The groom was colorful in green shirt, tan suede jacket and slacks and cowboy boots.

The first of the series of weddings was held Saturday when a Japanese couple was married.

Kathy the Hood Fights for Respect

EDMONTON (CP) —Kathy Emsley is 19 and she's busy fighting to become respected by others and to gain self-respect. But she says it's a tough job.

"I don't want to be Kathy Emsley the hood, or Kathy Emsley the drug addict, or Kathy Emsley the unwed mother. I just want to be Kathy Emsley."

Last June, pregnant and with no home to go to, Kathy went to a home for women with serious social problems.

She had been in an orphanage, a series of foster homes, institutions for juveniles and problem girls and even a mental hospital.

She had tried drugs, including marijuana, cocaine and heroin, been in motorcycle gangs, knife fights and had stolen cars. She also has enjoyed "beating the hell out of people."

She has a criminal record for car theft, but now the fight for respectability is under way.

SICK OF LIFE

Why did she decide to change?

"Old friends kept telling me 'Kathy, you've got to start trying and care more for yourself.' And I was sick of the way I was living."

After being out of school for four years, Kathy has returned to take Grade 10 and 11. She gets up at 5 a.m. and studies and spends most evenings at the library. Later she wants to go to technical school and eventually become a social worker or a policewoman.

"Feeling is needed in those jobs. I just want to help others. I want to work with kids, especially the ones going through what I've gone through."

She already is helping others—girls at the home and kids go to her for advice on their problems.

"They need to have someone reach out a hand to them," she said, adding that counsellors and social workers often don't understand the problems faced by people like her.

"But I do. I went through them."

CARRIES A GRUDGE

She carries a grudge against welfare workers: "They only worry about material needs, not feelings or emotional problems. They judge you by the thickness of your file—and mine's thick, so I'm trouble."

Kathy admits she is searching for love and security, but says she is "afraid of love, really."

She said she still cries about having to give up her baby, born last December; even though giving it up for adoption was the best thing to do.

"Sometimes my arms feel so empty. But I want her to know love first, not hate like I did."

She said she began her life learning that being bad—stealing for example—was the surest, and often only, way to get attention. She was taken from home by the welfare department when she was eight —already classed a juvenile delinquent.

"Everyone labelled me Kathy the hood, so I acted that way. I started living up to that a long time ago. When you are told for so long that you're not worth anything, you believe it."

Now the fight against the past is on and officials at the home are betting that Kathy will make the grade.

Manitoba to Hire Women for Surveys

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba Transportation Minister Joe Borowski has announced plans to hire women for survey work on the highways.

Mr. Borowski describes himself as "old fashioned" with ideas that women should be "loved and pampered."

"They harped on equality," said Mr. Borowski—so equality is what they'll get.

His department will hire two 10-member teams as survey groups on Manitoba highways this summer and another five or six women at weigh-scales in Greater Winnipeg.

"We'll give them the recognition they seem to want," the NDP cabinet minister said Monday in an interview.

The women will work comparable hours and receive the same pay as men.

The survey crews will stop motorists and ask them a series of questions to attempt to determine traffic patterns.

Mini-skirts are out.

Act Change Hospital 'Club'

"One of the biggest clubs" ever seen by opposition members hangs over the heads of hospital boards in the form of an amendment to the Hospital Act, Dennis Cocke (NDP—New Westminster) told the legislature Monday.

The amendment, approved at second reading by the legislature, gives the cabinet the power to appoint a public administrator for hospitals that are having "administrative difficulties." Approval was given by a majority of 36 to 17 with the NDP and Liberals voting together.

The concern and uneasiness of the opposition was echoed by Dr. Scott Wallace (SC—Oak Bay), who said the "problem of balancing local autonomy against the greater good" was a delicate one, but that the government should have the authority to act against "irresponsible" hospitals.

Wallace voted for second reading of the bill, but outside the chamber he expressed more concern. He said he was under the impression when he voted for the bill that a public administrator would not be appointed by cabinet until after examination by an inquiry board.

However, a sub-section of the bill indicates that the cabinet may appoint an administrator without having an inquiry.

May Oppose Section Later

The Oak Bay MLA said he would take the subsection up with Health Minister Ralph Loffmark and might vote against the offending section when the bill is considered section by section in committee stage.

Cocke expressed the fear that the amendment would be used against any hospital that might step out of line with the government.

"If you want to take over the hospitals in the province," he said, "take them over. Don't stand there with a club over their heads." The legislation, in effect, gave the government the power to step in when a hospital is doing something it does not like and take over.

It has been suggested that the section of the bill giving power to appoint an administrator is aimed at the Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster which has been involved in a dispute with the government over financing.

'Use It in Subtle Way'

Wallace told the legislature that he was concerned the government "might well use this power in a subtle way to take over every hospital in the province" but added "I don't see this as a first step in that direction.

"If in future the government proceeds in a manner that suggests this bill is a subtle means of controlling all hospitals I will be the first to scream loudest and longest."

He accused the government of lacking faith in the people to run their own hsopitals.

"You won't let local taxpayers elect hospital boards. Don't you trust the people?" he asked.

Loffmark runs hospitals "like the Damon Runyon character that shoots dice in a hat and calls out the numbers," he said. Sub—Should name

Should Name the Offender

Instead of passing the bill, the minister should name the hospital that is being irresponsible, fire the board and take over the hospital instead of "besmirching the good name" of people all over the province who give devoted service to hospitals, Barrett said.

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby-Edmonds) said the powers of the minister to take over a hospital area—"far too broad, far too loose" and have "absolutely no limitation."

He said the health department had proved so slow in processing plans for new hospitals that "you should have put in a section in this bill to appoint an administrator for the minister of health."

Loffmark said that under no circumstances would the government allow a hospital to be closed, as had been threatened by at least one hospital administrator in the province.

The bill also requires that the health minister approve in writing any expropriation of hospital lands — a provision that affects a proposal of the city of Victoria to extend Belleville Street through St. Joseph's Hospital grounds.

5-Acre Minimum Held in Saanich

Saanich council gave a reluctant no Monday night to a resident who wanted to build a second dwelling on one lot so his mother and sister could live nearby.

Manfred Liedtke, 5843 Old West Saanich Road, sought the permission at a public hearing. His lot is just over six acres and cannot be subdivided because of the five-acre subdivision minimum.

He was supported by Brian Hoole, 5675 Oldfield, who said council should yield to humanitarian considerations.

Ald. Leslie Passmore said council had been through such a change once before, and it had produced feuding between two occupants. He suggested the owner apply to turn his house into a duplex.

NOT SAME THING

Ald. Foster Isherwood said there is room for adjustment in this case and it was "not quite the same" as the other one because this involved one family. He had also opposed the five-acre subdivision minimum established last year.

Ald. Frank Waring said to permit it in this case would cancel out the five-acre minimum and if permitted here would be bound to be followed by others.

Ald. William Campbell agreed with other council members that he didn't like rejecting the application, but it "would open up" the five-acre minimum.

(The minimum was imposed over a large area of Saanich in an attempt to curb unsightly suburban sprawl with resulting expensive services to far-flung properties.)

DUPLEX APPROVED

In other business, council approved a duplex on Kingsberry Crescent immediately east of 3609 Richmond but turned down an application for a duplex next door.

A duplex at 1584 Cabana Place was approved and one at 1069 Elliston Place was tabled for further plans.

Also approved was an increase in off-street parking for offices, research establishments and permitted ancillary uses in light industrial zoning and wholesale sales, single zoning for Royal Oak Shopping Centre, greenhouse at 1840 Burnside Road West and restaurant at 5285 West Saanich Road.

Victims Get Grants

LONDON (Reuters) — Eighteen deformed children and their parents were awarded an agreed total of £369,709 ($961,243) Monday from the company which marketed the drug thalidomide in Britain.

The award was made in the High Court against Distillers Co. Biochemicals Ltd., which marketed the tranquillizer under licence from West Germany.

The award was the latest of 62 in which damages are being agreed under terms of a settlement reached with the company.

Thalidomide went on sale in Britain in 1958 and was withdrawn in 1961.

DON'T TRUST ANYONE OVER THIRTY . . .

Now He's There, His Tune Is Changing

By LEROY F. AARONS

LOS ANGELES (WP) — A little more than five years ago, a 24-year-old leader of the Free Speech Movement at Berkeley—granddaddy of the student revolution—told a reporter, "We have a saying in the movement that we don't trust anybody over 30."

The reporter printed the statement in a long article in his newspapers, the San Francisco Chronicle. The phrase "Don't trust anybody over 30" was picked up by Chronicle columnist Ralph Gleason and soon spread across the nation as the vanguard cry of campus rebles and the progenitor of the generation gap.

Disclaims Remark

On April 4, that student leader, Jack Weinberg, will himself become 30. He is now living with his girl friend in a one-room flat in Los Angeles, writing for the underground Los Angeles Free Press and organizing for the International Socialists, a nationwide organization that believes in a working-class revolution.

Weinberg now says that he never really meant what he said five years ago and means it even less now.

Weinberg, tall and serious, wryly recalls the conditions that led to the notorious quote.

"I was being interviewed by this guy, and he was, or seemed to be, saying something that was bothering me. He was probing into the question of weren't there outside adults manipulating us. There was the implication of a 'Communist conspiracy.' That was infuriating, so I said the thing about not trusting anybody over 30 as a kind of taunt. I was trying to tell him there weren't any greybeards manipulating us."

No Mass Slagon

Was that phrase in fact a saying of the movement at the time? "I may have heard it before, but I can't swear to it," Weinberg said. "It certainly was not a great mass slogan or anything."

Did Weinberg really believe himself in what he was saying? "Not actually. There were people over 30 whom I had a great deal of respect for and confidence in. I never meant it in the sense of a magical barrier. On the other hand, what I noticed around me was a very radical movement among young people and almost no reflection among people much older than us.

How It Spread

"The more interesting thing to me was how the thing spread. It was much more a slogan of the over-30 generation than the under-30. Young people like myself at first barely noticed it. But all the people over 30 come up and make jokes or say something about it. It became extablished as the general slogan of the movement in the press."

The over-30s were threatened by the youth movement, Weinberg theorized, and the phrase must have crystallized for them the thing that they feared. "I think the students picked it up because they saw what kind of effect they were having by using it."

Free Speech

Born in Buffalo, where his father owned a small jewelry business, Weinberg became involved in civil rights demonstrations as an undergraduate at Berkeley and was arrested several times. He helped launch the Free Speech Movement in October, 1964, when he was seized by police while passing out literature on campus and thrown into a police car. Thousands of students converged around the vehicle and held it trapped for 32 hours.

After the FSM ran its course, Weinberg stayed at Berkeley, helping to organize the Vietnam Day Committee in 1965 and the Peace and Freedom Party in 1967. During this period, he was becoming increasingly involved with the concept of socialism. He joined the Independent Socialist Club in 1966 and helped organize it into a national movement—the International Socialists—of which he is a national council member. He came to Los Angeles last October.

Today, he is convinced that one of the lessons of the last five years is that "the student movement is not sufficient." Since students lack power to make any basic changes in the social system, he says, they tend to become more and more isolated and frustrated.

One result is "individual acts of terrorism, such as the bombings, which only become a basis for building up repression and a hysterical atmosphere. It's a dead end and probably a dangerous one."

Students, Workers

The answer, for Weinberg, is a linkup between the students and the working class.

"Students are a definite minority. They have very little social power. The development, from a revolutionary standpoint, of a youth mystique is to cut oneself off from the majority of the population. If a period of radicalization should occur among the workers, you can be sure it would start more readily among the young. But you don't write off the rest. The social conflict is a class conflict."

For himself, becoming 30 is a blessing, not obsolescence. "When I was younger, I was never sure what was going to happen to me. You know, this whole thing about radicals getting older and wiser and settling down. It used to scare me a little bit.

"But by the time you reach 30, and you've been at it five or six years, it starts becoming less what you did when you were a kid. I'm pretty sure now what I'm going to be."

Which is what?

U.K.-Planned Student Aid Raises Storm

LONDON (CP) — Conservatives are threatening to raise a parliamentary storm over a government proposal to extend university students' grants to cover their lovers and illegitimate children.

A clause in a new bill would empower the education minister to take into consideration students' wives, husbands and children in determining the size of their grants.

It adds that this includes persons cohabiting with students and stepchildren or illegitimate children. The bill is to be debated Apirl 9. It was estimated it would add about £50,000 ($130,000) to the cost of grants.

Conservatives immediately leaped in to attack the measure after it was made public Monday.

Ronald Bell, vice-chairman of the parliamentary Tories' education committee, said there is no justification for "a compulsory levy on the citizens to subsidize the defiant deviations of those being educated at public expense."

"If they want to make their own rules, be it so. But let them learn about responsibility for the consequences of their actions, the cardinal rule of life."

Gerry Fowler, junior education minister, defended the proposal. He said the minister would have discretion over extension of the grants.

Ties Reaffirmed

TOKYO (AP)—China and Pakistan reaffirmed their friendly ties Monday in speeches at a Peking reception marking Pakistan's national day. The Chinese Communist news agency said Premier Chou En-lai led ta group of Chinese officials at the reception given by Pakistani Ambassador Khwaja Mohammed Kaiser.

Man Jailed For Theft, Fraud

A 28-year-old man was sentenced to 18 months in prison by Judge William Ostler Monday for theft over $50, two counts of false pretences and two counts of obtaining lodgings by fraud.

Daniel C. Richmond of Williams Lake asked Ostler before sentence was passed if he could be sent to the Alouette River unit for treatment of a drinking problem "mainly because if I don't I'm going to lose my family."

Ostler remarked it was a "pretty reasonable attitude" for the accused's family to take.

Richmond had pleaded guilty to writing two worthless cheques to a local motel in February and writing a third worthless cheque to another local motel last December.

He also pleaded guilty to obtaining lodgings by fraud in both motels, one incident in February and the other last fall.

He further pleaded guilty to stealing a vehicle in Williams Lake Feb. 5 and abandoning it the following day after he had been involved in an accident.

Ostler sentenced the accused to 18 months on each of the false pretence charges and the theft over $50 conviction and four months on the fraud offences, all to be served concurrently.

★ ★ ★

Thomas R. Mills, 21, of no fixed address, was sentenced to 14 months definite and eight months indeterminate in prison after he had pleaded guilty to six counts of obtaining funds by false pretences.

He had written worthless cheques to Woodward's, a small grocery store on Hillside, The Bay and the Canada Safeway store, 2536 Quadra.

The cheques were written during December of last year and during this month and totalled almost $225.

Mills had a previous record of obtaining funds by false pretence.

Isabel McBurney, 57, of 2230 Cadboro Bay Road, was fined $300 when she pleaded guilty to two counts of shoplifting.

She was observed taking items, worth about $1.80, from the Cunningham Drugs, 1955 Fort, Dec. 12 and not paying for them.

She had about $67 in her possession at the time.

Ostler, in passing sentence, noted the offences occurred before the current increase in shoplifting made it necessary to increase the penalty.

He fined the accused $150 on each count.

View Royal Said Facing Crucial Time

The next three years could be the most crucial for trustees of the View Royal fire protection district, trustee E. E. Stancil told the annual meeting Monday.

Stancil, who reported to ratepayers on zoning and planning, said land use regulations must be revised to enable View Royal to develop.

Stancil, who completed his third three-year term as trustee, asked ratepayers to re-elect him for another three years.

SEWAGE ISSUE

They later did so, 49-19 over Christopher Londsdale.

Trustee Frank Andrews reported on a flurry of correspondence between trustees, the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health and the provincial government over the issue of View Royal sewage.

The most recent letter, dated March 9 from senior medical health officer, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread to the trustees urged them to resubmit the referendum.

Whitbread cited seepage from 309 View Royal, and listed 82 other addresses in the district that had been inspected.

Owner John White attended the meeting and said he had been singled out for discriminatory treatment in Whitbread's letter.

At his suggestion, the ratepayers decided to duplicate the letter to make copies available to anyone in the district who may want one.

A new emergency vehicle with first aid equipment was on display in the fire hall where the meeting was held.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

REACH FOR THE TOP. 7:30 p.m., Channel 2. Victoria's Mount Douglas Senior Secondary School takes on Prince Rupert Senior Secondary. Terry Garner is the host.

RED SKELTON. 8 p.m., Channels 2 and 6; 8:30 p.m., Channel 7. Tony Sandler and Ralph Young appear, as foreign agents who infiltrate San Fernando Red's bogus spy school. In the silent spot, Red is a conventioneer nursing a bad hangover in his hotel room. Highlights of the hour include Tony and Ralph in the 59th Street Bridge Song, and again in Love of the Common People.

★ ★ ★

SPECIAL. 7:30 p.m., Channel 7. "The Eskimo: Fight for Life." This highly acclaimed film about life among the Canadian Eskimos was made several years ago for education purposes, and has now been edited down to proper TV length. It concentrates primarily on how these people thrive in perhaps the world's most difficult environment, and those who complain about our winter snowfalls should be fascinated. The film follows the Eskimos to their winter seal-hunting camp, which may soon be a thing of the past since modern civilization is even descending on the frozen north. What makes the film especially delightful is the fact that Eskimos—in contrast to their climate—are a very warm people.

★ ★ ★

THE MOD SQUAD. 7:30 p.m., Channels 4 and 8. "Call Back Yesterday." Good show, gives fans more background information on Pete Cochrane (Michael Cole). Pete takes up with an old girl friend who's being kept in the dark about a pressing family problem. In the process, Pete goes home after a long absence and shares a brief reunion with his understanding mother, played by Anita Louise in a rare TV appearance. The pace is slower than usual, but there's a tension-filled finale set in a chemicals plant.

★ ★ ★

JULIA. 8:30 p.m., Channel 5. "Sara's Second Part." This is the second half of Diana Sands' two-part guest appearance as would-be actress Sara Devine, Julia's spirited and aggressive cousin. Series fans will have a ball watching Sara conquering Hollywood, until Clyde Porter (Sugar Ray Robinson) comes on the scene.

★ ★ ★

THE GOVERNOR AND J.J. 9:30 p.m., Channel 7. Good spot for Tom Ewell, who pops up as Uncle Charley, a Drinkwater relative who invents toys and lacks financial backing. Uncle Charley tries to con the governor and almost lands the promise of another backer. Ewell walks off with the show as the others look on.

NET JOURNAL. 8:30 p.m., Channel 9. "Trial: The City and County of Denver vs. Lauren R. Watson." After yesterday's absorbing but slow-paced opener devoted to the important issue of the selection of the jury, matters heat up today as Police Officer Robert C. Cantwell testifies regarding Watson's actions on the day he was arrested. There are some noteworthy discrepancies as the story unfolds, and trained mystery fans, to say nothing of other interested viewers, will find this "real life" courtroom drama vastly more interesting than Perry Mason's fictions which have been such a TV staple for many years.

★ ★ ★

McQUEEN. 9 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. Veteran performer Cathleen Nesbitt stars as a little old lady who's always disappearing, much to the consternation of her family. All she wants is a home of her own, and when McQueen can't help, she's upset.

★ ★ ★

BOLD ONES. 9:30 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. Leslie Nielsen and Hari Rhodes star as law enforcers in A Good Case of Whisky at Christmas Time. The plot revolves around a sticky political case involving graft in a renewal project and the death of a prominent contractor.

★ ★ ★

TUESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES. 9 p.m., Channel 5. "Exodus" (1960) Part II (repeat). The concluding portion of Otto Preminger's film adaptation of the Leon Uris novel stresses the hardships and the strengths of the Jewish refugees in the new Israel. Pictorially splendid with its vivid on-location photography enhanced by fine performances from a large cast headed by Paul Newman, Eva Marie Saint, Sal Mineo and Lee J. Cobb, it suffers mainly from unnecessarily lengthy action scenes which would have been much more effective if cut.

★ ★ ★

CBS NEWS. 10 p.m., Channel 7. "60 Minutes." The range of interest on the show tonight is considerable. One segment, for example, is long on glamor, as correspondent Charles Collingwood visits with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton at Miss Taylor's mother's home in Bel Air, California. Another segment finds correspondent Harry Reasoner in Israel, reporting on the status of the war first-hand, and interviewing Prime Minister Golda Meir as well as a minority member of Parliament, Uri Avneri, who opposes the hard line Israel is taking. A third segment turns to the domestic scene with an investigative report on the safety of the automobile at the time of its purchase.

TONIGHT'S MOVIES

5:30 Channel 12: The Last Hunt (1955 Western), Robert Taylor, Stewart Granger, Lloyd Nolan. The last of the great herds of buffalo are tracked down by two hunters in the 1880's.

7:30 Channel 12: The Destructors (1968 Adventure), Richard Egan, Patricia Owens. Low-budget espionage melodrama pivoting on the theft of some laser rubies.

8:30 Channel 4: Three's a Crowd (ABC Minimovie), Larry Hagman, Jessica Walter. Complications arise when a "dead" wife turns up.

9:00 Channel 5: Exodus (conclusion). Paul Newman, Eva Marie Saint. A story about the violent birth of modern Israel.

11:40 Channel 2: The Pusher (1960 Drama) Kathy Carlyle, Douglas F. Rodgers. Tragic discovery of dope addiction leads to solution of two murders.

12:00 Channel 6: Frankenstein Conquers the World (1964 Japanese Science-Fiction). Monsters at large in Japan.

Scientists Told To Communicate

An internationally-known zoologist said Moday night scientists have an obligation to translate their work so the public can at least read it.

UBC professor Dr. David Suzuki told members of the University of Victoria's extension department that the desire ofthe scientist to go ahead iwith his work without considering its long-range implications is the great danger he presents to society.

ELITE INTERESTS

"The sicknesses of our society stem from the interests of elite specialists who have control over decisions that effect the whole of society," he told a full auditorium.

Of his own field, genetics, he said like all sciences it is double-edged.

Within two decades it will be possible for scientists to regenerate lost limbs and diseased organs.

But in the future "it will also be possible for authorities to create legions of people for specialized functions. Genetics could become the tool of racists and bigots."

CLAIM INVALID

In the light of such developments scientists can no longer claim they have no responsibility "to translate their work so that the pjublic can scrutinize it."

Suzuki proposed the federal government establish an interdisciplinary body to correlate scientific knowledge. It should be autonomous, not under government control.

FEW SPOKE OUT

The scientific community "knew the possible consequences of fallout but very few spoke out. We will be paying for this failure for years to come."

If such a centre was established, he said the public would have to learn to trust it. But the public ignores what it doesn't like.

"We have known for 10 years that coffee has disastrous effects on chromosomes but the public pays no attention.

"The evidence of the damage done by tobacco and alcohol is overwhelming but again the public ignores it."

To date scientific knowledge has been misused because there was no machinery to deal with it. The proposed centre could perform this function.

"Canada would be setting a precedent if such a centre was established.

Trinidad Grab Involves Canadian Firm

PORT OF SPAIN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eric Williams announced Monday night the Trinidad government would take over the Bank of London and Montreal Ltd. here and use it as the headquarters of the country's proposed National Bank of Trinidad and Tobago.

* * *

In a countrywide television and radio broadcast apparently designed to answer Black Power demands for more economic independence in this Caribbean country, Williams announced a number of measures which observers interpreted as a step toward placating the extremists.

He announced a special 5-per-cent employment tax to begin from Jan. 1 this year and said all companies paying corporation tax and all banks and insurance companies, which are mainly foreign, would pay the special 5-percent levy.

Pioneer companies and partnerships which paid no corporation tax would also pay the levy on their tax-exempt profits, Williams said.

* * *

Williams said the fundamental feature of the demonstrations "was the insistence on black dignity, the manifestation of black consciousness and the demand for black economic power."

He added:

"The entire population must understand those demands are perfectly legitimate and are entirely in the interest of the community as a whole. If this is Black Power, then I am for Black Power."

However, he added: "Let there be no misunderstandings about this. It is a horse of a different color if what is involved is arson and Molotov cocktails.

"In that case the law will have to take its course."

In Montreal, Leonard Walker, president of the Bank of Montreal, said the takeover is "not unexpected."

YOUNG GOP HEAD CHARGED

CHICAGO (WP) — The head of the National Young Republicans' annual leadership training school went on trial here Monday on charges of draft evasion.

Victor Kamber, a speech professor at Prince George's Community College until last year, was indicted March 27, 1969, on two counts of "submitting or causing to be submitted" false statements that would have entitled him to exemption from military service.

Kamber, in connection with his Young Republican duties, has been an escort for both daughters of President Nixon.

During the summer of the presidential campaign, Kamber was Julie Nixon's official escort on a Potomac boat ride given by D.C. Young Republicans to raise money for the Nixon-Agnew campaign.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Chicago said Monday that Kamber's indictment charges that on Sept. 23, 1968, he "made a false statement to the Local Board 28 that he had earned the rank of associate professor and chairman of the department of speech at the Prince George's Community College."

A second charge against Kamber alleges that after he had been classified 1-A for military service, he "submitted or caused to be submitted" a letter purportedly written by his immediate superior, John G. Handley, chairman of the division of humanities at the college.

The letter, which the government indictment says was "never sent or authorized by Handley," urged the draft board to reconsider Kamber's classification because of the "integral" role he played in the college's program.

Kamber, although his indictment has been pending for a year, has maintained his role with the Young Republicans. He was chairman again this year of the 1970 leadership training school which took place nine days ago at the Shoreham.

Blight Of Cars Tackled

By CY FOX

LONDON (CP) — As Britons grumble increasingly about the conditions of life in their traffic-jammed cities, there are signs of willingness in some quarters to undertake imaginative action aimed at making urban existence less unpleasant.

In London, a reduction of atmospheric smoke content has prompted many expressions of self-congratulation among residents delighted at being able to view their surroundings with a clarity denied to them by the smogs of past decades.

But matching the success of clean-air legislation is the growth of London's automobile population, which means that carbon monoxide has become more of a hazard than ever before.

Residents happy about the reduction in noxious outpourings from chimneys have "only to stand on the corner of Marble Arch any time between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. to get the full impact of the carbon monoxide which belches into the city . . . during these hours," complained comedian Spike Milligan in one of his deadly-serious moods.

Milligan, who won British show-business fame with a starring role in BBC radio's Goon Show, sounded off loudly about the dangers of air pollution from excess traffic.

NEED GAS MASKS

"If pollution increases," he predicted, "you may have a situation where you say to the kids, 'Have you got your school books? Have you got your hat? And put your carbon monoxide mask on.' "

Fumes from autos are a big source of complaint from Londoners in general when they are asked to pinpoint the worst aspects of life in this generally congenial city.

The Londoners also object to automobile jams, the crowded state of municipal transportation and the noise produced by surface as well as air traffic.

The thousands who give traffic a top place in their list of London woes must currently look to Norwich, 100 miles northeast of here, for an example of action in this controversial field.

The action in question originated with the city fathers of Norwich, a community of 120,000 people situated in the wind-swept flatlands of eastern England.

There, municipal authorities had been toying for three decades with the idea of barring motor traffic altogether from a key midtown area and thus leaving it free—in the manner of Sparks Street in Ottawa—for the shop-oriented roamings of pedestrians.

SEWER STARTED IT

A break came when trouble developed with a sewer system underneath London Street, a narrow central thoroughfare lined with high-class shops.

Repair men moved in and found they had to close off the roadway to traffic for about six weeks.

Merchants on London Street were at first convinced their trade would suffer from the car ban.

But the absence of traffic gave pedestrians free rein in the area and trade soon began looking up.

As autos returned to London Street, Norwich acquired a new planning officer who decided that a change in midtown traffic arrangements might be a good thing.

The official, Alfred Wood, made a start by shutting off London Street to autos, his idea being that over the following decade about 16 streets should be similarly given over to pedestrians only.

Wood's experiment began three years ago and most of London Street's shops quickly found themselves doing better business.

CLAIM SUCCESS

The same result has been reported from those cities in Europe where no-traffic regulations have been implemented in commercial areas.

But proof of the undertaking's success seems to lie in the fact that shopkeepers on other thoroughfares have asked for the same sort of ban on autos.

"I think that closing a street to traffic undoubtedly helps it economically," Wood said.

Centennial Flower Bed a Big Hit

By HILDA BEASTALL

Back in January, the flower bed by the entrance to the McPherson Playhouse at Centennial Square was quite charming with its blue winter pansies and dark red English daisies. But now, in the third week of March, the bed is making a superb effort, creating an almost unbelievably lovely effect.

Hilda

Looking at this perfect little gem, one gets the feeling that it must be someone's special pet, for the plants always appear freshly groomed. No faded flowers are evident on the pansies, nor seed heads on the red daisies.

This meticulous grooming is the secret of success with all bedding displays, for it keeps the plants busily producing flower buds and flowers instead of producing and maturing seed pods.

A comparable bed would be yellow winter pansies and pink daisies but admittedly the impact of these colors would be less arresting.

By planting these in dappled light and shade, and preventing drying out between waterings, a good display would be evident for the next three months.

If the summer turns out to be cool and showery the display would last longer.

Other flower combinations suggest themselves once we begin to think about the subject. To keep them brilliant they must be given the same loving care as that McPherson Playhouse planting.

In full summer sun a bed of ageratum Blue Mink interplanted with the soft pink annual phlox Glamor should be successful. We must choose plants without dominating foliage, yet enough to break up the flower colors.

Note the word "interplanted." This is one of the clues to success. There is no edging and no central planting.

The two kinds of plants are put in alternately, so that no pattern is evident beyond that of each red plant being next to a blue. Six to nine inches between centres according to the plants being used, will have the foliage touching by the time buds open.

This close planting also eliminates growth of weeds later.

Next time you drive up Government Street take a quick look at the red and blue bed just by the McPherson Playhouse notice board. If you haven't seen it before, you will know why I've chosen it as a theme for two columns already this year.

We wonder what the summer scheme will turn out to be.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED L. KARPIN

The deal presented today is another in the series of bridge mysteries. You are informed that our South declarer slipped in his play of a game contract. As a consequence, he went down. It is your job, as a bridge detective, to find South's misplay.

Neither side vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♣.

On West's opening lead of the club queen dummy's king was put up. Upon winning the trick with the ace, East shifted to the jack of diamonds. When this was covered by South's queen, West won with the king. In time, declarer went down, losing, all in all, one heart, two diamonds, and a club. What was declarer's misplay?

Declarer's error come at trick one, when he played the board's club king on West's opening lead of the queen. Surely, as declarer should have viewed the situation, West was not making a blind opening lead of a queen from some A-Q combination. Certainly East figured to have the club ace.

Had declarer permitted West's club queen to capture the opening lead, he would have fulfilled his contract. Assuming that West next returned a heart, South would win with his ace. A trump would then be led to dummy's 10, after which a club would be led, South ruffing.

Then would come another trump to dummy's king, and this would be followed by the ruffing of a third club. On this trick, East's club ace would fall. Dummy would now be entered via the trump ace, and on the established king of clubs, South would discard his three of diamonds. After giving up a heart trick, he would then ruff a heart with dummy's last trump. Played in this fashion, his only losers would have been a club, a diamond, and a heart.

Of course, declarer had to have a bit of luck in catching East with the A-x-x of clubs, rather than the A-x-x-x. But, then, the play of a low club from dummy at trick one was really "on the house," since it just couldn't be a winning play to climb up with the club king. Playing the hand as he did, I would say that declarer deserved to have the diamond finesse lose.

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

Beaver and Moose Were Legal Tender

By BOB BOWMAN

One of the most difficult problems in early Canada was to establish a stable money system. The seigneurs and habitants produced barely enough for their own needs and had nothing to export that would bring them any money. Trade among the people in Canada was mostly by barter. Three French bushels of wheat could be used to obtain goods worth four francs. Beaver and moose skins were also legal tender.

On March 24, 1670, France began minting special coins for Canada. They would arrive in a ship and then go back to France on the return voyage because the people needed the coins to buy things in France. The government tried to discourage people from doing this by making Canadian coinage worth one-fourth less in value than the comparable currency in France, but even this measure did not prove to be effective.

In 1685 there weren't enough coins in Canada to pay the soldiers or other civil servants, and Intendant Jacques de Meules had to gather in all the playing cards he could get, and stamp them as denominations of currency. The playing card money circulated for a number of years.

It was hoped that Canadians would reduce their imports from France if they made their own clothes. Experts were sent to teach women to weave and spin from crops of hemp and flax raised by their husbands. Unfortunately the husbands often neglected their crops, and neither did many of the women show any enthusiasm for weaving, although there was plenty of time during the winters.

The situation changed suddenly in 1705 when a ship laden with goods for Canada was lost at sea. Nearly everybody needed new clothes for the winter and there had to be some speedy production. Medame de Repentigny set an example by making a blanket of nettle and linden bark, which sounds about as comfortable as eating crackers in bed!

Maths Can Prove Fun Vegas Style

KINGSTON (CP) — For Denis Millan's Grade 7 and 8 students at Calvin Park public school, math has the Las Vegas touch.

Cries of "snake eyes!" "little Joe!" and "box cars!" are part of a study of statistics and probabilities.

On the blackboard a 36-square chart shows the various combinations of numbers that come up when you roll dice. Mr. Millan told his students you have one chance in 36 of rolling a 12, six of rolling a seven — and so on.

To demonstrate, he chose six girls as bankers, gave them paper cups, dice and play money — and the crap game was one.

FLIP COINS

One of Mr. Millan's classes may spend 15 minutes flipping coins to prove that in the long run the probability of heads or tails is 50 per cent. Another time they work with stock market reports to study fractions.

VISITORS BUREAU HEARS VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Value of Convention Centre Discussed

How a convention centre loses a nominal amount of money but earns dollars in the community was explained in detail to the 1970 annual meeting of Victoria Visitors' Bureau Monday at the Empress Hotel.

Penticton Mayor F. D. Stuart described the financing and operation of the Peach Bowl, four-year-old convention centre that has been drawing up to 19,500 delegates a year to the Okanagan.

In a community of 16,000 population, "conventions are a big part of our economic structure," Stuart said.

The Peach Bowl is owned and operated by the city of Penticton, which financed the $647,494 undertaking with the help of federal-provincial assistance programs for municipal developments.

NET COST

"We do realize a net operating loss in our Peach Bowl," Stuart said. But compensating for that is revenue to the accommodation industry estimated last year at $1.25 million, and to all other local businesses about $1.8 million.

There is almost unanimous agreement of Penticton Chamber of Commerce and the accommodation industry that the city should continue to promote convention business, and to increase business licence fees to produce more than $100,000 this year. Four years ago business licences brought in $54,500 and last year $94,600.

SUPPORT SEEN

"Someone would have to prove to me that financial support of an area such as this or Vancouver for such a facility is lacking," Mayor Stuart commented.

His comment was directed at the Victoria proposal to raise business taxes to support a convention centre in the capital city, which has 10 times the population of Penticton.

Penticton sets a nominal $50 a day rental on the Peach Bowl, making it competitive with Vancouver's privately-owned hotel facilities. The result is an operating loss of about $265 for the typical three-day convention. Last year it cost $51,283 to operate the bowl, Stuart said. Revenue for the period totalled $16,703, for a direct operating loss of $34,580.

Cost of operating a convention and tourist bureau to the city was $22,278, plus an average $7,000 given to the Chamber of Commerce for tourist promotion.

CONVENTION VALUE

The value of convention delegates to Penticton this year is expected to reach $4.8 million, up 54 per cent, or 438 per cent over 1966, the first full year of Peach Bowl operation.

Facilities are expected to have an $8 million potential value to the community.

The most important factor in development of the centre in Penticton was "selling the public" on the idea, Stuart said, and the then-mayor and council carried on an intensive public relations campaign. The result was 90 per cent support for the plan.

Accompanying Mayor Stuart was Les N. Lee, convention centre manager, who gave a pictorial presentation to the meeting.

Victoria city council was represented at the meeting by acting mayor Ald. Clyde Savage, who praised the visitors' bureau for "functioning the way a bureau should" through advertising, bringing tourists in, answering mail queries about the city, and looking after tourists when they arrive.

Success of visiting cruise liners during the past year was through the efforts of the bureau and greeting chairman Sam Lane, Savage said.

But in view of the benefit derived by all the municipalities of Greater Victoria, it is "not right" that the city of Victoria should shoulder the main expense, he said. Municipal resources should be pooled so that the tourist industry of the whole area may enjoy the results of promotion.

Recognition of his years in support of the bureau was accorded to ex-president Conway Parrott when Geoff Edgelow presented an inscribed silver tray.

A trip to San Francisco for two was won by Imperial Inn manager J. M. McCauley in a draw by deputy minister of tourist industry Ron Worley.

Directors elected for two-year terms are Douglas Abbott, Norma Fitzsimmons, Stan Mooney, Philip Holmes, Sam Lane, Alf Pettersen, Pat Frumento, Brian Roberts, Peter Tredgett and J. M. McCauley.

Whale Pen Expansion Approved

A developer's plans for building an apartment house on Prospect Place were squashed; a bigger pen to house Sealand's new albino whale was approved; and students were given a chance to complain that the Greater Victoria School Board wouldn't listen to them all happened when Oak Bay council met Monday.

For the first time in years, the chambers were filled as many residents turned out to protest W. Jensen Construction Ltd.'s bid to raise a three-storey condominium on Prospect Place.

The firm's spokesman presented their case, stating that widows should not "be driven to Victoria and other places."

PRICES GIVEN

He described how the structure would contain eight three-bedroom suites and 15 two-bedroom suites, selling at between $35,000 and $40,000 each.

Ald. Alex Hendry pointed out that the $68,000 needed to widen the overly narrow road would take 8½ to nine years to realize in taxes.

Ald. Douglas Watts protested that developers should not be allowed to "chip away at areas of real character and that apartment building should be concentrated in the area adjacent to Foul Bay Road."

Council decided not to allow the rezoning.

Bob Wright, president of Sealand of the Pacific, asked permission to increase his whale pen another 45 feet to accommodate the recently-caught white killer whale and another as well as Haida, Sealand's star.

Ald. Brian Smith said: "The acquisition of the white whale excites me, I support the application."

WHALE AN HONOR

He was supported by Ald. Norman Pimlott, who considered it an honor for Oak Bay to have the white whale.

Only dissenter was Ald. Hendry who asked. "Why is it so necessary to have such a major change in the area?"

It was pointed out that Wright's application was not one for rezoning or an extension to the water lease. The application was approved.

Several members of the Oak Bay Youth Council attended the meeting.

They asked for council support in their stand against the Greater Victoria School Board's decision not to allow the use of school gymnasiums for functions featuring out-of-town bands.

Mayor Frances Elford pointed out there was "obviously a lack of communication between the school board and the Oak Bay Youth Council."

IMPORTED TALENT

The students argued that their age group wasn't interested in events that didn't offer out-of-town talent. Questioned they said that the last function saw them paying out $1,000. Of this only $271.06 went to rental, the rest to the out-of-town musicians.

Mark Baker, 1971 Neil, said downtown night club owners were responsible for the pressure for Oak Bay students to put on events outside the municipality.

He accused the school board of turning a deaf ear to the students when they tried to present their case.

The council decided that the dispute was a matter to be settled between the students and the school board.

PRINCIPLE ACCEPTED

Council also decided to accept in principle the Victoria Chapter of the Architectural Institute of B.C.'s recommendations for development of the Victoria Riding Academy site.

The site, zoned for apartment and high-rise construction, said the chapter, should be designed as a total development as part of a competition. A jury, comprised of council and institute members would assess plans submitted by teams of developers, contractors and architects.

Among the bylaws passed was one forbidding the construction of auto body shops in Oak Bay and another preventing dogs using public beaches from June 1 to Sept. 30.

Mayor Elford warned that in view of the Greater Victoria Water District's decision to increase its rates it may be necessary to review the municipality's charges.

Prior to the council meeting Kevin Cottam, 723 Oliver, was presented with an Intermuncipal Medallion in recognition of placing first with his partner Linda Roe of Saanich in the Canadian Chmpionship Junior Dance, Figure Skating Competition, held at Edmonton in January.

CAMPBELL CONDEMNS SCHOOL AGITATION

'Unethical' Pollution Teaching Hit

University and school teachers who get their students "uptight" about pollution were criticized in the legislature Monday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

A university teacher made a rather strong criticism of Campbell in return.

Campbell referred to "professors in their ivory towers and teachers in their cubicles" getting students "uptight" about pollution. The charge came during debate on second reading of a bill to amend the Pollution Control Act.

He cited a case where teachers had third-grade pupils sign technical letters protesting pollution and called it an "unethical and completely intolerable performance."

This "complete disregard" for teaching had "done damage" to youngsters and would take a long time to undo, Campbell said.

He also predicted B.C. will be the cleanest place on earth by 1975.

Bell, an assistant professor in the Uvic biology department, said if B.C. becomes the cleanest place on earth it will probably be due to increased concern for the environment by students and teachers.

"If he (Campbell) thinks his knowledge of ecological matters is sufficient for him to make decisions on his own, then I'd say it's time for us to kick him out of office," Bell said.

CAMPBELL
. . . teachers intolerable

"The evidence in existence now points pretty clearly to the direction the human race is heading.

"We're on a crash course unless we do something to remedy the situation.

"The only place this is going to happen is in the universities where these things are being studied and analysed then the conclusions brought forward and made public."

Bell said he is satisfied with the system under which the provincial government acts as B.C.'s ultimate resource manager.

But he added universities provide a service of inestimable value by studying proposed government action in an ecological context.

BELL
. . . minister irresponsible

Dr. Harold Knight, management consultant and member of the Greater Victoria School Board, said teaching of ecological concepts in schools is imperative.

"If you're not going to get it in the schools where are you going to get it?"

Knight does not want to see "pollution" studies as a subject isolated from other areas of knowledge.

A study of the environment or pollution should include a look at social and natural sciences where they are relevent, he said, to give students a "broad view" of where society is heading.

"What we've been doing in the schools and universities is to have students study these subjects in isolation, then expect them to have an integrated understanding.

"We have a tendency to pour a lot of information into these kids and forget the basics."

Knight said Campbell was educated under what he called "the old isolated system."

Books and periodicals on ecology and generally concerned with environment are now available in libraries of secondary schools in the Greater Victoria school district.

Liberal Leader Pat McGeer ridiculed the government's efforts so far in pollution control, suggesting a provincial holiday be declared when the first prosecution is made

EUROPE TODAY:

A Continent In Transition

By PETER C. NEWMAN

Special to the Times

BERLIN — Even on a short month's journey across the face of Europe this winter's end, in fleeting conversations with politicians, students and academics, one can sense a mood of collapsing alliances, a twilight of ideology which is drawing the continent beyond the postwar period into a perplexing time of transition.

Newman

Nations which remained virtually frozen in their international alignments since the last shot of the Second World War was fired, a quarter of a century ago, suddenly are stirring with new ideas.

The generation of Europeans now reaching for power is rejecting old causes and empty banners, searching for fresh loyalties and definitions that spring from rcots firmer than the tattered residues of cold war cliches.

"The world is satiated with dogmas, but people are hungry for life," writes Milovan Djilas, the Yugoslav philosopher, accurately reflecting the change.

Young European politicians are emerging, ready to act more out of instinct and conscience than knowledge and experience — though only one certified member of this new breed, Willy Brandt of West Germany, has so far seized power.

What prompts this transformation is the collapse of confidence in nearly all of the touchstones that set the framework of Europe's postwar politics. A continent that was for 25 years transfixed by its stage-centre prominence in the contest between "the American way of life" and "the Communist conspiracy" has become restless and wants to turn in its cold war costumes.

The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia in the summer of 1968 shocked the sensibilities of cold war warriors in both camps. It revealed the Warsaw Pact to be nothing more than an extension of Russian military colonialism and showed NATO U.S. military-industrial complex.

Both sides have been backing away from these alliances ever since. Russia no longer bothers to pretend that its partners have any meaningful say, and the United States admitted last week (through Secretary of State William Rogers, speaking on an English television program) that it would begin withdrawal of its NATO troops from Europe in 1971.

□ □ □

Though they haven't formally said so, the Americans intend to liquidate within the decade their NATO commitment, which now costs them $14 billion a year.

This is in line with President Richard Nixon's policy statement that "the postwar period in international relations has ended."

To many enlightened Europeans, this means a welcome end of the alliance, the decent burial of the indecent Pax Americana which implied an American moral superiority most Europeans have been unable to feel since the Vietnam war.

Sihanouk Declares He'll Fight Way Back

Times News Services

PEKING — Deposed Cambodian leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk said Monday he will try to fight his way back to power, and informed sources in the Cambodian capital, Phnom Penh, say the conservative bloc now in power will declare the nation a republic to forestall any nonviolent bid by Sihanouk to regain control.

The Japanese correspondents who reported Sihanouk's pledge to fight for his position quoted him as saying he will form a government of national unity and "national liberation army" that would have the support of "brother nations," presumably meaning North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

A statement issued by the rightist political-military block led by Gen. Lon Nol which ousted Sihanouk in a bloodless coup last week said he and all members of his family have been banned from returning to Cambodia.

Sources indicated he likely would be imprisoned if he set foot again on Cambodian soil.

DRAFT NOT READY

The Cambodian National Assembly in Phnom Penh is reported today to have discussed the possibility of establishing a republic to prevent a political return to power by Sihanouk, but no definite decisions were made.

The sources indicate the final draft of a bill to eliminate the monarchy has not yet been completed.

The stage for such a transition already was set with the dismissal of Sihanouk last Wednesday while he was in Moscow, reportedly seeking Soviet support for a voluntary withdrawal from Cambodia of invading North Vietnamese troops.

Sihanouk's declaration of war against the bloc which overturned his administration coincided with a statement from Hanoi that the Vietnamese communists will back

GERM WARFARE RENOUNCED

GENEVA (AP) — Canada promised today it will never use biological weapons and will use chemical weapons only if they are used against it or its allies.

Canadian delegate George Ignatieff told the 25-nation disarmament conference his government is ready to abandon the latter reservation if an effective worldwide ban on chemical warfare can be concluded.

He submitted a statement which said Canada "never has had and does not now possess any biological weapons and does not intend to develop, produce, acquire, stockpile or use such weapons at any time in the future."

It said Canada also has no chemical weapons.

(The Canadian government has recently admitted testing of germ and chemical weapons is being done at a Suffield, Alberta, military research station, but said the tests are necessary for defensive reasons.)

Soldiers Jeered By Mail Pickets

From AP-Reuters

Jeers from pickets and a few minor scuffles greeted troops as they sorted mail today following a mobilization call by President Nixon of more than 30,000 servicemen, national guardsmen and reservists to break the six-day strike.

However, the back-to-work movement in the strike gained strength as employees in Chicago and Detroit began returning to their jobs.

There were also some hints of a possible break in the key New York strike.

L. C. Burke, a Brooklyn station vice-president of Local 1 of the Mail Handlers Union, said: "We might as well go back, the soldiers are in and we don't have much to gain staying out."

'Day of the Big Mail Massacre'

Times News Services

NEW YORK — "You've heard of the Boston massacre and the My Lai massacre. Now it's going to be the New York mail massacre."

So predicted Specialist Ronald Gray, 22, of Oxford, Miss., as he rolled out of bed for mail-sorting duty with fellow servicemen at New York postal facilities.

"It's going to be a farce. I'm a medic. I don't know a thing about the post office department. Nobody knows what they're supposed to do," he said.

At least one letter carrier agreed.

"The soldiers will be able to move mail, all right. They'll be able to move it from one side of the building to the other."

"I'm glad they're calling them out," said another striker. "They'll find out how valuable postal workers really are."

Priority Mail First

They will be expected to begin moving priority mail, drugs, welfare cheques, tax refunds and first-class letters, under the watchful eye of several thousand postal supervisors who have remained on the job. The soldiers — their number has not been disclosed—are also supposed to clear "illegal picket lines" so that regular employees who want to come back can do so.

New York City has about 34,000 mailmen—most of them out on strike. The president said as many troops as needed would be brought in, and that he would authorize soldiers for other post offices, if needed.

If the soldiers do what mailmen are supposed to do, they will drive trucks, unload mail trucks and airplanes, sort, distribute and prepare mail either for delivery or public pickup.

Face Nightmarish Task

Despite the optimism of some people that zip codes will make the job easier, the soldiers face a nightmarish chore that will make memorizing serial numbers and general orders simple by comparison. Most business mail is number-coded but it still must be broken down, several times, and the soldier-clerks will have to learn just what region, state, city and zone each of the 750-plus zip codes represents.

For a soldier who couldn't master zip codes, which one official said is equivalent to "memorizing the first two pages of the telephone book," letter distribution would be even tougher. He would have to resort to a map, and the directory of zip codes, a 500-plus-page manual in hard-to-read type.

There are several Johnson Citys, one in TX (Post Office talk for Texas), another TN, the abbreviation for Tennessee, and another named Johnston City, in Illinois (IL). If the zip code was 37601, the clerk would know it was Tennessee and route it to that sectional centre. If he didn't know zip, he would have to consult his directory.

Rail, Air Strikes Face U.S.

By The Associated Press

Here is the latest situation in work stoppages in progress or threatened against the United States mail, air traffic and rail systems:

Mail—About 30,000 military men went on mail-sorting duty in New York today after President Nixon declared a national emergency. At Chicago and elsewhere, mailmen began trickling back to work as the strike which has tied up the postal service across the country entered its sixth day.

Air Traffic — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has threatened to "withdraw services" from key terminals and snarl the orderly flow of airplanes Wednesday in a dispute over the transfer of three men from Baton Rouge, La.

Rails — Labor Secretary George P. Shultz has warned Congress that further delays in settling a 15-month-long railroad contract dispute could lead to a wildcat rail shutdown. Congress has ordered a 37-day strike moratorium that expires April 11 and is considering making the industry's last offer a binding settlement.

Mail Drivers Go to Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Twenty-eight truck drivers of G. Lapalme Inc. were sent to trail Monday after preliminary hearing on various charges of delaying the mails.

The men are among some 450 Lapalme employees who began work slowdowns Feb. 3 in protest against a postal department decision that Lapalme's exclusive contract to deliver mail in Montreal will be split among five other companies April 1.

No date for the trial was set by Judge Armand Chevette.

KIDNAPPED

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The air attache of the United States embassy in this Dominican Republic city was kidnapped today, the third American diplomat abducted in Latin America since September.

. . . INSIDE EUROPE

The fact is that the new Europeans have swallowed their gratitude to the Americans for helping to vanquish Nazism, sponsoring the Marshall plan, etc.

They are not particularly interested in currying the Americans' favor, and certainly not anxious — except for its strictly material manifestations — to copy "the American way of life."

What thoughtful Europeans have suddenly realized is that both the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. are now operating entirely in their own national interests, rather than as champions of two opposing super-natonal ideologies launched on great crusades for the allegiance of mankind.

The young Europeans are trying to opt out of any future struggle between the brutal machinations of the Kremlin and the strange behavior of American power overseas, a struggle which seems to operate according to an unequal mixture of Old Testament Calvinism and New Jersey corporation law.

For eastern Europe, the Czechoslovak tragedy provided a stark and terrible demonstration that the dark visions of Karl Marx will never come true. Communism has not proved to be a substitute for nationalism; it took tanks to enforce its dictates on the workers of Czechoslovakia.

By reviving the Stalinist doctrine that the only test of a true Communist is his loyalty to the Soviet Union, Brezhnev and Kosygin have set in motion a gradual but certain fragmentaton of their European Empire.

"Communism," according to Milovan Djilas, "has not only failed to become a religion, but it has also disintegrated a world ideology. The communist parties of the future will have no alternative but to be, at the very best, what in fact they already are: socio-political movements that strive in collaboration with others to achieve certain definite patterns of society and government under their own national conditions."

Djilas might have added that communism has also proved itself incapable of adjusting to modern technology.

□ □ □

Soviet achievements in space have obscured the distance by which Russia lags behind in other areas of economic achievement. Cyril Black, a British political scientist, has established that in terms of per capita economic achievement the U.S.S.R. has not overtaken any country since the revolution of 1917, with the possible exception of Italy.

Russian agriculture remains dangerously under-productive, employing 45 per cent of the country's labor force, compared with an average of 14 per cent for eastern Europe.

And so, as the countries of both eastern and western Europe begin a gradual withdrawal from Russian and American influence, their leaders will have to shape their own national destinies — a process that began last week at the brief, dramatic encounter between the two premiers of a divided Germany, when they met at Erfurt to begin redrawing the map of a new Europe.

. . . CAMBODIA MOVE

The North Vietnamese statement, broadcast by Radio Hanoi and monitored in Hong Kong Monday night, said that "we are determined to support the just struggle that the chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk and the Cambodian people are waging" against the new regime in Phnom Penh.

Meanwhile today in the Cambodian capital United Press International correspondent Max Vanzi reported official sources as saying the administration in Peking, where Sihanouk is in exile at present, has indicated support for the new regime.

According to that report fourteen Cambodian foreign missions have pledged support for the conservative new regime. Moscow is the only one remaining faithful to Sihanouk, the sources say.

An estimated 60,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops are deployed in areas of eastern Cambodia adjacent to South Vietnam. The Cambodian army totals about 35,000 men, most of them ill-equipped and poorly trained.

The timing of Sihanouk's declaration and the Hanoi statement appeared to indicate that the prince has been assured by North Vietnam that its armed force would move in his behalf against his successors. The consequences of such a move, observers submit, would be to ignite a wholesale war in Cambodia, perhaps prompting its new leaders to seek U.S. support.

Though China has so far refrained from comment, the fact that Sihanouk's statement was issued from Peking immediately makes suspect the Phenom Penh report that Chinese support has been thrown over to the new Cambodian regime.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Strong northwesterly winds developed in coastal areas of British Columbia in the wake of Monday's disturbance but winds were gradually abating in all areas this morning. Clearing also occurred overnight and sunny weather was expected in most areas today and Wednesday as a strong ridge of high pressure builds over south western B.C.

However, Pacific disturbances will move across the Charlottes bringing rain to the north coast tonight and again late Wednesday.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

Doctors know that changes from hot to cold, from wind to calm, from rain to dryness and back again work as a stimulant to our bodies. And that's why people who live on the North American continent have more get-up-and-go than people almost anywhere else in the world.

When people from Canada and the United States visit their cousins overseas the inhabitants there are very much impressed by the great energy and enthusiasm displayed by the North Americans. They have more bounce.

The characteristic may be due in part to good health, but mostly it is a result of the weather we have here. The inhabitants of this continent are the result of the greatest selective migration of people in recorded history. They found a very stimulating climate. A new kind of culture developed that was based to a very great extent on that climate.

As a result, we became a people who just couldn't be anything else but active and enthusiastic.

Fist Fight Averted As PM, CNTU Clash

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's patience was tested, perhaps to the limit, Monday as labor leader Michel Chartrand directed a spray of unprintable insults at Mr. Trudeau and the cabinet.

The fusilade came before, during and after a meeting at which the Confederation of National Trade Unions, a Quebec-based labor federation, presented its annual brief to the federal government.

The prime minister wheeled around, took a step towards Mr. Chartrand, and said: "I don't need anyone to protect myself from you."

Mr. Chartrand, president of the 67,000-member Montreal council of the CNTU, describes himself as a socialist and has supported Quebec separatist movements. Last December he was acquitted on a charge of sedition arising from a speech he made about the Quebec government's controversial language bill.

TO LOSE CONTRACT

The CNTU represents 450 mail truck drivers in Montreal who will lose their jobs next week when the postal contract of G. Lapalme Inc., their employer, expires.

About 100 drivers paraded before Parliament Monday, accusing Postmaster-General Eric Kierans of trying to break the union and put them out of work.

As the union leaders filed into the committee room, most put aside their placards but Mr. Chartrand unfurled his. It bore a symbol of the separatist Parti-Quebecois.

Mr. Kierans just grinned as Mr. Chartrand suggested that he should be jailed for delaying the mails.

Mr. Chartrand called Mr. Trudeau and Labor Leader Bryce Mackasey "glorified slaves of the United States."

He addressed Mr. Trudeau in English, a separatist insult to French-speaking Canadians who are federally-inclined. Mr. Trudeau told him to "speak proper French."

CNTU President Marcel Pepin began reading the brief but was constantly interrupted by his voluble subordinate. When Mr. Mackasey asked Mr. Chartrand not to interrupt, Mr. Chartrand shouted "go to hell" repeatedly at the federal labor minister.

OFFERS TO TOSS HIM OUT

"If you want him thrown out, we'll do it," Mr. Trudeau said to Mr. Pepin, who replied that Mr. Chartrand was his right-hand man. He succeeded in quieting him and read the brief.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson then made some remarks. Mr. Chartrand told him to speak in French and Mr. Pepin again stepped in to quiet him.

As the meeting ended, Mr. Chartrand accused Mr. Trudeau of having a British Columbia youth thrown in jail for insulting him. Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Chartrand was inventing things.

"You are raping the population," Mr. Chartrand replied. "I don't lie. You, you are a Christ of a liar.

"You are a slave of the United States . . . too slack to discuss true problems."

At a preliminary hearing in Vancouver Aug. 22, Justice of the Peace Don Stewart, rejected the complaint, saying evidence was "inconclusive."

Jesmer testified that the prime minister had hit him after Jesmer called him a creep.

Mr. Chartrand referred to the mail truck drivers and last months' Canadian unemployment figures.

"You are a gang of prostitutes," he said of the cabinet. "The prostitutes are more respectable because they are useful."

"You are a genuine fanatic," Mr. Trudeau said.

"I'm not a fanatic," Mr. Chartrand yelled. "You, you're out of your mind, my friend."

Mr. Trudeau was walking out the door, where two uniformed Commons guards had been standing throughout the meeting, when Mr. Chartrand made the reference to goons.

"Go away with your goons. You put guys in jail, you threaten to beat them up when you are up on stage. . . ."

That was when Mr. Trudeau spun around.

. . . POLLUTION

under the 1967 Pollution Control Act.

None has been made to date.

The bill amending the act puts the onus for reporting pollution on polluters, with reporting deadlines of Jan. 1, 1971, for land and water pollution and Jan. 1, 1972, for air pollution, which is incorporated in the act for the first time.

The reports would be the basis for setting standards and licensing polluters on a priority basis as soon as possible in the future.

More than three hours of debate on the bill wound up with all parties giving it unanimous approval in principle, but with both New Democrats and Liberals complaining it doesn't go nearly far enough.

Corporations which might be fined $1,000 under the pollution act would be "lashed with a shoelace" McGeer told the House. The fines were entirely inadequate, he said, and for large companies it may be well worth the risk of being fined to continue to pollute.

PROSECUTION

He said companies in Vancouver burned waste after dark to escape detection by officials enforcing the anti-pollution laws.

On Campbell's prediction that B.C. would be the cleanest place in the world in five years, McGeer said:

"It was the cleanest place on earth until that minister and this government took over 18 years ago."

McGeer said the bill is a blank cheque — "It could be everything and it could be nothing." It says only what "may" be done, he said.

He warned of the danger of hepatitis outbreaks when raw sewage flows into waters like the Gorge Inlet and suggested B.C. study the solid waste treatment plants operated in 101 cities around the world.

Ernie Hall (NDP—Surrey) took issue with Mines Minister Frank Richter who said last week there appears to be little interest in exploration and drilling for oil in the Strait of Georoia.

"When you've plastered the map with (exploration) permits you don't need any more applications," Hall said, noting that Canadian Pacific Oil and Gas has placed orders for six underwater boats.

APPLICATIONS

"If that doesn't indicate that industry is interested, nothing does," he said, adding that "thousands of acres" of offshore exploration permits have been granted by both provincial and federal governments.

Hall called for use of "cost-benefit analysis" to decide whether permits should be granted for industrial pollution. This would ensure that all the future permits should be granted for industrial pollution. This would ensure that all the future costs to society and the environment are weighed against the gains of new industrial expansion.

. . . MAIL MEN

It takes about a year or two for a distribution clerk to become fully qualified at his job. In a big city like New York, he is responsible for learning between 5,000 and 10,000 "schemes," which can be local addresses, areas, or parts of states.

If the soldier-mailmen work at it long enough, they may match the post office standard of 40 letters sorted per minute. A machine can do it slightly faster, and it doesn't get tired. It takes several months to learn to operate a letter-sorting machine.

Officials hope that the army can do a passable job of moving priority mail, but they admit it won't be done as fast or as accurately as by a trained postal clerk.

Soldiers assigned to window duty will have to learn about the different classes of mail, postage rates and regulations as to size, contents and wrapping. A lot of mail will probably be held at the post office. There is a plan to package mail for large apartment buildings, deliver it, and leave the distribution to the management.

'Savage' Bullet Banned Outside But Used Inside U.S.

By WILLIAM RASPBERRY

WASHINGTON (WP) — You've heard the horror stories of what the so-called Dumdum bullet can do to a man. The stories are mostly true.

Dr. Margaret M. McCarron is assistant medical director at the Southern Cal Medical Centre, and she has seen the results.

A standard bullet, she says, "causes a very small wound which is rounded and well-defined, with an oval, slightly jagged exit wound."

"The entrance wounds from (These) bullets are frequently large and ragged, causing deep gaping holes in the flesh. As the bullet passes through the body, it not only perforates organs, but it also tears them."

Sounds pretty savage, doesn't it? And that's how it sounded to the farmers of the 1869 Declaration of St. Petersburg, Russia, who characterized the use of DumDums "contrary to the laws of humanity."

A number of other international agreements forbid the use of DumDum ammunition on the ground that it causes undue suffering. But international law has no bearing on the internal affairs of nations, as an aide to Rep. Leonard Farbstein (D-N.Y.) put it.

300 FORCES

And thus it is that the DumDum is being used by the White House police, the Secret Service, the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and some 300 police departments across the United States.

Farbstein is preparing an amendment to the 1969 Gun Control Act that would outlaw the sale and use of DumDum ammunition for handguns.

He can't expect favorable testimony from Assistant Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides, under whose supervision the Secret Service operates.

Rossides favors the use of hollow-points for (are you ready?) "humanitarian reasons."

In a letter to Farbstein, he lays the groundwork by discussing the use of expanding bullets by huntsmen.

DEATH LATER

"Game shot with a fully-jacketed bullet would be lost to the hunter about 80 per cent of the time," he said. "The animal would be capable of fleeing out of effective tracking range, only to die a slow and painful death, possibly days later.

"Animals shot with an expanding point bullet, on the other hand, if not killed immediately, are rendered incapable of escape and may be mercifully dispatched with a subsequent round."

Not that the Secret Service is in the game-killing business. Rossides said these are three main reasons why, after an 18-month study, the Secret Service decided to adopt the DumDums.

- The older ammunition has a higher ricochet potential, which poses a danger to innocent persons.
- Ricochet aside, a fully-jacketed bullet "can go completely through human adversary, and then pursue an unintended, erratic and perhaps lethal course to an innocent party. The hollow point bullet, on the other hand, stays within the adversary."
- The expanding round, because of its greater shock force, stops a man a lot quicker than a nonexpanding round.

Lawmen generally agree on the importance of knock-down power in stopping an assailant quickly. But they are far from being of one mind on the question of DumDums.

USE PROHIBITED

"We have expressly prohibited the use of hollow-point ammunition (because of) the severe tissue damage such rounds are capable of delivering." We have concluded that the .357 lead bullet is capable of delivering as much stopping power as a hollow-point bullet, but without subjecting the person fired upon to unnecessary body damage."

On the other hand, there's the statement of former chief Patrick L. Gerity of Cleveland:

"I would recommend any type of ammunition that would bring to a successful conclusion an incident where it is necessary to use this type of force.

Car Pollution To Be Curbed By Jan. 1

Target date for provincial controls on automobile emissions is Jan. 1, 1971, for new vehicles, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said Monday.

But there is no certainty at this time that the target will be reached, he said in remarks during debate on a bill amending the Motor Vehicle Act to place vehicle pollution control in provincial hands.

Both crank-case exhaust and evaporation emission would be subject to control, he said, noting that new American-model cars have had the crank-case devices in the past few years.

The debate on the bill was adjourned by the New Democrats for further study of the bill.

The New Democrats voted against second reading of a bill amending the Elderly Citizens' Housing Aid Act. It raises the initial local share of the cost of boarding home projects to a 15 per cent down payment from 10 per cent and increases the provincial share from one-third of the cost to 35 per cent.

Opposition Leader Dave Barrett said the bill is an example of the "tight money policy" on which Premier Bennett attacks Ottawa and the 15 per cent down payment would be "prohibitive."

LIBERAL SUPPORT

Bob Williams (NDP—Vancouver East) said the provincial government should take the initiative in elderly citizens' housing instead of leaving it to "service clubs and a few do-gooder organizations." The Liberals supported the government on the vote.

Second reading was also given to an act amending the Summary Convictions Act making it clear that a person arrested has the right to make a telephone call as soon as possible and within 12 hours.

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby-Edmonds) said he was afraid the 12-hour limit might become the "norm" rather than the outer limit but Peterson said instructions to police officers make clear arrested persons should be allowed to make more than one call as soon as possible.

Witness Has Number Of Escorts

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Just who were the officials who escorted three young Americans to the Canada-U.S. border at Huntingdon, B.C., on Jan. 25?

John Kreeger, 22, one of the three, testified at a special inquiry monday they were immigration department men—but later said under cross-examination he was not sure if they really were.

He said he asked for, and received, badge numbers from the men. A lawyer for the federal immigration department told the hearing the numbers are those of two RCMP constables.

The lawyer, E. M. Russell, did not identify the constables but asked if constables Stade and Thibault—no first names were given—were at the hearing. They were not.

The hearing was to continue today before county judge E. J. C. Stewart, appointed by the federal government after MPs raised the case in the House of Commons in February.

Toymakers Step Up Advertising

A new Market Research Handbook issued by Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows makers of toys and games stepped up their outlay on advertising to 6.5 per cent of the value of total sales in the middle of 1960s from less than one per cent a decade earlier.

It is the sharpest increase recorded among a selection of industries listed on the basis of spending for advertising in 1954 and 1965.

Breakfast - cereal manufacturers were spending more than 12 cents out of every sales dollar on advertising in 1965, soap and detergent makers just under 11 cents.

Makers of pharmaceuticals and medicines were listed as spending almost nine cents of the sales dollar on advertising in 1965, up from just over six cents a decade earlier.

Among other sharp increases during the period, breweries moved up to about 6½ cents from just over two cents. Clock and watch makers almost doubled their outlay in the decade to close to seven cents.

Burns Letter Cheers Solon

WASHINGTON (WP) — Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns has told a congressional committee that "a more normal growth rate" of 3 to 4 per cent in the money supply is a "reasonable" expectation this year.

He offered this judgment—which parallels the approximate suggestion of the Council of economic advisers and many other economists who have been urging a relaxation of tight money policies—in a letter to Sen. William Proxmire (D—Wis.).

In releasing the letter Saturday night, Proxmire said it is "one of the frankest and most useful economic documents that has come from a reserve board chairman in many years." It was a response to a request of the joint economic committee, of which Proxmire is vice-chairman.

Takeover of IPC Completed by Reed

LONDON (Reuters) — International Publishing Corp., the biggest publishing firm in Britain, was taken over Monday night by one of the companies which supplies it with paper.

The Reed Paper Group announced that more than 50 per cent of IPC's shareholders have agreed to Reed's offer of £11,000,000 ($28,600,000) for the company.

The final percentage of shareholders' agreeing to the Reed takeover will not be known until the counting acceptance offers is completed.

IPC publishes Britain's biggest daily, The Mirror, as well as two of its largest Sunday papers and more than 100 magazines.

When the deal was first announced, there was a flurry of speculation in Fleet Street that other newspaper groups would try to block the deal.

Among those mentioned as possible rivals to the Reed bid was Australian publisher Rupert Murdoch. But no rival bids were put up.

By PAT DUFOUR

Local groups and a host of individual volunteers are proving that amalgamation can work, at least with the Meals on Wheels program, which celebrates its fourth birthday this month.

●

Strong man in the organization is Saanich Alderman William Noel, who has been with the project since 1967 when the municipality appointed him chairman of health and social services.

"The program grew like Topsy and in September 1968 we re-organized in order to meet the growing need. The Douglas Rotary Club paid for a special oven which kept the meals warm in the commercial delivery van commissioned to cover the Saanich area — and still does. The ladies of the Christian Reform Church took on the chores of selling tickets and visiting those who wanted the meals."

There was no way to contain the need for the Meals on Wheels service, and soon people in Oak Bay, Victoria and Esquimalt were added to the rolls.

●

The Community Council of Greater Victoria took the project under its wing, still with Noel as its main pivot.

For a while, the meals were prepared at St. Joseph's Hospital until the case-load grew to about 160 a day, five times a week.

Then the meal preparation itself became another service to the community.

"As you know, they're now cooked and packaged for delivery at Goodwill Enterprises by trainees, who, once they graduate, are found similar self-supporting work in the community."

To help man the delivery service, more than 200 volunteer drivers use their cars to augment the delivery van, carrying hot meals all over town five days a week.

Mrs. Bob Peterson oversees delivery operations, working out of the Silver Threads' Centennial Square building. Many of the volunteers are Silver Thread members, others belong to church groups and other organizations.

Noel reports that it will take about $5,000 this year to keep the 60-cent meals wheeling to those who need them.

He's one third the way to making his budget.

"The Douglas Rotary have given us $1,000, the Saanich Lions have come through with $500, the Lake Hill Women's Institute sent us a cheque for $100 and we received another $100 from the Victoria Elks."

Burn-In Won't Get Fire Permit

The people who plan to burn their Hydro bills on the lawns of the Legislative Buildings Wednesday night might get burned themselves.

Victoria Fire Chief Eric Simmons said today he won't give anybody a permit to burn anything on the legislature lawns, or any other public place.

SIMMONS

And, a far as he knows, the organizers of the protest against increased electricity rates have not yet applied to light their fire.

Old age pensioners, members of the Victoria Low Income Group and others announced earlier they wanted to burn electricity bills as a last-ditch stand against a 15-per-cent increase in rates effective April 1.

One of the organizers said the protest would be "perfectly legal" and they planned to get a permit. Today, one official said the protest will go ahead anyway but possibly without a fire.

NOT IN PUBLIC

"We don't authorize such fires at any time. We don't allow fires in public places, only on a person's private property," he said.

One of the protest organizers said earlier that attention would also be directed at increases in water rates and bus fares and provincial welfare policies.

TOUGH TIME

Public Works Minister Chant, who has said the protesters have every right to use the lawns as long as no damage is done, conceded people on fixed incomes have "a devil of a time" coping with rising costs.

But he defended the electricity rate increase saying it means that costs will be back to where they were in 1961 and he asked what can be bought today at the price it was nine or 10 years ago.

A Low Income Group spokesman said this is scant comfort to those with budgets stretched beyond limits. The planned burn-in was the only means left to show how desperate things have become.

'I Was There' Meeting Opens Friday

The five-day Salvation Army Easter Holiness Convention starts Friday at the Empress Hotel with delegates expected from all over B.C. and parts of the United States.

The convention is the first of its kind held here and Salvation Army officials are hoping that success will make it an annual affair.

The theme of the convention is "I was there," the personal involvement of the Christian with the cross and resurrection.

Discussions will feature a team of six cadets from the Salvation Army's Toronto Training College and three speakers: Lt.-Col. Thomas Ellwood, Maj. Margaret Green and Capt. Bramwell Tillsley, all from Toronto.

'Beds Are More Urgent Than Future Road Needs'

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said today it "should be recognized that the provision of hospital beds is a pressing and immediate problem" and far more urgent than a solution to future traffic problems.

Loffmark said he plans to use all the resources at his disposal to acquire land and make it available for hospital use. He rejected any suggestion by critics of the government that a decision relating to the acquisition of land for St. Joseph's can or should be deferred.

The city of Victoria has proposed extending Belleville Street through lands held by St. Joseph's to help solve predicted traffic problems in the area.

"The fact is that traffic in the area is not a present problem," the health minister said in an interview. He said the extension plan is "unacceptable."

Loffmark said there were three alternatives open to the city.

- Defer traffic planning until such time as the need was a "present" one, and consider the Belleville extension as not necessary now;
- Establish plans to carry the extension of the road north of the hospital property as proposed by the hospital board;
- Re-examine the need to route traffic along Belleville. "It seems that bringing together the traffic from three or four streets could stand some further examination."

"In most cases municipal governments are more than anxious to have hospital expansion within their municipal boundaries and it is usual to find them willing to donate land for this purpose or make it available at very unusual prices," Loffmark said.

He added that he found the position of the city "most unusual" in this respect and said the city seemed to be taking this opportunity to make fiscal demands relating to traffic problems on the occasion of hospital expansion.

"I doubt that any hospital ever planned or constructed was ever planned or constructed without causing the municipality some inconvenience from the point of view of traffic patterns, but most would think of this as a minor consideration when compared to the very great advantages to its citizens which come from the added hospital facilities."

Ask The Times

Q. We have been watching the crane on the new apartment house on Michigan go up floor by floor. Can you tell us how they get it up each floor and how they get it off the top of the building when it has finished the job?—A.P.

A. The crane is raised, usually floor by floor, by means of a hydraulic jacking unit combined with a four-foot mast and two sets of jaws. As the crane is raised bars are inserted in special holes in the mast and so support the crane. The firm which is handling this 20-storey project estimates that it will be completed and the crane removed within the next few days. This will be done by disassembling the crane into small pieces and lowering them by derrick. A spokesman reports that the crane isn't as heavy as it appears. The whole front end weighs about 3,500 pounds, equal to the weight of a small car.

Police Recover 300 'Cartridges'

Saanich police have recovered about 300 of an estimated 400 explosive-type construction cartridges stolen at the weekend from the partly-built Arbutus Secondary.

Investigating officers discovered youngsters in the area had taken the cartridges used by builders to "fire" nails into concrete. Police are continuing the search for the remaining cartridges.

The school is located in the area bounded by Finnerty, Arbutus, Edgelow and Gordon Head and the general contractor is W. Campbell Ltd.

The cartridges disappeared, in an unknown number of boxes, from a storage centre in the building along with 200 packages of Jet Line, used in construction as a projectile but not considered dangerous by police because the detonation devices were not taken.

The cartridges look like .22 calibre short blanks with an exterior shell, the ends of which are colored yellow and red or brown and blue. The color indicates the explosive charge.

The cartidge packages are cardboard about two and one-quarter inches square and one and one-half inches deep and are colored blue and red.

Some smaller boxes, marked Star, are two inches square and one and one-quarter inches deep.

173 PINTS COLLECTED

The clinic was to remain at the Student Union Building today and Wednesday. Hours are 9:30 to 4 p.m.

The clinic is not limited to students.

Arts, Food Importer, Lee Kim, 75, Dies

Lee Kim, one of the oldest members of Victoria's Chinese community and a prominent businessman, died suddenly at his 2249 Lansdowne Road residence Monday.

Born in 1895 in Sunwai, China, he came to Victoria in 1908, and first worked with his uncle in the grocery business. Later he established his own firm, now known as Morley Ltd.—importers of Chinese arts, crafts and food.

He took an active part in community affairs and was extremely interested in education and Chinese culture. He was a past president of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association.

Since the establishment of the Chinese Public School in the early 1920s, he took an active interest in the institution and served on its board.

He is survived by his widow, Ida, at home; songs, Wing in Vancouver, Jack and Henry in Victoria; daughters, Mrs. Henry Ho (Sybil) Vancouver, and Mrs. Y. C. Lee (Fay), New Jersey; and 15 grandchildren.

WHEN THE BOOM IN holiday homes on wheels got under way, I wondered whether the tent would be banished from the campsites. But this hasn't happened, and spring's first long weekend should bring plenty of tent campers to our Vancouver Island provincial parks.

A Victoria supplier of outdoors gear has been getting rental orders for camp outfits well in advance of the holiday. As you've probably noticed, the department stores have also unfurled their canvas.

And even though we give driveway space to a trailer, the sight and the smell of those fabric abodes evokes a homesickness for holiday jaunts in which tents played a part.

Some of those trips were nothing less than idyllic. We would wake to sunshine, and the sun would stay with us until the moon took over. The breezes blew soft. If rain did fall, it was no more than a gentle shower.

Other trips were so grim that only muleheadedness kept us from breaking camp and clearing out. Instead of sunshine, a hopeless downpour that continued day and night. Also, wind — booming gusts that tested our tent seams and did their best to yank up deep-driven pegs.

So much for extremes. The average tent-camping junket — especially the early or late-season one — is much more likely to follow a middle course. Perhaps some rain, but with luck, enough sunshine to put a burnish on the world around you.

I'm telling you nothing here that seasoned campers haven't learned for themselves many times over. But this coming weekend, and on through the year, many a family will be trying what for its members will be a new venture.

For some, a tent trip will prove to be an enjoyable experience that deserves to be repeated. Others, like one family that set up camp in a drainage basin, won't be able to get home fast enough.

Had those unfortunates chosen a provincial park with its well-planned sites, they might have made out all right. But they decided to pitch their tent, a flimsy two-room affair, in a sandy hollow close up against a streamside cutbank.

The rain that began at dusk was nothing that a proper camp couldn't have weathered. But their tent roof, stretched tight, began to spray, and water seeped under the floor.

That family finished the night in a resort cottage, and headed for home next morning.

Enjoyable camping is in part a matter of attitudes. Those who set out determined that they're going to enjoy themselves usually do so. They're willing to accept conditions as they find them.

Also, they add to their pleasure and increase their comfort by going adequately equipped.

A large sheet of plastic guyed overhead will give your camp an outdoor kitchen-living room. Another sheet, or the same one if large enough, will waterproof even an indifferent tent roof.

Take along enough light rope or heavy cord to string it, and to provide a line for an absolute minimum of camp laundry.

Avoid gimmicks, which rearely earn their freight, but do see that everyone in the family has short rubber boots for beach-prowling or poking around in damp woods.

By the same token, a sweat-suit beats pajamas, and you'll be glad of such garb if required to escort leaky little vessels to a 'parks branch biffy in the small hours.

If you're new to camping, you'll learn from other campers.

Any number of times, we've had cause to bless the woman who fetched out her "survival kit" for inspection. A candy box held all the trivia that nobody things of until it's needed ... candle stub, pencil, safety pins, bandaids, buttons, needles, thread, clothes pegs, and other such. We fixed up a similar kit, and it goes along on all holiday journeys.

If you do decide to start the camping season early by heading out this Easter weekend, you stand to make a discovery that will add to your pleasure.

In this time of young leaves and quickening growth, the parks are purely lovely!

CAMPBELL CONDEMNS SCHOOL AGITATION

'Unethical' Pollution Teaching Hit

University and school teachers who get their students "uptight" about pollution were criticized in the legislature Monday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

A university teacher made a rather strong criticism of Campbell in return.

Campbell referred to "professors in their ivory towers and teachers in their cubicles" getting students "uptight" about pollution. The charge came during debate on second reading of a bill to amend the Pollution Control Act.

He cited a case where teachers had third-grade pupils sign technical letters protesting pollution and called it an "unethical and completely intolerable performance."

This "complete disregard" for teaching had "done damage" to youngsters and would take a long time to undo, Campbell said.

He also predicted B.C. will be the cleanest place on earth by 1975.

Bell, an assistant professor in the Uvic biology department, said if B.C. becomes the cleanest place on earth it will probably be due to increased concern for the environment by students and teachers.

"If he (Campbell) thinks his knowledge of ecological matters is sufficient for him to make decisions on his own, then I'd say it's time for us to kick him out of office," Bell said.

CAMPBELL
. . . teachers intolerable

"The evidence in existence now points pretty clearly to the direction the human race is heading.

"We're on a crash course unless we do something to remedy the situation.

"The only place this is going to happen is in the universities where these things are being studied and analysed then the conclusions brought forward and made public."

Bell said he is satisfied with the system under which the provincial government acts as B.C.'s ultimate resource manager.

But he added universities provide a service of inestimable value by studying proposed government action in an ecological context.

BELL
. . . minister irresponsible

Dr. Harold Knight, management consultant and member of the Greater Victoria School Board, said teaching of ecological concepts in schools is imperative.

"If you're not going to get it in the schools where are you going to get it?"

Knight does not want to see "pollution" studies as a subject isolated from other areas of knowledge.

A study of the environment or pollution should include a look at social and natural sciences where they are relevent, he said, to give students a "broad view" of where society is heading.

"What we've been doing in the schools and universities is to have students study these subjects in isolation, then expect them to have an integrated understanding.

"We have a tendency to pour a lot of information into these kids and forget the basics."

Knight said Campbell was educated under what he called "the old isolated system."

Books and periodicals on ecology and generally concerned with environment are now available in libraries of secondary schools in the Greater Victoria school district.

Liberal Leader Pat McGeer ridiculed the government's efforts so far in pollution control, suggesting a provincial holiday be declared when the first prosecution is made

EUROPE TODAY:

A Continent In Transition

Toronto Star Editor-in-Chief Peter C. Newman has recently returned from an observational tour of Europe. In this report, he assesses the political and ideological climate of that traditionally divided continent.

By PETER C. NEWMAN
Special to the Times

BERLIN — Even on a short month's journey across the face of Europe this winter's end, in fleeting conversations with politicians, students and academics, one can sense a mood of collapsing alliances, a twilight of ideology which is drawing the continent beyond the postwar period into a perplexing time of transition.

Newman

Nations which remained virtually frozen in their international alignments since the last shot of the Second World War was fired, a quarter of a century ago, suddenly are stirring with new ideas. The generation of Europeans now reaching for power is rejecting old causes and empty banners, searching for fresh loyalties and definitions that spring from roots firmer than the tattered residues of cold war cliches.

"The world is satiated with dogmas, but people are hungry for life," writes Milovan Djilas, the Yugoslav philosopher, accurately reflecting the change.

Young European politicians are emerging, ready to act more out of instinct and conscience than knowledge and experience — though only one certified member of this new breed, Willy Brandt of West Germany, has so far seized power.

What prompts this transformation is the collapse of confidence in nearly all of the touchstones that set the framework of Europe's postwar politics. A continent that was for 25 years transfixed by its stage-centre prominence in the contest between "the American way of life" and "the Communist conspiracy" has become restless and wants to turn in its cold-war costumes.

The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia in the summer of 1968 shocked the sensibilities of cold war warriors in both camps. It revealed the Warsaw Pact to be nothing more than an extension of Russian military colonialism and showed NATO U.S. military-industrial complex.

Both sides have been backing away from these alliances ever since. Russia no longer bothers to pretend that its partners have any meaningful say, and the United States admitted last week (through Secretary of State William Rogers, speaking on an English television program) that it would begin withdrawal of its NATO troops from Europe in 1971.

□ □ □

Though they haven't formally said so, the Americans intend to liquidate within the decade their NATO commitment, which now costs them $14 billion a year.

This is in line with President Richard Nixon's policy statement that "the postwar period in international relations has ended."

To many enlightened Europeans, this means a welcome end of the alliance, the decent burial of the indecent Pax Americana which implied an American moral superiority most Europeans have been unable to feel since the Vietnam war.

Sihanouk Declares He'll Fight Way Back

Times News Services

PEKING — Deposed Cambodian leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk said Monday he will try to fight his way back to power, and informed sources in the Cambodian capital, Phnom Penh, say the conservative bloc now in power will declare the nation a republic to forestall any nonviolent bid by Sihanouk to regain control.

The Japanese correspondents who reported Sihanouk's pledge to fight for his position quoted him as saying he will form a government of national unity and "national liberation army" that would have the support of "brother nations," presumably meaning North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

A statement issued by the rightist political-military block led by Gen. Lon Nol which ousted Sihanouk in a bloodless coup last week said he and all members of his family have been banned from returning to Cambodia.

Sources indicated he likely would be imprisoned if he set foot again on Cambodian soil.

DRAFT NOT READY

The Cambodian National Assembly in Phnom Penh is reported today to have discussed the possibility of establishing a republic to prevent a political return to power by Sihanouk, but no definite decisions were made.

The sources indicate the final draft of a bill to eliminate the monarchy has not yet been completed.

The stage for such a transition already was set with the dismissal of Sihanouk last Wednesday while he was in Moscow, reportedly seeking Soviet support for a voluntary withdrawal from Cambodia of invading North Vietnamese troops.

Sihanouk's declaration of war against the bloc which overturned his administration coincided with a statement from Hanoi that the Vietnamese communists will back

GERM WARFARE RENOUNCED

GENEVA (AP) — Canada promised today it will never use biological weapons and will use chemical weapons only if they are used against it or its allies.

Canadian delegate George Ignatieff told the 25-nation disarmament conference his government is ready to abandon the latter reservation if an effective worldwide ban on chemical warfare can be concluded.

He submitted a statement which said Canada "never has had and does not now possess any biological weapons and does not intend to develop, produce, acquire, stockpile or use such weapons at any time in the future."

It said Canada also has no chemical weapons.

(The Canadian government has recently admitted testing of germ and chemical weapons is being done at a Suffield, Alberta, military research station, but said the tests are necessary for defensive reasons.)

Soldiers Jeered By Mail Pickets

From AP-Reuters

Jeers from pickets and a few minor scuffles greeted troops as they sorted mail today following a mobilization call by President Nixon of more than 30,000 servicemen, national guardsmen and reservists to break the six-day strike.

However, the back-to-work movement in the strike gained strength as employees in Chicago and Detroit began returning to their jobs.

There were also some hints of a possible break in the key New York strike.

L. C. Burke, a Brooklyn station vice-president of Local 1 of the Mail Handlers Union, said: "We might as well go back, the soldiers are in and we don't have much to gain staying out."

Day of the Big 'Mail Massacre'

Times News Services

NEW YORK — "You've heard of the Boston massacre and the My Lai massacre. Now it's going to be the New York mail massacre."

So predicted Specialist Ronald Gray, 22, of Oxford, Miss., as he rolled out of bed for mail-sorting duty with fellow servicemen at New York postal facilities.

"It's going to be a farce. I'm a medic. I don't know a thing about the post office department. Nobody knows what they're supposed to do," he said.

At least one letter carrier agreed.

"The soldiers will be able to move mail, all right. They'll be able to move it from one side of the building to the other."

"I'm glad they're calling them out," said another striker. "They'll find out how valuable postal workers really are."

Priority Letters First

They will be expected to begin moving priority mail, drugs, welfare cheques, tax refunds and first-class letters, under the watchful eye of several thousand postal supervisors who have remained on the job. The soldiers — their number has not been disclosed—are also supposed to clear "illegal picket lines" so that regular employees who want to come back can do so.

New York City has about 34,000 mailmen—most of them out on strike. The president said as many troops as needed would be brought in, and that he would authorize soldiers for other post offices, if needed.

If the soldiers do what mailmen are supposed to do, they will drive trucks, unload mail trucks and airplanes, sort, distribute and prepare mail either for delivery or public pickup.

Face Nightmarish Task

Despite the optimism of some people that zip codes will make the job easier, the soldiers face a nightmarish chore that will make memorizing serial numbers and general orders simple by comparison. Most business mail is number-coded but it still must be broken down, several times, and the soldier-clerks will have to learn just what region, state, city and zone each of the 750-plus zip codes represents.

For a soldier who couldn't master zip codes, which one official said is equivalent to "memorizing the first two pages of the telephone book," letter distribution would be even tougher. He would have to resort to a map, and the directory of zip codes, a 500-plus-page manual in hard-to-read type.

There are several Johnson Citys, one in TX (Post Office talk for Texas), another TN, the abbreviation for Tennessee, and another named Johnston City, in Illinois (IL). If the zip code was 37601, the clerk would know it was Tennessee and route it to that sectional centre. If he didn't know zip, he would have to consult his directory.

Rail, Air Strikes Face U.S.

By The Associated Press

Here is the latest situation in work stoppages in progress or threatened against the United States mail, air traffic and rail systems:

Mail—About 30,000 military men went on mail-sorting duty in New York today after President Nixon declared a national emergency. At Chicago and elsewhere, mailmen began trickling back to work as the strike which has tied up the postal service across the country entered its sixth day.

Air Traffic — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has threatened to "withdraw services" from key terminals and snarl the orderly flow of airplanes Wednesday in a dispute over the transfer of three men from Baton Rouge, La.

Rails — Labor Secretary George P. Shultz has warned Congress that further delays in settling a 15-month-long railroad contract dispute could lead to a wildcat rail shutdown. Congress has ordered a 37-day strike moratorium that expires April 11 and is considering making the industry's last offer a binding settlement.

Mail Drivers Go to Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Twenty-eight truck drivers of G. Lapalme Inc. were sent to trail Monday after preliminary hearing on various charges of delaying the mails.

The men are among some 450 Lapalme employees who began work slowdowns Feb. 3 in protest against a postal department decision that Lapalme's exclusive contract to deliver mail in Montreal will be split among five other companies April 1.

Charges against the 28 include wilfully leaving behind mail bags, slowing down deliveries and abandoning trucks loaded with mail.

KIDNAPPED

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The air attache of the United States embassy in this Dominican Republic city was kidnapped today, the third American diplomat abducted in Latin America since September.

Commons Approves Pension Hike for Civil Servants, MPs

The pension increases, which apply to former MPs among others, had met with staunch opposition from the New Democratic Party.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) condemned the government for "going too far" on MPs' pensions in the bill, which now needs Senate approval and royal assent to become law.

Under the bill, MPs with two or more terms would be eligible for pensions from $6,300 to $13,500 depending on length of office, compared with the present range of $3,000 to $9,000.

To receive benefits, MPs will contribute 7½ per cent of their annual $18,000 income.

The Commons also approved a government motion to refer to a committee the question of radio and television broadcasting of proceedings in the House, Senate and committees.

The motion passed without debate although it has sparked stiff opposition criticism in the past.

A government motion also was approved empowering the Commons transport committee to travel to western Canada to hold hearings in its study of ground transport at airports.

Warren Allmand (L—Notre-Dame-de-Grace) said too many Commons committes have been leaving Ottawa when they could bring witnesses to the capital for less money and at the same time MPs could carry on their work here.

A routine review of the Representation Commissioner Act by a Commons committee was also approved by the House.

During degate on the pension increases, Mr. Knowles said that since Parliament had opened up its own pension act, the same treatment should be accorded to all other public servants.

The time had also come to review the old age pension, the War Veterans' Allowance Act and the Pension Benefits Standards Act.

The latter, which lays down standards for many pensioners outside direct government service, needs a cost-of-living escalation clause, Mr. Knowles said.

He said "it's a disgrace" that widowns of public servants who also draw war veterans' allowance will not enjoy the benefit of the increased pensions. Under the legislation, the allowances would be reduced by the amount the public service pensions are increased.

PASS TEXTILE BILL

The Commons later gave third and final reading to a government bill that would compel manufacturers to list the fibre content of their textile products.

Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) said the bill should go farther to give manufacturers instructions on the washing and care of their products.

She said the government's aim to have the manufacturers do this voluntarily is not good enough.

Earlier Monday, Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson introduced a dairy policy penalizing surplus production and holding the line on existing returns for farmers who stay within their quotas.

In the 1970-71 dairy year beginning April 1, Mr. Olson said, producers of industrial milk will get a subsidy of $1.25 a hundredweight on milk with a 3.5 per cent butterfat content, or 35.71 cents a pounds of butterfat for cream.

Mr. Olson said the government's major concern in the new policy is the continued dairy production in excess of the quantity that can be sold at Canadian price support levles.

Freighter Sinks

PATRAS, Greece (Reuters) — The Lebanese-registered Greek vessel San Gerassimo sank Sunday in heavy seas while under tow off the Ionian island of Zante, harbor authorities said here. The 20 crew members of the 2,700-ton vessel abandoned ship Saturday after fire broke out in the engine room. They were picked up safely by the Italian liner Esperia.

Eskimo Version

WHALE COVE, N.W.T. (CP) — O Canada will get a new verse—in Eskimo—if the committee planning events to mark the Northwest Territories centennial has its way. It is one of the projects being planned in this settlement of about 200 on the west coast of Hudson Bay, about 1,100 miles north of Winnipeg.

VISITORS BUREAU HEARS VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Value of Convention Centre Discussed

How a convention centre loses a nominal amount of money but earns dollars in the community was explained in detail to the 1970 annual meeting of Victoria Visitors' Bureau Monday at the Empress Hotel.

Penticton Mayor F. D. Stuart described the financing and operation of the Peach Bowl, four-year-old convention centre that has been drawing up to 19,500 delegates a year to the Okanagan.

In a community of 16,000 population, "conventions are a big part of our economic structure," Stuart said.

The Peach Bowl is owned and operated by the city of Penticton, which financed the $647,494 undertaking with the help of federal-provincial assistance programs for municipal developments.

NET COST

"We do realize a net operating loss in our Peach Bowl," Stuart said. But compensating for that is revenue to the accommodation industry estimated last year at $1.25 million, and to all other local businesses about $1.8 million.

There is almost unanimous agreement of Penticton Chamber of Commerce and the accommodation industry that the city should continue to promote convention business, and to increase business licence fees to produce more than $100,000 this year. Four years ago business licences brought in $54,500 and last year $94,600.

SUPPORT SEEN

"Someone would have to prove to me that financial support of an area such as this or Vancouver for such a facility is lacking," Mayor Stuart commented.

His comment was directed at the Victoria proposal to raise business taxes to support a convention centre in the capital city, which has 10 times the population of Penticton.

Penticton sets a nominal $50 a day rental on the Peach Bowl, making it competitive with Vancouver's privately-owned hotel facilities. The result is an operating loss of about $265 for the typical three-day convention. Last year it cost $51,283 to operate the bowl, Stuart said. Revenue for the period totalled $16,703, for a direct operating loss of $34,580.

Cost of operating a convention and tourist bureau to the city was $22,278, plus an average $7,000 given to the Chamber of Commerce for tourist promotion.

CONVENTION VALUE

The value of convention delegates to Penticton this year is expected to reach $4.8 million, up 54 per cent, or 438 per cent over 1966, the first full year of Peach Bowl operation.

Facilities are expected to have an $8 million potential value to the community.

The most important factor in development of the centre in Penticton was "selling the public" on the idea, Stuart said, and the then-mayor and council carried on an intensive public relations campaign. The result was 90 per cent support for the plan.

Accompanying Mayor Stuart was Les N. Lee, convention centre manager, who gave a pictorial presentation to the meeting.

Victoria city council was represented at the meeting by acting mayor Ald. Clyde Savage, who praised the visitors' bureau for "functioning the way a bureau should" through advertising, bringing tourists in, answering mail queries about the city, and looking after tourists when they arrive.

Success of visiting cruise liners during the past year was through the efforts of the bureau and greeting chairman Sam Lane, Savage said.

But in view of the benefit derived by all the municipalities of Greater Victoria, it is "not right" that the city of Victoria should shoulder the main expense, he said. Municipal resources should be pooled so that the tourist industry of the whole area may enjoy the results of promotion.

Recognition of his years in support of the bureau was accorded to ex-president Conway Parrott when Geoff Edgelow presented an inscribed silver tray.

A trip to San Francisco for two was won by Imperial Inn manager J. M. McCauley in a draw by deputy minister of tourist industry Ron Worley.

Directors elected for two-year terms are Douglas Abbott, Norma Fitzsimmons, Stan Mooney, Philip Holmes, Sam Lane, Alf Pettersen, Pat Frumento, Brian Roberts, Peter Tredgett and J. M. McCauley.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

REACH FOR THE TOP. 7:30 p.m., Channel 2. Victoria's Mount Douglas Senior Secondary School takes on Prince Rupert Senior Secondary. Terry Garner is the host.

RED SKELTON. 8 p.m., Channels 2 and 6; 8:30 p.m., Channel 7. Tony Sandler and Ralph Young appear, as foreign agents who infiltrate San Fernando Red's bogus spy school. In the silent spot, Red is a conventioneer nursing a bad hangover in his hotel room. Highlights of the hour include Tony and Ralph in the 59th Street Bridge Song, and again in Love of the Common People.

★ ★ ★

SPECIAL. 7:30 p.m., Channel 7. "The Eskimo: Fight for Life." This highly acclaimed film about life among the Canadian Eskimos was made several years ago for education purposes, and has now been edited down to proper TV length. It concentrates primarily on how these people thrive in perhaps the world's most difficult environment, and those who complain about our winter snowfalls should be fascinated. The film follows the Eskimos to their winter seal-hunting camp, which may soon be a thing of the past since modern civilization is even descending on the frozen north. What makes the film especially delightful is the fact that Eskimos—in contrast to their climate—are a very warm people.

★ ★ ★

THE MOD SQUAD. 7:30 p.m., Channels 4 and 8. "Call Back Yesterday." Good show, gives fans more background information on Pete Cochrane (Michael Cole). Pete takes up with an old girl friend who's being kept in the dark about a pressing family problem. In the process, Pete goes home after a long absence and shares a brief reunion with his understanding mother, played by Anita Louise in a rare TV appearance. The pace is slower than usual, but there's a tension-filled finale set in a chemicals plant.

★ ★ ★

JULIA. 8:30 p.m., Channel 5. "Sara's Second Part." This is the second half of Diana Sands' two-part guest appearance as would-be actress Sara Devine, Julia's spirited and aggressive cousin. Series fans will have a ball watching Sara conquering Hollywood, until Clyde Porter (Sugar Ray Robinson) comes on the scene.

★ ★ ★

THE GOVERNOR AND J.J. 9:30 p.m., Channel 7. Good spot for Tom Ewell, who pops up as Uncle Charley, a Drinkwater relative who invents toys and lacks financial backing. Uncle Charley tries to con the governor and almost lands the promise of another backer. Ewell walks off with the show as the others look on.

NET JOURNAL. 8:30 p.m., Channel 9. "Trial: The City and County of Denver vs. Lauren R. Watson." After yesterday's absorbing but slow-paced opener devoted to the important issue of the selection of the jury, matters heat up today as Police Officer Robert C. Cantwell testifies regarding Watson's actions on the day he was arrested. There are some noteworthy discrepancies as the story unfolds, and trained mystery fans, to say nothing of other interested viewers, will find this "real life" courtroom drama vastly more interesting than Perry Mason's fictions which have been such a TV staple for many years.

★ ★ ★

McQUEEN. 9 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. Veteran performer Cathleen Nesbitt stars as a little old lady who's always disappearing, much to the consternation of her family. All she wants is a home of her own, and when McQueen can't help, she's upset.

★ ★ ★

BOLD ONES. 9:30 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. Leslie Nielsen and Hari Rhodes star as law enforcers in A Good Case of Whisky at Christmas Time. The plot revolves around a sticky political case involving graft in a renewal project and the death of a prominent contractor.

★ ★ ★

TUESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES. 9 p.m., Channel 5. "Exodus" (1960) Part II (repeat). The concluding portion of Otto Preminger's film adaptation of the Leon Uris novel stresses the hardships and the strengths of the Jewish refugees in the new Israel. Pictorially splendid with its vivid on-location photography enhanced by fine performances from a large cast headed by Paul Newman, Eva Marie Saint, Sal Mineo and Lee J. Cobb, it suffers mainly from unnecessarily lengthy action scenes which would have been much more effective if cut.

★ ★ ★

CBS NEWS. 10 p.m., Channel 7. "60 Minutes." The range of interest on the show tonight is considerable. One segment, for example, is long on glamor, as correspondent Charles Collingwood visits with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton at Miss Taylor's mother's home in Bel Air, California. Another segment finds correspondent Harry Reasoner in Israel, reporting on the status of the war first-hand, and interviewing Prime Minister Golda Meir as well as a minority member of Parliament, Uri Avneri, who opposes the hard line Israel is taking. A third segment turns to the domestic scene with an investigative report on the safety of the automobile at the time of its purchase.

TONIGHT'S MOVIES

5:30 Channel 12: The Last Hunt (1955 Western), Robert Taylor, Stewart Granger, Lloyd Nolan. The last of the great herds of buffalo are tracked down by two hunters in the 1880's.

7:30 Channel 12: The Destructors (1968 Adventure), Richard Egan, Patricia Owens. Low-budget espionage melodrama pivoting on the theft of some laser rubies.

8:30 Channel 4: Three's a Crowd (ABC Minimovie), Larry Hagman, Jessica Walter. Complications arise when a "dead" wife turns up.

9:00 Channel 5: Exodus (conclusion). Paul Newman, Eva Marie Saint. A story about the violent birth of modern Israel.

11:40 Channel 2: The Pusher (1960 Drama) Kathy Carlyle, Douglas F. Rodgers. Tragic discovery of dope addiction leads to solution of two murders.

12:00 Channel 6: Frankenstein Conquers the World (1964 Japanese Science-Fiction). Monsters at large in Japan.

Campbell Slams Pollution Agitation

TEACHER 'ETHICS' HIT

University and school teachers who get their students "uptight" about pollution were criticized in the legislature Monday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

A university teacher made a rather strong criticism of Campbell in return.

Campbell referred to "professors in their ivory towers and teachers in their cubicles" getting students "uptight" about pollution. The charge came during debate on second reading of a bill to amend the Pollution Control Act.

He cited a case where teachers had third-grade pupils sign technical letters protesting pollution and called it an "unethical and completely intolerable performance."

This "complete disregard" for teaching had "done damage" to youngsters and would take a long time to undo, Campbell said.

He also predicted B.C. will be the cleanest place on earth by 1975.

Bell, an assistant professor in the Uvic biology department, said if B.C. becomes the cleanest place on earth it will probably be due to increased concern for the environment by students and teachers.

CAMPBELL
. . . teachers intolerable

"If he (Campbell) thinks his knowledge of ecological matters is sufficient for him to make decisions on his own, then I'd say it's time for us to kick him out of office," Bell said.

"The evidence in existence now points pretty clearly to the direction the human race is heading.

"We're on a crash course unless we do something to remedy the situation.

"The only place this is going to happen is in the universities where these things are being studied and analysed then the conclusions brought forward and made public."

Bell said he is satisfied with the system under which the provincial government acts as B.C.'s ultimate resource manager.

But he added universities provide a service of inestimable value by studying proposed government action in an ecological context.

BELL
. . . minister irresponsible

Dr. Harold Knight, management consultant and member of the Greater Victoria School Board, said teaching of ecological concepts in schools is imperative.

"If you're not going to get it in the schools where are you going to get it?"

Knight does not want to see "pollution" studies as a subject isolated from other areas of knowledge.

A study of the environment or pollution should include a look at social and natural sciences where they are relevent, he said, to give students a "broad view" of where society is heading.

"What we've been doing in the schools and universities is to have students study these subjects in isolation, then expect them to have an integrated understanding.

"We have a tendency to pour a lot of information into these kids and forget the basics."

Knight said Campbell was educated under what he called "the old isolated system."

Books and periodicals on ecology and generally concerned with environment are now available in libraries of secondary schools in the Greater Victoria school district.

Liberal Leader Pat McGeer ridiculed the government's efforts so far in pollution control, suggesting a provincial holiday be declared when the first prosecution is made

EUROPE TODAY:

A Continent In Transition

Toronto Star Editor-in-Chief Peter C. Newman has recently returned from an observational tour of Europe. In this report, he assesses the political and ideological climate of that traditionally divided continent.

By PETER C. NEWMAN
Special to the Times

BERLIN — Even on a short month's journey across the face of Europe this winter's end, in fleeting conversations with politicians, students and academics, one can sense a mood of collapsing alliances, a twilight of ideology which is drawing the continent beyond the postwar period into a perplexing time of transition.

Newman

Nations which remained virtually frozen in their international alignments since the last shot of the Second World War was fired, a quarter of a century ago, suddenly are stirring with new ideas.

The generation of Europeans now reaching for power is rejecting old causes and empty banners, searching for fresh loyalties and definitions that spring from roots firmer than the tattered residues of cold war cliches.

"The world is satiated with dogmas, but people are hungry for life," writes Milovan Djilas, the Yugoslav philosopher, accurately reflecting the change.

Young European politicians are emerging, ready to act more out of instinct and conscience than knowledge and experience — though only one certified member of this new breed, Willy Brandt of West Germany, has so far seized power.

What prompts this transformation is the collapse of confidence in nearly all of the touchstones that set the framework of Europe's postwar politics. A continent that was for 25 years transfixed by its stage-centre prominence in the contest between "the American way of life" and "the Communist conspiracy" has become restless and wants to turn in its cold war costumes.

The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia in the summer of 1968 shocked the sensibilities of cold war warriors in both camps. It revealed the Warsaw Pact to be nothing more than an extension of Russian military colonialism and showed NATO U.S. military-industrial complex.

Both sides have been backing away from these alliances ever since. Russia no longer bothers to pretend that its partners have any meaningful say, and the United States admitted last week (through Secretary of State William Rogers, speaking on an English television program) that it would begin withdrawal of its NATO troops from Europe in 1971.

Though they haven't formally said so, the Americans intend to liquidate within the decade their NATO commitment, which now costs them $14 billion a year.

This is in line with President Richard Nixon's policy statement that "the postwar period in international relations has ended."

To many enlightened Europeans, this means a welcome end of the alliance, the decent burial of the indecent Pax Americana which implied an American moral superiority most Europeans have been unable to feel since the Vietnam war.

Sihanouk Declares He'll Fight Way Back

Times News Services

PEKING — Deposed Cambodian leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk said Monday he will try to fight his way back to power, and informed sources in the Cambodian capital, Phnom Penh, say the conservative bloc now in power will declare the nation a republic to forestall any nonviolent bid by Sihanouk to regain control.

The Japanese correspondents who reported Sihanouk's pledge to fight for his position quoted him as saying he will form a government of national unity and "national liberation army" that would have the support of "brother nations," presumably meaning North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

A statement issued by the rightist political-military block led by Gen. Lon Nol which ousted Sihanouk in a bloodless coup last week said he and all members of his family have been banned from returning to Cambodia.

Sources indicated he likely would be imprisoned if he set foot again on Cambodian soil.

DRAFT NOT READY

The Cambodian National Assembly in Phnom Penh is reported today to have discussed the possibility of establishing a republic to prevent a political return to power by Sihanouk, but no definite decisions were made.

The sources indicate the final draft of a bill to eliminate the monarchy has not yet been completed.

The stage for such a transition already was set with the dismissal of Sihanouk last Wednesday while he was in Moscow, reportedly seeking Soviet support for a voluntary withdrawal from Cambodia of invading North Vietnamese troops.

Sihanouk's declaration of war against the bloc which overturned his administration coincided with a statement from Hanoi that the Vietnamese communists will back

GERM WARFARE RENOUNCED

GENEVA (AP) — Canada promised today it will never use biological weapons and will use chemical weapons only if they are used against it or its allies.

Canadian delegate George Ignatieff told the 25-nation disarmament conference his government is ready to abandon the latter reservation if an effective worldwide ban on chemical warfare can be concluded.

He submitted a statement which said Canada "never has had and does not now possess any biological weapons and does not intend to develop, produce, acquire, stockpile or use such weapons at any time in the future."

It said Canada also has no chemical weapons.

(The Canadian government has recently admitted testing of germ and chemical weapons is being done at a Suffield, Alberta, military research station, but said the tests are necessary for defensive reasons.)

Soldiers Jeered By Mail Pickets

From AP-Reuters

Jeers from pickets and a few minor scuffles greeted troops as they sorted mail today following a mobilization call by President Nixon of more than 30,000 servicemen, national guardsmen and reservists to break the six-day strike.

However, the back-to-work movement in the strike gained strength as employees in Chicago and Detroit began returning to their jobs.

There were also some hints of a possible break in the key New York strike.

L. C. Burke, a Brooklyn station vice-president of Local 1 of the Mail Handlers Union, said: "We might as well go back, the soldiers are in and we don't have much to gain staying out."

Day of the Big 'Mail Massacre'

Times News Services

NEW YORK — "You've heard of the Boston massacre and the My Lai massacre. Now it's going to be the New York mail massacre."

So predicted Specialist Ronald Gray, 22, of Oxford, Miss., as he rolled out of bed for mail-sorting duty with fellow servicemen at New York postal facilities.

"It's going to be a farce. I'm a medic. I don't know a thing about the post office department. Nobody knows what they're supposed to do," he said.

At least one letter carrier agreed.

"The soldiers will be able to move mail, all right. They'll be able to move it from one side of the building to the other."

"I'm glad they're calling them out," said another striker. "They'll find out how valuable postal workers really are."

Priority Letters First

They will be expected to begin moving priority mail, drugs, welfare cheques, tax refunds and first-class letters, under the watchful eye of several thousand postal supervisors who have remained on the job. The soldiers — their number has not been disclosed — are also supposed to clear "illegal picket lines" so that regular employees who want to come back can do so.

New York City has about 34,000 mailmen — most of them out on strike. The president said as many troops as needed would be brought in, and that he would authorize soldiers for other post offices, if needed.

If the soldiers do what mailmen are supposed to do, they will drive trucks, unload mail trucks and airplanes, sort, distribute and prepare mail either for delivery or public pickup.

Face Nightmarish Task

Despite the optimism of some people that zip codes will make the job easier, the soldiers face a nightmarish chore that will make memorizing serial numbers and general orders simple by comparison. Most business mail is number-coded but it still must be broken down, several times, and the soldier-clerks will have to learn just what region, state, city and zone each of the 750-plus zip codes represents.

For a soldier who couldn't master zip codes, which one official said is equivalent to "memorizing the first two pages of the telephone book," letter distribution would be even tougher. He would have to resort to a map, and the directory of zip codes, a 500-plus-page manual in hard-to-read type.

There are several Johnson Citys, one in TX (Post Office talk for Texas), another TN, the abbreviation for Tennessee, and another named Johnston City, in Illinois (IL). If the zip code was 37601, the clerk would know it was Tennessee and route it to that sectional centre. If he didn't know zip, he would have to consult his directory.

By The Associated Press

Here is the latest situation in work stoppages in progress or threatened against the United States mail, air traffic and rail systems:

Mail—About 30,000 military men went on mail-sorting duty in New York today after President Nixon declared a national emergency. At Chicago and elsewhere, mailmen began trickling back to work as the strike which has tied up the postal service across the country entered its sixth day.

Air Traffic — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has threatened to "withdraw services" from key terminals and snarl the orderly flow of airplanes Wednesday in a dispute over the transfer of three men from Baton Rouge, La.

Rails — Labor Secretary George P. Shultz has warned Congress that further delays in settling a 15-month-long railroad contract dispute could lead to a wildcat rail shutdown. Congress has ordered a 37-day strike moratorium that expires April 11 and is considering making the industry's last offer a binding settlement.

Mail Drivers Go to Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Twenty-eight truck drivers of G. Lapalme Inc. were sent to trail Monday after preliminary hearing on various charges of delaying the mails.

The men are among some 450 Lapalme employees who began work slowdowns Feb. [illegible] in protest against a postal department decision that Lapalme's exclusive contract to deliver mail in Montreal will be split among five other companies April 1.

KIDNAPPED

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The air attache of the United States embassy in this Dominican Republic city was kidnapped today, the third American diplomat abducted in Latin America since September.
